

Contents

About the Author	xxi
Acknowledgments	xxiii
Foreword	xxv
Preface: A Profession	xxvii
A Career in Middle Market Investment Banking	xxvii
The Origins of a Deal Junkie	xxvii
The Deal Junkie Arrives (Almost)	xxviii
Why Another M&A Book?	xxix
My Intended Audience	xxx
Happy Families	xxxix
Disclaimers, Apologies, and Modest Lies	xxxiii
CHAPTER 1 The Middle Market Is Different!	1
Business Process Innovation, Growth Spurts, Regulatory Imperatives, and Capital	1
Not “Mom-and-Pop” Businesses	3
The Upper Market	4
What Exactly Is the Middle Market?	5
Does Size (Alone) Matter?	6
Brokers and Investment Bankers Servicing the Three Markets	7
Chapter Highlights	7
Notes	9

CHAPTER 2	Drivers of Middle Market Activity and the Sellers	11
	Liquidity and Umbrella Drinks	11
	Baby Boomers	11
	Technology and the Information Age	12
	It's Not Your Father's M&A World, Either	13
	The Glass Ceiling that Sometimes Drives Transactions	14
	Big Fish and Little Fish	14
	Chapter Highlights	14
	Note	15
CHAPTER 3	Finding—and Understanding—Buyers in the Middle Market	17
	Scared Money	17
	Understanding Buyer and Investor Types	18
	Identifying Potential Buyers	29
	Which Door to Open to the Buyers?	32
	Chapter Highlights	34
	Note	34
CHAPTER 4	Preparing a Middle Market Business for Sale and Running the Business while Selling It	35
	Three Periods to Prepare to Sell a Middle Market Business	37
	Litigation	43
	Summing Up	44
	Chapter Highlights	44
	Note	45
CHAPTER 5	Rewarding and Retaining Key Staff in Connection with a Business Sale: Blackmail or Justice?	47
	Overview	47
	Key Employee Rewards in General	49
	Timing Reward Payments	50
	Timing Tax Issues in Rewarding Key Employees	51
	The Importance of Clarity and Documentation—Avoiding Vague Promises	51

Contents

xi

	When to Negotiate Noncompete and Nonintervention Agreements with Key Employees	52
	Being Alert to Potential Problems When Promises Made Are Not Consistent with the Duties and/or Influence of Key Employees	53
	A Way to Avoid Key Employee Problems in the First Place	54
	The Special Problems of Absentee Owners	54
	Wrap-Up	55
	Chapter Highlights	56
CHAPTER 6	Crystal Balls and Timing the Sale of a Middle Market Business	57
	Bubbles, Cycles, and Business Values	58
	Other Timing Opportunities—Roll-Ups	62
	Chapter Highlights	63
	Notes	64
CHAPTER 7	The Confidential Information Memorandum	65
	The Acquisition Profile	66
	Confidential Information Memoranda—Overview	66
	Clients and Confidential Information Memoranda: An Intense Collaboration	66
	Financial Statements in the Confidential Information Memorandum	74
	Chapter Highlights	78
	Notes	80
CHAPTER 8	Confidentiality While Doing the Deal	81
	Confidentiality in General	82
	Employees and Confidentiality: Two Approaches	83
	The Investment Banker and Confidentiality: Communications between Banker and Client; Preventing Premature Disclosure	84
	The Executive Summary and Confidentiality	85
	Web Site Business-for-Sale Listings	85
	Nondisclosure Agreements	86

	Securities Laws and Confidentiality	88
	Chapter Highlights	88
CHAPTER 9	Middle Market Investment Bankers and Intermediaries	93
	The Telecom Deal	95
	Using Professional Investment Banking Assistance and In-House Teams	95
	Choosing the Right Investment Bank	100
	Chapter Highlights	106
	Note	107
CHAPTER 10	The External M&A Team, and Using the Team Correctly	109
	The External M&A Team	110
	Using the Team Properly and Sequencing the Professionals; Separating the Tasks and Single Negotiators	113
	Chapter Highlights	116
	Note	117
CHAPTER 11	Anyone Can Do M&A—Right?	119
	Anybody Can Do This?	119
	The Deal the Client Never Got	121
	Experience and M&A	122
	Chapter Highlights	123
CHAPTER 12	Two Types of Auctions: The Informal Auction and the Controlled Auction	125
	Auctions in General	125
	Document Rooms and Sequencing in the Controlled and Effective Auctions	127
	Effective Auctions: A Summary	128
	The Need for Auctions: What a Buyer Will Not Tell a Seller; How the Seller Finds Out; Is This Really Fair?	130
	Chapter Highlights	133

