

INDEX

A

Abrami, P. C., 28, 61, 169
Activity ratios, 131
Adobe Systems, Inc., 244
Ahern, T. C., 29
Animations, 92–93
Application practice, 56
Application sharing, 8, 56, 71, 72, 115;
and complex visuals, 95
Apprentice, The, 213, 219
Appropriate content, 150
Armstrong, K., 22
Asscher, J., 132
Assignments, 138–139
Asynchronous e-learning, 6, 9, 10–12, 233; appropriate content, 150; converting existing courses, 238; drill-type practicing, 73, 158–159; media choices, 184–185;

and pacing, 59, 60; principle-based task learning, 74; and problem-based learning
(PBL), 211–212; and synchronous technologies, 185

Attention: focusing, 36–37; and interactions,
115–116; split, 155; through visuals, 95–96
Attitude interactions, 122
Audio interactions, 8, 113; explanations, 50–51;
social presence, 51–52; and visuals, 97
Auditory centers and learning, 35, 49–52
Automatic tasks, 71

B

Bank of America, 222
Basic principles for success, 232–236
Bazilian, H., 180
Bechtel Corporation, 223, 225
Behavior interactions, 121–122

- Beishuizen, J., 132
- Bentley Systems, Inc., 66, 151
- Bernard, R. M., 28, 40
- Bichelmeyer, B. A., 15
- Blackboard tool, 6
- Blended learning solutions, 14–15, 59, 183–187; media blends, 45, 219–221, 233
- Body language equivalents, 57–58
- Boeing Company, The, 22
- Borders, C. M., 15
- Borokhovski, E., 28
- Bradesko, M., 191
- Breakout rooms, 8, 61–62, 114–115, 125;
guidelines for use of, 135–137
- Brief sessions, 150–151
- Bucceri, M., 116
- Burgess, J.R.D., 13, 16
- C
- Case-based learning, 213–215, 220
- Cedar Interactive, 225
- Centra Software, 19, 116, 151, 178
- Cerpa, N., 189
- Chandler, P., 51, 189
- Chat areas, 7, 52–53, 65–66, 75; as distractions, 154–155; paired exercises, 139; use of,
110–112
- Cisco Learning Solutions, 191
- Clark, R. C., 4, 9, 13, 16, 33, 59, 61, 64, 69, 78, 82, 90, 94, 97, 101, 117, 123, 135, 141,
143, 152, 158, 162, 189, 191, 209, 210,
212, 243
- Closed-ended questions, 134
- Cognitive load, 36, 38; and handouts, 189–191; instructor overload, 159–161, 164–165; and interaction staging, 117–118; less-is-more techniques, 149–155, 163; long-term memory, 149; managing, 147–165, 236; memory support, 157–158; minimizing with visuals,
96–97; and overload, 147–148, 154, 164–165; practice problems, 158; and problem-based learning (PBL), 210; split attention, 155; and technology use, 192; working memory, 38, 149
- Cohen, E. G., 61
- Coherence principle, 153
- Collaborative learning, 4, 61, 206
- Comfort with technology, 192–193
- Communication modes, 30–31, 35–36, 41; alternatives, 53–54; between instructor and participants, 8; and learning environments, 47, 48–54. See also audio interactions;
content; visual information
- Competition for interactions, 141–142
- Complex visuals, 95
- Computer Supported Page Turning (CSPT), 28
- Concepts, as content type, 69; described, 78; and facts, 77–78; and inductive learning, 79,
132; teaching, 79–80, 81
- Consensus applications, 247
- Content: appropriate, 150; and inductive learning, 132; just-in-time sequence, 155; knowledge, 70; need-to-know, 150;
redundant, 151–152; segment and sequence, 154; skills/tasks, 70; types of, 69–83
- Context of practice exercises, 56
- Converting course to e-learning, 236–241
- Cooper, S., 29
- Coordinate relationships, 92
- Creation of virtual class: from face-to-face course, 236–241; from scratch, 241–242
- CSPT (Computer Supported Page Turning), 28
- Cueing tools, 95–96
- D
- D'Apollonia, S., 61, 169
- Decorative visuals, 91, 99
- Deliverables, product, 215–216
- Deloitte Inc., 19
- Demographic interactions, 121
- Demonstration method of instruction, 70
- Design resources, 217–218

