

CONTENTS

PREFACE	xiii
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	xxv
PART I: QUESTIONS AND OBSERVATIONS	1
INTRODUCTION	3
Endnote	7
1 A PSYCHOLOGICAL PERSPECTIVE ON BUSINESS FAMILIES	9
Psychodynamic and family systemic perspectives	10
Key ideas from the psychodynamic approach	11
The role of transference and countertransference	12
The family systemic perspective	17
A therapeutic alliance	20
A summing-up	21
Endnotes	22

2 THE CHALLENGES OF LOVE AND WORK	25
Conflicting goals in the family business	26
The three-circles model	29
How conflict can develop	32
Endnotes	38
3 FAMILY BUSINESS PRACTICES: ASSESSING STRENGTHS AND WEAKNESSES	39
The interface of business and family practices	42
Assessing the health of a family business	60
Endnotes	62
PART II: REFLECTION AND LEARNING	63
4 THE LIFE CYCLE AS AN ORGANIZING CONSTRUCT	65
The multiple life cycles of the family business	66
Key models of human psychological development	68
The family life cycle	75
Carter and McGoldrick's family-based life cycle model	76
Applying the life cycle in family businesses	78
Endnotes	81
5 NARCISSISM, ENVY, AND MYTHS IN FAMILY FIRMS	83
Personality types	83
Managerial implications of dysfunctional narcissism	90
The importance of individuation	91
The family firm as transitional object	92
The power of envy	95
Games families play: the role of family myths	103
The impact of family myths on the family business	105
Summary	109
Endnotes	109

6 THE ENTREPRENEUR: ALONE AT THE TOP	111
Common personality characteristics of founder–entrepreneurs	111
Larry Ellison and Oracle	113
Deciphering the inner theater of the entrepreneur	117
Common defensive structures in founder–entrepreneurs	128
Maintaining the balance	130
Endnotes	131
7 LEADERSHIP TRANSITION: REPLACING A PARENT AS CEO	133
Options for tackling the succession problem	133
The inheritance	135
Psychological pressures on new leaders	136
Staying on course	144
Endnotes	146
8 A SYSTEMIC VIEW OF THE BUSINESS FAMILY	147
A two-way relationship	147
The evolution of systems theory	148
The development of family systems theory	149
The family systems proposition	154
Family scripts and rules	156
Family scripts in the family business	157
A practical example of family systems thinking	162
Endnotes	163
9 DIAGNOSING FAMILY ENTANGLEMENTS	165
The family genogram	166
The Circumplex Model of marriage and family systems	172
Differentiation of self from family of origin	176
Two family stories	178
Endnotes	185

PART III: INTEGRATION AND ACTION	187
10 ADDRESSING TRANSITIONS AND CHANGE	189
Lewin's ideas on change	189
A model of individual change	191
Major themes in the individual journey toward change	196
The process of change within organizations	200
The change process in families	205
Family focus or organization focus?	212
Endnotes	213
11 THE VICISSITUDES OF FAMILY BUSINESS	215
The Steinbergs: A study in self-destruction	215
The immigrant dream	216
His mother's son	218
The entrepreneur's vision	220
Sam as a family business leader	220
The entrepreneur's dilemma: Passing the baton	223
The next generation	224
Irving Ludmer: Play it again, Sam	225
A family systems perspective on the Steinbergs	228
The effects of Sam Steinberg's inner world on the family business	233
The inner theater of Sam's daughters	236
What if?	239
Endnotes	240
12 PUTTING FAMILY BUSINESS INTERVENTION INTO PRACTICE	241
The Family Action Research Process	242
The succession conundrum	243
The role of the outside adviser	271
Advice to families seeking help	271
The benefits of a psychodynamic systems perspective	274

---

Final words	275
Endnotes	276
APPENDIX 1: DEVELOPING A BUSINESS FAMILY GENOGRAM	277
Creating the genogram	277
Therapeutic applications of the genogram	278
Using the genogram to identify family scripts and themes	279
How genograms improve communication	282
Endnote	282
APPENDIX 2: THE CLINICAL RATING SCALES AND THE CIRCUMPLEX MODEL	283
How the CRS work	284
Endnote	287
INDEX	289

<http://www.pbookshop.com>

<http://www.pbookshop.com>