CHAPTER 13	Financial Services Agreements, Estimating Professional Fees, and the Importance of Integrity around Large Sums of Money	135
	Financial Services Agreements, Broadly Considered	135
	Lawyers and Investment Banking Financial Services Agreement Reviews	136
	Large Sums of Money and Odd Behaviors	137
	Success or Contingent Fees Formulas (The Lehman Variations)	140
	How Transaction Value Is Measured	142
	Retainers (Commitment Fees)	147
	Basic Contract Period	148
	Trailer Periods	149
	Breakup Fees	149
	Carve-Outs and Approaches to Carve-Outs	150
	Compensation to the Investment Banker in Warrants, Options, or Other Equity	151
	Integrity and Investment Banking and Large Sums of Money	152
	Bankers Fees Paid at Settlement—More about Large Sums of Money	153
	Clients' Overall Estimate of Professional Fees for a Typical Engagement	155
	Chapter Highlights	155
	Notes	164
CHAPTER 14	Investment Banking Representation on the Buy Side	165
	The Buy Side	166
	Buy- versus Sales-Side Representation	167
	Buy-Side Fees	168
	It's All in the Planning	169
	How Many Targets at One Time?	171
	The Platform Philosophy versus the Financial Approach to Acquisitions	171
	Who on the Buy Side Should Negotiate?	172
	Orchestration (or Art) versus Science	173

	Who Does the Investment Banker Represent? Possible Conflicts of Interest in Buy-Side Representation	174
	Chapter Highlights	175
CHAPTER 15	The Letter of Intent: The Most Critical Document?	177
	Content and Precedents of a Good Letter of Intent	178
	The Buyer/Seller Advantage Curve	178
	Preliminary versus Confirmatory Due Diligence	179
	Exclusivity, Confidentiality, and the Letter of Intent	179
	Affirmative Response Clauses	180
	Weaknesses and Opportunities—Disclosure and Accuracy of Preliminary Due-Diligence Data	181
	The “Honey, I Did the Deal” Rule . . . Thoroughness of Business Terms	182
	Use of Subtlety and the Effect of Precise Words in Letters of Intent: What the Definition of “Is” Is	183
	Negotiating Protocol and the Letter of Intent	184
	The Reverse Letter of Intent	185
	LOIs from the Buy Side Point of View	185
	Chapter Highlights	186
CHAPTER 16	Some Thoughts on the Psychology of M&A Negotiations	187
	A Few Preliminary Thoughts on Negotiation Preparation	188
	Clients and Negotiation	189
	Politicians and Honesty	189
	Honesty and Integrity Are Still the Best Policies . . . Making a Friend	190
	Dangers of Written Argument	191
	Every Deal Dies a Thousand Deaths	193
	The End of the Middle Part of an M&A Negotiation . . . Just Before the Letter of Intent	205
	The Difficult or Unreasonable Negotiator	207
	One Last Thought on Negotiations: A Confession	207
	Chapter Highlights	208
	Notes	209

CHAPTER 17	Initial Meetings with Buyers, Pricing the Company, and Pacing the Negotiations	211
	Strange Role Reversals and First Meetings	212
	Encourage All Offers, No Matter How Low . . . Getting Them into the Tent	217
	The Truth, the Whole (?) Truth, and Nothing but the Truth	217
	Timing, Sequencing, and Pacing the Deal while Pricing the Company	218
	Chapter Highlights	219
	Note	219
CHAPTER 18	Consideration and Deal Structure	221
	It's the Terms, Not the Price , Stupid!	221
	Consideration and Consideration Types	222
	Deal Structure	223
	Frequently Offered Consideration Types—Overall	224
	In Summary: Weighing and Comparing Offers	227
	Recommending Against Deal Consideration	228
	For Buyers: Creative Uses of Consideration as a Deal making Device	229
	Stock and When It Is Priced	229
	A Final Thought on Consideration Mixes	230
	Chapter Highlights	230
	Notes	231
CHAPTER 19	Earnouts	233
	Why Earnouts Are Dreaded but Very Frequently a Deal Component	234
	Whose Earnings Are These Anyway?	235
	Avoid Confusion: Understand the Differences between Two Types of Earnouts	236
	Elements of Negotiation in a Comfort (True) Earnout	237
	When an Earnout Is Simply Frosting on the Cake	242
	Earnouts and Taxes	242
	Chapter Highlights	243