- Deterding, R., 214
- Direct messaging areas, 7
- Directive architectures, 32, 33, 38, 41, 205–206
- Distractions, 142–143; chat areas, 154–155; e-learning environments, 36–37
- Distributed practice events, 57–59
- Divided attention, 96
- Dolezalek, H., 3, 4
- Dotolo, J., 126
- Drexler, P., 222
- Drill-type practicing, 73, 158–159
- E
- Effect sizes, 28–29
- E-learning environments, 10; distractions, 36–37
- Electronic distance learning, 28–30
- Elluminate, 116, 160; Experts' Forum, 101, 125; random distribution tool, 136; virtual classroom tool, 3
- Elshout-Mohr, M., 132
- Emoticons, 170
- Engagements. See interactions and learning
- Ertmer, P. A., 37
- Experts: creative interactions, 124–127, 243–247; effective use of virtual classroom, 64–67; information and training, 42–43; interactions, 141–143; introductions, 178–181; learner backgrounds, 83; lesson design, 196–203; problem-based learning (PBL) models, 222–227; role of virtual classroom, 17–23; students and instructors, 163–165; visuals, use of, 101–105
- Explanatory visuals, 92–95
- Exploratory architecture, 32–34
- Extraneous interactions, 118
- Extrinsic feedback, 218
- F
- Face-to-face classrooms, 9–10, 12, 233; collaborative activities, 61; converting from, 236–241; effect sizes, 28–30; and pacing, 59–60, 62; rehearsal options, 54; and social presence, 169
- Facilitators. See instructors
- Facts, as content type, 69, 79; and concepts, 77–78; described, 78; and inductive learning, 132; teaching, 81
- Faded worked examples, 59, 118, 158
- Fair Lending Challenge program, 222–223, 224
- Fallow, K., 93, 142
- Far-transfer tasks. See principle-based tasks
- Feedback, 207, 218–219
- Fetal-alcohol spectrum disorder (FASD) case, 214, 216, 217–218
- Financial benefits of virtual classroom, 13
- Finn, A., 151, 154
- First impressions, 167–168, 180–181. See also introductions
- Fix, K., 126, 200, 243
- Fiset, M., 28
- Fletcher, J. D., 90
- Flow diagram, 77
- Focusing attention, 36–37
- Folsom, T., 13, 63, 163
- Format of practice exercises, 56
- Foshay, W. R., 82
- Freitas, P., 92
- G
- Gallini, J. K., 49
- Galvin, T., 3
- Games, effective use of, 152–153, 246
- Graphic treatments, 95–96; effective, 99, 101–103; and mental models, 97–98
- Grolier Publishing, 222
- Ground rules, 173
- Group activities, 60–61; management of, 62, 139; principle-based tasks, 73, 74; problem-based learning (PBL), 211–212; social presence, 62
- Guided discovery architecture, 32, 33, 38, 41–42. See also problem-based learning (PBL)
- Gunarwardena, C. N., 169

H

Han, S., 4
 Handouts, 189–191, 240–241
 Hanley, R., 160
 Harp, S. E., 48, 99, 153
 Hasham, Z., 116
 Hazeltine, J. E., 30, 40, 62, 233
 Hegarty, M., 92, 93
 Hill, J. R., 4
 Hmelo-Silver, C. E., 212, 222
 Hodges, A., 214, 218, 221, 222
 Hofmann, J., 123, 141
 Huang, B., 28
 Hung, W., 219, 222
 Hyder, K., 194, 196, 199

I

Icons, 7–8, 125; emoticons, 170
 ILink Communications, 141
 Inclusive responses, 134–135
 Independent Design Group Los Angeles, Inc. (IDGLA Inc.), 103
 Individual responses, 134–135
 Inductive events, 130–133
 Inductive learning, 32, 132; for concepts, 79; and instructive learning environments, 205–206
 Instructional architectures, 31, 32–34, 35–36, 41
 Instructional components of teaching, 28–30, 34; and learning events, 95–99
 Instructional methods, 31, 35–36, 41; content types, 69–83; demonstration, 70; lesson plans, 80–81; training media, 46; white boards, 37, 50, 170–171
 Instructive learning, 32; and inductive learning environments, 205–206
 Instructor-paced media, 184–187
 Instructors: challenges, 160, 191–192; introductions, 168, 173–174; overload, 159–161, 164–165; preparation, 191–195, 200–203; role in learning, 5; training, 194, 196–200, 202–203

