

Subject Index

- ABCDE method of disputing pessimism, 239
- ABC rational-emotive therapy (RET), 104–105
- Abilities, in GAPS grid, 58
- Absent without leave leadership, 136–137
- Accountability:
in development pipeline, 54–56
in effective coaching, 360–361
in humanistic approach, 35–36
- Action planning, 159
- Actions:
action stage of TTM, 172, 175
execution, in Awareness-Choice-Execution cycle, 38
in behavior-based approach, 59–60
in effective coaching, 360, 361, 362
- Action science, in cognitive coaching, 110–113
- Adult development theory, 77–102
case studies, 97–100
constructive-development theories, 78–93
use of, 93–96, 101
- Adult learning approach, 193–217
case studies, 205–214
IMPACT model, 204–205
key concepts, 194–204
- Adventure-based approach, 277–311
background, 278–281
case studies, 299–304
emergence of adventure therapy, 277, 293–295 emotional safety and, 281–283 framework for processing, 283–287 group-based, 291–293
metaphors and learning transfer, 287–290 model of, 295–299
skills required for, 290–291
- Agency, in Complex Adaptive Systems, 320–322
- Alexander, Graham, 201
- All-or-nothing thinking, 105
- Amplifying loops. See Feedback
- Andragogy, 193, 194–197
- Anxiety, conversations and, 334
- Approaches to Happiness questionnaire, 250
- Approach goals, 161
- Arrogance, 135
- Attractors, in Complex Adaptive Systems, 323–327
- Authentic Happiness Coaching (AHC) model, 220, 234–243 tests used in, 249–250
- Authenticity, of practitioner, 23–24, 31
- Autobiography, in adult learning approach, 199–200
- Avoidance goals, 161
- Awareness, in effective coaching, 18–19, 360, 361
- Awareness-Choice-Execution (ACE) cycle of change, 36–38
- Behavior-based approach, 51–76
assumptions about coaching, 51–53
case studies, 60–73
evidence for effectiveness, 68–69
key concepts, 53–60
- Bob, case study:
about, 8–10
adult development theory, 99–100
adult learning approach, 211–214
adventure-based approach, 302–304
Authentic Happiness Coaching, 245–249
behavior-based approach, 71–73
cognitive coaching approach, 115–121
cultural perspective, 267–270
humanistic approach, 43–48
integrative goal-focused approach, 177–183
psychoanalytically informed coaching, 144–146
systemic perspective, 349–352
- Bonita, case study:
about, 10–13
adult development theory, 97–99
adult learning approach, 205–210
adventure-based approach, 299–304
Authentic Happiness Coaching, 243–245
behavior-based approach, 55, 58, 60–71
cognitive coaching approach, 121–125
cultural perspective, 270–273
humanistic approach, 38–43
integrative goal-focused approach, 183–184
psychoanalytically informed coaching, 146–147
systemic perspective, 344–349

