

Contents

Preface	ix
1 The Need for a Full View Integrated Approach	1
1.1 The Motivation	1
1.1.1 The Need for a New Paradigm	1
1.1.2 The Answers from FVITA	4
1.2 The Necessity of FVITA	6
1.3 Random Walk?	9
2 Two Basic Elements of Market Dynamics	11
2.1 Oscillators—An Overview	11
2.2 The Oscillator of Choice—Stochastics	19
2.3 Trend Indicator—Moving Average	21
2.4 Trend Indicator—Moving Average Convergence/Divergence	24
2.5 Adaptive Trend Indicators	29
2.5.1 Kaufman’s Adaptive Moving Average	30
2.5.2 Chande’s Variable Index Dynamic Average	31
2.5.3 Mart’s Master Trading Formula	31
2.6 Adaptive Oscillators	33
2.7 Other Tools of Technical Analysis	33
3 Multi-Screen Systems	35
3.1 The Need for Multi-Screen Approaches	35
3.2 Triple Screens	37
3.3 Extended Interval Charts in FVITA—Daily and Up	39
3.4 Intra-Day Interval Charts in FVITA	45
4 Bounded, Interval-Specific Bull and Bear Markets	49
4.1 Interval-Specific Bull and Bear Market I—Concept	49
4.2 Interval-Specific Bull and Bear Market II—Criteria	52
4.3 Interval-Specific Bull and Bear Market III—Limits of Counter-movements	57
4.4 Triple Screen System Under Full View	66
5 Market Turning Points and Duration of Pauses	69
5.1 Support and Resistance	69
5.2 Bollinger Bands	74
5.3 Waves	78
5.4 Turning Points after Eight and R9 Observations	85
5.5 Thrust	86
5.6 Type I, II, and III Pauses	91

6	Trend Reversals vs. Temporary Countertrends	101
6.1	Trend Reversals	101
6.2	Without the Two-Day Chart	108
6.3	Running Space after Trend Reversal	109
6.4	Temporary Countertrends	111
6.5	Straight Pauses	122
6.6	Exception 1: Composite Bottoming-Up and Composite Topping-Off	128
6.7	Exception 2: Approaching the Turning Point	130
6.8	Relationship between Low- and High-Order Signals	132
6.9	Trading Strategies on Trend Signals	134
7	Pauses Under Different Market Conditions	141
7.1	Pausing-Down from a Historical New High	142
7.2	Pauses Against Temporary Trends	145
7.3	Trading Strategies for Pauses	151
8	Case Studies	157
8.1	Case 1: The 2007 Financial Market Crisis—DJIA	158
8.2	Case 2: The 2000 High-Tech Bubble and its Aftermath—DJIA	162
8.2.1	The Formation of the High-Tech Bubble—DJIA	163
8.2.2	The Bursting of the High-Tech Bubble—DJIA	167
8.3	Case 3: The 1990 Bubble and Fall—Topix	172
8.3.1	The Formation of the 1990 Bubble—Topix	172
8.3.2	The Bursting of the Bubble in 1990, I—Topix	177
8.3.3	The Bursting of the Bubble in 1990, II—Topix	183
8.4	Case 4: The 2003 Rebound and 2007 Crash	187
8.4.1	The Rebound in 2003—Topix	187
8.4.2	The Fall after the Crash in 2007—Topix	192
8.5	Case 5: The 2007 Crash—Shanghai Composite Index	195
8.5.1	Market at the Turning Point—Shanghai Composite Index 2007	195
8.5.2	The Crash of 2007—Shanghai Composite Index	201
9	Random Walk, Efficient Market vs. Market Activism	207
9.1	Efficient Market Hypothesis—The Roots	208
9.2	Efficient Market Hypothesis—The Evidence	212
9.3	EMH, Market Activism and the $100 Bill Story	216
9.4	Flawed Empirical Observations Against Market Activism	217
9.5	A Fund to Show Effective Market Activision	224
9.6	A Theoretical Argument for Technical Analysis	228

10 Integrating Macro, Fundamental, Quantitative and Technical Analysis	237
10.1 The Fragmented State of Market Analysis	237
10.2 Integrating Different Technical Analyses Under FVITA	239
10.3 Macroeconomic Analysis and FVITA	240
10.3.1 Integrated Approach to News Processing	241
10.3.2 Integrated Analysis of Bubbles and Panics	244
10.4 Firm Fundamentals and FVITA	248
10.5 Options and FVITA	249
11 Other Issues	253
11.1 Statistical Analysis	253
11.2 Technical Analysis as Public Knowledge	255
12 Concluding Remarks	259
Glossary	261
References	265
Index	267

<http://www.pbookshop.com>