Integrated content, 154, 156
 Interaction principles, 54, 55; distributed practice events, 57–59; mirror job requirements, 55–57; options, 107–115
 Interactions and learning, 115–120, 234; assignments, 138–139; competition for, 141–142; creative uses of, 124–127, 239–240, 242; and distractions, 142–143; extraneous interactions, 118; facilities for, 170–171; inductive events, 130–133; introductions, 168; lead-in questions, 133; memory, 116–117, 172; responses, inclusive and individual, 134–135; types of interactions, 121–123. See also breakout rooms
 Interface, 7; effectiveness of, 10–12, 99–100, 103–105
 Interpretive visuals, 94–95
 InterWorks, 222
 Intrinsic feedback, 218
 Introductions, 168; informative, 173; instructors, 168, 173–174; with interactive facilities, 170–171; learner backgrounds, 171–172; length of, 174–176; sample outline for, 176–177, 179; social presence, 169–170; structuring, 178–179, 240; telephone, 188; visual, 174, 175
 Intuit, Inc., 63, 163

J

Jackson, J., 59
 Jig saw learning, 61
 Job relevant virtual events, 233–234, 243–244
 Johnson, K., 63
 Jonassen, D. H., 135, 222
 Jones, B., 214, 218, 221, 222
 Just-in-time sequence content, 155

K

Kamin, C., 214
 Kellogg, R. T., 190
 Kiewra, K. A., 190
 Kirschner, P. A., 28

- Knowledge content, 70
Knowledge interactions, 122–123
Kobayashi, K., 190
Kwinn, A., 143, 243
- L
- Laffey, J., 135
Lan, W. Y., 29
“Las Vegas” approach, 48, 49, 62, 97, 153
Lead-in questions, 133
Learner backgrounds, 83, 171–172
Learner-centered instructional environment, 5
Learner-paced media, 184–187
Learning agents, 51
Learning and memory, 34–35
Learning events: creation of, 231–247; environments, 47, 48–54; facilities and social presence, 47, 60–62; and interactions, 115–120; and visuals, 35, 90–99, 241–242
Learning management, 39–40; and interactions, 120
Lee, C. B., 135
Less-is-more principle, 97, 149–155, 163
Lesson plans, 80–81
Lester, J. C., 51
Liu, X., 29, 42
Live Meeting tool, 3
Long, K. K., 16
Long-term memory, 34–35, 36; and cognitive load, 149; and interactions, 116–117, 172; and mental models, 38, 97; and visuals, 96
Lou, Y., 28, 61, 169
Lyons, C., 90, 94, 101
- M
- Management skills in learning, 39–40
Marsh, J., 222
Mayer, R. E., 40, 48, 49, 51, 59, 61, 64, 79, 82, 90, 99, 135, 153, 162
McLuhan, M., 42
McNeill, M., 151, 160, 186
Meaning taking and making, 5, 129–130, 132
Media: blends of, 14–15, 45, 219–221, 233; comparisons of, 27–30; effective use of, in learning, 45–48, 62, 184–187, 242
Memory support: cognitive load, 157–158; visual information, 118
Mental load. See cognitive load
Mental models, 36; construction of, 38–39; and graphics, 97–98; long-term memory, 38, 97
Meta-analysis, 28
Meta-cognition, 36
Microsoft, 215
Microsoft Learning, 63
Microsoft Office Version 12 tool, 4
Mirror job requirements, 55–57
Mnemonic visuals, 91
Modality principle, 49, 50; and auditory learning, 52; and pacing, 60; and redundancy, 151–152; and visuals, 97
Moreno, R., 51
Mosher, B., 4, 63
Motivation for learning, 36, 40
Mulliner, B., 178, 186, 194, 201
Multimedia window, 88, 89
Multitasking, dangers of, 5, 6
- N
- Narayanan, N. H., 92
Near-transfer tasks. See procedural tasks
Need-to-know content, 150
Nelson, L. M., 4
New virtual classrooms. See virtual classrooms
Newby, T. I., 37
Newlin, M. H., 169
Nguyen, F., 9, 59, 64, 78, 97, 117, 152, 158, 162, 189, 209, 210, 212
NIL, 191; training, 151
Noell, A., 19, 20
Note taking, 189–190

