ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This book is a revised version of my doctoral thesis, completed at Queen's University Belfast. I am deeply grateful to Norma Dawson and David Capper, who acted respectively as first and second supervisors. Each was unfailingly generous with time, enthusiasm and encouragement; each was a stern critic when necessary, saving me from many errors, and opening wide avenues of more fruitful thought. I doubt I shall ever repay their patience with me and with this project, but I hope we do some justice to their commitment.

Brice Dickson acted as first supervisor for one academic year while Professor Dawson was on research leave. He read and commented usefully on many parts of this work. Fiona Marshall kindly proofread the final draft. Bill Swadling, Sarah Worthington and Alan Dowling were thorough examiners. I have found their comments enormously helpful. The final sections of Chapter 5, and the Epilogue, have been prompted by our discussions.

Parts of Chapters 3, 6 and 7 were prepared during research visits to Harvard Law School in March 2005 and March 2007. I wish to express my thanks to James Cavallaro, Paul MacMahon and Deirdre Mask.

An earlier version of Chapter 4 appears as 'Curbing the Enthusiasm of Finders' in E Cooke (ed), Modern Studies in Property Law—Volume 4 (Oxford, Hart Publishing, 2007). Some material in Chapters 2 and 6 was published in 'Stealing Abandoned Goods: Possessory Title in Proceedings for Theft' (2006) 26 Legal Studies 584.

It has been a great pleasure to work with Richard Hart, and everyone at Hart Publishing. They too have shown unfaltering patience with a first-time author, forgiving many delays and encouraging me at every step of the way.

Finally, I owe thanks to my parents for their unreserved support and interest over the many years of this project; and to Caroline, for whom there are no words to express the depth of my love and appreciation.