- Brainstorming, in positive psychology approach, 231
- Bridges' Transition Model, 170–171
- Capabilities, in development pipeline, 54–56
- Case conceptualization, 176–177
- Case studies. See Bob; Bonita
- Catastrophizing, 106
- Center for Epidemiological Studies Depression Scale (CES-D), 250
- CEO form of understanding, 81, 87–89, 98, 100
- Change:
  - Awareness-Choice-Execution cycle of change, 36–38
  - client as source of, in humanistic approach, 32–33
  - models of, in goal-focused coaching, 170–176
- Chaos, in Complex Adaptive Systems, 319–320
- Choice:
  - in Awareness-Choice-Execution cycle, 37–38
  - in behavior-based approach, 59–60
  - in humanistic approach, 26–27, 35
- Client:
  - as source of change, 32–33
  - as whole and unique, 33–34
- Client-practitioner relationship, 20–24
- Coaching, nature and definitions of, 2–4
- Cognitive coaching, 103–127
  - action science and, 110–113
  - case studies, 115–125
  - cognitive distortions, 105–106
  - cognitive therapy background, 104–106
  - ladder of inference, 114–115
  - mental models, 113–114
  - schema therapy, 107–108
  - for school administrators, 108–110
- Cognitive distortions, 105–106
- Collaboration:
  - in effective coaching, 360–361
  - in practitioner-client relationship, 21
- Commitment, in effective coaching, 360, 361, 362
- Competing goals, 161
- Complex Adaptive Systems (CAS), 315–327
  - agency, emergence, and feedback, 318, 320–322
  - attractors and sensitivity to initial conditions, 323–327
  - dynamic equilibrium and edge of chaos, 319–320
  - holism and interdependence, 316–317
  - openness, transformation, and entropy, 317–318
- Congruence, of practitioner and client, 23–24, 31
- Connectivity, conversations and, 334
- Constructive-developmental theories, 78–93
  - CEO form of understanding, 81, 87–89
  - Elder form of understanding, 81, 89–93
  - Journeyman form of understanding, 81, 84–87
  - Prince/Princess form of understanding, 81, 82–84
- Constructivist learning theory, in adult learning approach, 194–195
- Contemplation stage, of TTM, 172, 174–175
- Contextual approach, 355–365
  - in evidence-based practice, 358–360
  - medical model, 355–357
  - principles of effective coaching, 360–362
  - role of expert knowledge in, 362–364
  - themes and principles of meta-model, 357–358
- Conversations, organizations as, 330–333, 341–342
- Countertransference, 139–144
- Cultural intelligence (CQ), 262–263
- Cultural perspective approach, 255–275
  - acceptance of self, 263–265
  - case studies, 267–273
  - Cultural intelligence (CQ), 262–263
  - cultural orientations framework, 258–261
  - definitions of culture, 257–258
  - differences in cultures, 256–257
  - Global Coaching Process, 265–267
- Denial and splitting, 137–138
- Development pipeline, in behavior-based approach, 54–56, 63–64
- Dewey, John, 278
- Directiveness, in practitioner-client relationship, 21–22
- Distal goals, 159–160
- Diversity, conversations and, 334
- Doing, changing of, 157
- Dynamic equilibrium in Complex Adaptive Systems, 319–320
- Edge of chaos, in Complex Adaptive Systems, 319–320
- Effective action, in behavior-based approach, 59–60
- Einstein, Albert, 91, 113
- Elder form of understanding, 81, 89–93
- Emergence, in Complex Adaptive Systems, 320–322
- Emotions:
  - emotional intelligence, 262
  - emotional reasoning, 106
  - flow of information and, 333–336
  - safety and, 281–283
  - value of positive, 222–227
- Empathy, of practitioner, 22–23, 30–31
- Engaged Life, in Authentic Happiness Coaching model, 235, 239–240
- Entropy, in Complex Adaptive Systems, 317–318
- Epistemic meaning perspectives, 197
- Equilibrium, in Complex Adaptive Systems, 319–320
- Erickson, Milton H., 156

- Evidence-based coaching:
 contextual approach in, 358–360
 defined, 4–6
- Execution, in Awareness-Choice-Execution cycle, 38
- Experiential learning, 194, 200–201
- Feedback:
 in Complex Adaptive Systems, 318, 320–322
 in GAPS grid, 58–59
 in positive psychology approach, 228
- Feed-forward loops, in Complex Adaptive Systems, 320–322
- “Flow” state, 227–229
- Fordyce Emotions Questionnaire, 249
- Forms of understanding, 79–81
- Fortune teller error, 106
- GAPS grid, in behavior-based approach, 56–59
- General Systems Theory, 314–315. See also Systemic perspective
- Genuineness, of practitioner, 23–24, 31
- Global Coaching Process, 225, 265–267
- Goals. See also Integrative goal-focused approach
 in behavior-based approach, 59–60
 in GAPS grid, 56–59
 in humanistic approach, 35–36
- Goleman, Daniel, 262
- Group-based adventure coaching, 291–293
- GROW model, 201
- Growth-oriented view, in humanistic approach, 19–20, 34–36
- Habit strength, 173
- Happiness. See Positive psychology approach
- Higher-order goals, 160
- Holistic view:
 in Complex Adaptive Systems, 316–317
 in humanistic approach, 24–26
- Hope, based in reality, 229–231
- Human experience range, in humanistic approach, 25
- Humanistic approach, 17–50
 case studies, 38–48
 coaching applications, 29–30
 guiding principles, 30–38
 key concepts, 19–27
 research evidence, 27–29
 therapy differs from coaching, 17–19
- IMPACT model, 204–205
- Individual uniqueness, in humanistic approach, 25–26
- Information. See Knowledge
- Informed-practitioner model, 4
- Insight:
 in development pipeline, 54–56
 in GAPS grid, 56–59
- Integrative goal-focused approach, 153–192
 case conceptualization and, 176–177
 case studies, 177–187
 goal types, 158–162
 models of transition and change, 170–176
 self-concordant goals, 162–170
 self-monitoring issues, 154–156
 solutions focus, 156–158
- Interdependence, in Complex Adaptive Systems, 316–317
- Isomorphs, transfer of learning and, 288–290
- Journeyman form of understanding, 81, 84–87, 98
- Kegan, theory of development, 78, 80, 85, 92, 96
- Kolb, learning cycles, 200–201
- Knowledge. See also Learning role of, 362–364
 in systemic perspective, 338–342
- Knowles, six principles of andragogy, 195–196
- Labeling, in cognitive coaching, 106
- Ladder of inference, in cognitive coaching, 114–115
- Language, solution focus and, 157–158
- Learning:
 contracts for, 195–197
 goals and, 162
 styles of, 194, 201–202
- Lifecourse development, 194, 202
- Lower-order goals, 160
- Maintenance stage, of TTM, 173, 175
- Meaningful Life, in Authentic Happiness Coaching model, 235, 240–242
- Mental filter, 105
- Mental models, in cognitive coaching, 113–114
- Metacognition, 155
- Metaphoric transfer of learning, 286–290
- Mezirow, Jack, 197, 198
- Mind reading, 106
- Motivation:
 in adult learning approach, 203
 in development pipeline, 54–56
 in GAPS grid, 56–59
- Multiple functions, organizational diagnosis and, 132
- Narcissism, 135–136
- Object relations, in psychoanalytically informed coaching, 137–139
- Openness, in Complex Adaptive Systems, 317–318
- Organizational diagnosis, in psychoanalytically informed coaching, 131–133