Notifications, pre-session, 188–189, 202
Nutt, B., 126

O

Ochoa-Alcantar, J. E., 15
Office Safety program, 223, 224
Olive, T., 190
Online School (OLS), 125
Open-ended questions, 134
Organizational graphics, 92
Orientation letters, 241
O’Sullivan, P., 214
Overload: cognitive load, 147–148, 154,
164–165; instructors, 159–161, 164–165
Overt learner involvement, 61; rehearsal, 54–55

P

Pacing, 47, 59–60, 62
Packaging the virtual classroom session, 183–203
Paired chat exercises, 139
Participant interactions, 8, 139–140; and inductive events, 133; response facilities, 117–118
Pepperdine University, 164
Perney, D., 116, 125
Piolat, A., 190
Planning sessions, 193–194; for a course,
215–221
Polling buttons, 7, 63, 108–110, 125, 246
PowerPoint, 244–245
Practice events, 57
Practice of procedural tasks, 118
Practice problems, 158
Pre-engineering events, 232–233
Pre-session communication, 187–189; notifications, 188–189, 202; telephone introductions,
188; tool orientation, 187–188
Prewrite, 163–164, 201–202
Principle-based tasks, 70; group activities, 73, 74;
and inductive learning, 132; teaching,
73–75, 81

Principles, as content type, 69

Prinsen, F., 132

Prior knowledge, 37, 172; and interactions,
116–117

Problem-based learning (PBL), 205–227;
asynchronous and synchronous e-learning,
211–212; and case-based learning, 213–215,
220; cognitive load, 210; deliverables,
215–216; described, 206–208, 213; design resources, 217–218; effectiveness of, 212; evaluation of, 218–219; examples of, 222–227; for experienced learners, 210;
far-transfer tasks, 211; feedback on,
218–219; fetal-alcohol spectrum disorder
(FASD) case, 214, 216, 217–218; and group work, 211–212; media blend, 219–221;
planning a course, 215–221; task inputs,
216–217; trigger events, 219; when to use,
210–212

Procedural tasks, 69; and inductive learning, 132; practice of, 118; and principle-based tasks,
70; teaching, 71–73, 81

Processes, as content type, 69, 75–76; instructional methods, 76–77, 81; and learning goals, 207

