

CONTENTS

Preface vii

Part I: Context 1

1 Do Managers Matter? 3

- A Brief History of Management 4
- Defining Management and Leadership 7
- The Definition, and the Power, of Engagement 16
- Summary 22

2 Why Managers Have a Tough Job 25

- Employees Are Smart and Demanding 26
- We Have Ambivalent Feelings about Leadership and Followership 29
- We Really Don't Like Being Told What to Do 32
- Managers Behave Badly 33
- Summary 36

3 A New Model of Manager Performance 39

- Managers and Competitive Advantage 41
- The Manager Performance Model 51
- Summary 66

4 Constructing the Manager Role 71

- Manager Contribution—The Player-Coach Job 72
- Manager Competency—The Technical Skill Dilemma 74

The Size of the Job—Span of Control	81
Building the Role System	89
Summary	101

Part II: Implementation 103

5 Executing Tasks 105

Planning Work	106
Clarifying Job Roles	115
Monitoring Progress	137
Summary	139

6 Developing People 143

Acting as a Human Capital Treasurer	144
Providing Direct Development	153
Goal Setting and Performance Feedback	161
Summary	172

7 Delivering the Deal 177

Transforming the Extrinsic into the Intrinsic	178
Individualizing Rewards	181
Boosting Engagement Through Recognition	187
Summary	194

8 Energizing Change 199

Coping with Imposed Change	200
Choosing to Change	213
Sustaining Engagement	218
Summary	225

9 Authenticity and Trust 229

Connecting Authenticity and Trust	229
Building Trust Through Authenticity	232
Implications for Manager Performance	244
Summary	253

10 Fitting the Pieces Together 257

Manager Role Structure and Performance Model—

A Summary 258

What Makes a Great Manager? 259

Can a Good Manager Manage Anything? 265

Make Versus Buy 266

Notes for Those Who Want Managers to Succeed 269

Notes 281

The Authors 313

Index 315

<http://www.pbookshop.com>

<http://www.pbookshop.com>