- Organizational learning disabilities, 110–112
- Outcome goals, 160
- Outdoor education. See Adventure-based approach
- Outward Bound, 278–279
- Overgeneralization, 105
- Pattern matching, organizational diagnosis and, 132
- Perceived locus of causality model, 163, 164
- Performance goals, 161–162
- Personality style-goal alignment, 167–170
- Planning conversation, in cognitive coaching, 109
- Pleasant Life, in Authentic Happiness Coaching model, 235, 236–239
- Positive, disqualifying of, 106
- Positive and Negative Affect Schedule (PANAS), 249
- Positive psychology approach, 219–253
  - Authentic Happiness Coaching model, 220, 234–243
  - case studies, 243–249
  - research evidence for, 222–234
- Power, conversations and, 334–335
- Practitioner-client relationship, in humanistic approach, 20–24
- Precontemplation stage, of TTM, 172, 174
- Preparation stage, of TTM, 172, 175
- Prince/Princess form of understanding, 81, 82–84
- Problem-resolving conversation, in cognitive coaching, 109
- Projective identification, 138–139
- Proximal goals, 160
- Psychoanalytically informed coaching, 129–149
  - case studies, 144–147
  - conceptual framework, 130–133
  - object relations, 137–139
  - psychoanalytic theory, 133–137
  - transference and countertransference, 139–144
- Psychological meaning, 198
- Psychological urgency, organizational diagnosis and, 132
- Real-world practice, in development pipeline, 54–56
- Recycling, in Awareness-Choice-Execution cycle, 38
- Reflecting conversation, in cognitive coaching, 109
- Reflective practice, in adult learning approach, 193, 198–200
- Reflective spaces, in coaching model, 338–342
- Regression, 133–135
- Relapse stage, of TTM, 173, 175–176
- Responsibility:
  - in effective coaching, 360, 361–362
  - in humanistic approach, 26–27
- Results, in effective coaching, 360, 361, 362
- Risk, in adventure-based approach, 280–281
- Rogers, Carl, 20, 22, 24, 27, 342
- Satisfaction with Life scale, 250
- Schema therapy, 107–108
- Schlossberg's Adaptation to Transitions Model, 171–172
- School administrators, cognitive coaching for, 108–110
- Self-acceptance, 263–265
- Self-actualization, 18, 20
- Self-concordant goals, 162–170
- Self-efficacy, 173, 194, 203–204
- Self-monitoring issues, 154–156
- Seligman, Martin, 220, 221
- Sensitivity, in Complex Adaptive Systems, 323–327
- "Should" statements, 106
- SMART goals, 160
- Sociolinguistic meaning, 197–198
- Strengths, diagnosing of, 231–234
- Subject-Object Interview (SOI), 85, 96
- Success factors, in GAPS grid, 58
- Systemic perspective, 313–354
  - case studies, 343–352
  - Complex Adaptive Systems (CAS), 315–327
  - complexity and leadership, 327–330
  - model of coaching engagement, 337–343
  - systems as conversations, 241–242, 330–336
- Thematic unity, organizational diagnosis and, 132
- Therapy, differs from coaching, 17–19
- Transactional analysis (TA), 263–265
- Transfer of learning, 286–290
- Transference and countertransference, 139–144
- Transformative learning, 193, 197–198
- Transformation, in Complex Adaptive Systems, 317–318
- Transtheoretical Model (TTM) of change, 172–176
- Unconditional positive regard, of client by practitioner, 23, 31
- Values and motivation, in adult learning approach, 194, 203
- Values in Action (VIA) strengths survey, 231–234
- Viewing, changing of, 157
- Vindictiveness, 135
- von Bertalanffy, Ludwig, 314
- Wheel of life exercise, 231