Producers, 159–160

Product deliverables, 215–216

Psychological functions of visuals, 90

Pulichino, J., 3, 4, 5, 10, 13, 17, 148

Q

Questions: closed- and open-ended, 134; lead-in, 133

R

Random distribution tool, 136

Receptive architectures, 32, 33, 38, 39

Red Pepper Consulting, 200, 243

Redundancy principles, 97, 151–152

Reflection, 207–208

Rehearsal, 47; interactions, promotion through,
119; overt options, 54–55

Relational graphics, 92

- Remote instructor-led training, 5
- Renkl, A., 94
- Representational visuals, 91
- Response facilities, 107–115; participant orientation, 117–118
- Responses, inclusive and individual, 134–135
- Retrieval cues, 55
- Role playing, 126–127
- Rosenheck, M., 225
- Rossett, A., 244
- Russell, J.E.A., 13, 16
- Ryce, P. C., 244
- S
- Sahleen, S. J., 111, 124, 170
- Sample outline for introductions, 176–177, 179
- Savery, J. R., 206, 222
- Schembri, A., 103
- Scripting, 200
- Seductive details, 153
- Segment and sequence content, 154
- Serbun, S., 4, 66, 151
- Session lengths, 150–151
- SFPD Homicide, 222–223
- Shaw, S. M., 29, 42
- Silber, K. H., 82
- Sims, V., 90
- Simulations, 246
- Skills/tasks content, 70
- Small group work, 10
- Smith, R. D., 16
- Social presence, 9–10, 30, 234–235, 244; and audio learning, 51–52, 113; face-to-face classrooms, 169; group cohesion, 62; introductions, 168, 169–170; and learning facilities, 47, 60–62
- Software tools, 107–115. See also tools for virtual classrooms
- Sparks, P., 164
- Spires, H. A., 51
- Split attention effect, 155, 156, 158
- Sponge approach to learning, 129–130
- Steinmetz, R., 42
- Stelnicki, M. B., 82
- Stephenson, J. D., 63
- Stepich, D. A., 37
- Stern, P., 83
- Still shots and animations, 92–93
- Stonebraker, P. W., 30, 40, 62, 233
- Structured argumentation, 61
- Subordinate relationships, 92
- Supporting knowledge, 77–78
- Surface features of visuals, 90
- Surgient Corp., 151, 160, 186
- Sweller, J., 9, 50, 51, 59, 64, 78, 97, 117, 152, 158, 162, 189, 209, 210, 212
- Sword, W. A., 214, 218, 221, 222
- SWOT evaluation, 247
- Synchronous e-learning technologies, 3–4; and asynchronous learning, 185; and problem-based learning (PBL), 211–212; rehearsals, 54. See also asynchronous e-learning
- T
- Tajika, H., 90
- Tallent-Runnels, M. K., 29
- Tansey, J., 64
- TappedIn, 165
- Task deliverables, 215–216
- Task inputs, 216–217
- Technology: comfort with, 192–193; problems, 187–188, 201
- Telephone introductions, 188
- Tell-all learning design, 131
- Text, power of, 52–53, 63
- Text usage, 52–53
- Thomas, J. A., 29
- Tindall-Ford, S., 50, 51
- Titsworth, B. S., 190
- Tobias, S., 90

- Tool orientation, 187–188
- Tools for virtual classrooms: Blackboard, 6; Elluminate, 3, 136; Live Meeting, 3; Microsoft Office Version 12, 4; WebCT, 6; WebEx, 3, 22, 23; Windows Vista, 4
- Training Systems Design, 42–43
- Transfer of learning, 36, 39; with interactions, 119–120; with visuals, 98–99
- Transformational visuals, 92–93, 95
- Trigger events, 219
- U
- Univar USA Inc., 124
- University of Phoenix Online, 180
- V
- Valaitis, R. K., 214, 218, 221, 222
- Vertex Solutions, 142
- Vidal, E., 17
- Video clips, 88, 89, 98
- Virtual classrooms, 3–23, 195; audio and, 52; definition of, 6–7; educational uses of, 4–6; features of, 7–8; instructional reasons for, 13, 14; and media blends, 14–15, 184–187; pre-session communication, 187–189; text and, 52–53; users speak, 63; visuals in, 49, 50; when to use, 12–14; work-to-ice learning benefits, 4
- Virtual Training Management System (VTMS), 186
- Visual information, 49, 235; attention and memory, 95–96; with audio explanations, 50–51; audio interactions, 97; displays, 8, 10–12, 88; handouts, 189–191, 240–241; interface with the virtual classroom, 99–100; introductions, 174, 175; and learning, 35, 89–99, 241–242; learning events, 95–99; and memory support, 118; the message, 87–105; modality principle, 97; power of, 48–49; processes instruction, 76–77; tips for, 102–103, 238–239; useless, 90–91; video clips, 88, 89, 98; web-cams, 153–154
- Voice, power of, 52, 153, 235; recordings of events, 245–246. See also audio interactions
- W
- Wade, A., 28
- Wallet, P. A., 28
- Wang, A. Y., 169
- Web tours, 88, 89
- Web-cam usage, 153–154
- WebCT tool, 6
- WebEx tool, 3, 22, 23; Experts' Forum, 17, 18, 102, 143
- Wells Fargo, 63, 186, 194; Experts' Forum, 64, 178, 201
- White boards, 7, 8, 21, 245; effective use of, 87, 112–113; instruction support, 37, 50, 170–171; processes instruction, 76–77; text usage, 53
- Wiley, D., 4
- Windows Vista tool, 4
- Woodward, A., 90
- Working memory, 34–35; and cognitive load, 38, 149; faded worked examples, 59; focusing attention, 36–37; and interactions, 116–117, 172; and practice events, 57; and rehearsals, 119; visual vs. auditory learning, 50–51; and visuals, 96
- Wozney, L., 28
- Y
- Yang, C. C., 135
- Yeager, M., 141
- Younger, M., 214
- Z
- Zittle, F. J., 169