CHAPTER 20	The Proof Phase, or the Final Days	247
	Confirmatory Due Diligence	247
	The Definitive Agreement	248
	The Final Days: Investment Bankers and Attorneys	250
	The Critical Importance of Speed in the Final Days	250
	The Closing and the Surprise at Closing	251
	Chapter Highlights	253
	Notes	254
CHAPTER 21	After the Nuptials: Postmerger and Acquisition Failures	255
	A Brief Honeymoon, Perhaps; A Successful Marriage, Less Frequently	256
	Chapter Highlights	259
	Note	259
CHAPTER 22	Does a Sales-Side Client Need an Appraisal before Going to Market?	261
	Four Basic M&A Marketplace Valuation Contexts	263
	Formal versus Preliminary Valuation in the Marketplace	264
	Investment and Dynamic Value	265
	The Answer	265
	Appraisal Costs	266
	A Preliminary Valuation in the Marketplace	266
	Chapter Highlights	268
	Notes	268
CHAPTER 23	The Rules of Five and Ten and the Super Rule of Five in M&A Valuation	271
	A Foundation for the Valuation of Middle Market Businesses	272
	The Rules of Five and Ten, Cocktail Party Conversation, and . . . Quick Calculations	273
	Two Bell Curves	273
	The Super Rule of Five	275

Contents	xvii
The Greater Fool Theory (Buyer Beware)	278
Chapter Highlights	279
Notes	279
CHAPTER 24 An Introduction to the Basic Art and Science of Valuation (Sales-Side versus Buy-Side) as Applied to M&A Transactions, and Flavors of EBITDA Explained	281
So How Much Is It Worth? Valuation 101	282
Valuing Economic Assets in General and Business in Particular	283
M&A and EBIT(DA)	284
Another Approach to Valuation: The Discounted Future Earnings (DFE) Method versus Multiples	287
Chapter Highlights	290
Notes	291
CHAPTER 25 A Brief Discussion of Multiples and Multiple Realities	293
Multiples in General	294
Risk and Multiples	295
Derivative Multiples versus Actual Deal-Driving Multiples	295
Public Market versus Private Market Multiples	296
Arbitrage and Roll-Ups: A Practical Example of Public versus Private Company Valuation and Multiples	297
Chapter Highlights	298
Notes	299
CHAPTER 26 Qualitative Values Inherent in the Target Company	301
Quantitative and Qualitative Valuation	302
Two Law Firms	302
Value Drivers Go Well Beyond the Numbers	303
Obsolescence, or . . . Go into Plastics, Young Man	304
The Use of a Value Driver Analysis Contained in a Preliminary Valuation Report	306
Chapter Highlights	306
Note	306

CHAPTER 27	M&A Conventions and Establishing Balance Sheet Targets	307
	Conventions and Their Need and Basis	307
	The Balance Sheet in General	308
	M&A Conventions in General	309
	Entities and Businesses—Redux	310
	M&A Balance Sheet Conventions, or, Who Gets the Balance Sheet?	310
	Other Nonoperational Assets beside Cash	312
	Establishing Targets for Deliverables, Usually the Balance Sheet—A Moment in Time	313
	The Balance Sheet: At the Time of Negotiation or at the Time of Settlement?	314
	Working Capital Targets on the Balance Sheet	314
	Net Worth Targets on the Balance Sheet	315
	Double-Counting Target Purchase Price Adjustments	316
	Settlement of Differences—Truing Up	316
	Operating in the Normal Course of Business	316
	The Balance Sheet and Normalization	317
	Chapter Highlights	318
	Notes	319
CHAPTER 28	Special M&A and M&A Valuation Topics	321
	Overview	321
	Valuing Real Estate on the Balance Sheet	321
	Technology Valuation: Is It a Business Yet?	324
	Valuing the Nonprofitable Business	326
	Valuing Rapidly Growing Businesses for Venture Capital and Similar Investments—Is This Really Valuation?	329
	Chapter Highlights	335
	Notes	336
CHAPTER 29	Common M&A Taxation Issues	337
	A Brief Tax Overview	338
	Entity Selection: S Corporations versus C Corporations and Asset versus Stock Deals	339

Contents

xix

	The Effect of Timing of S Corporation Elections and the Built-In Gains Tax	340
	Other Transaction Structural Issues	341
	Earnouts	341
	The Effect of Tax Accounting Methods	342
	Reorganization Deal Structures (Taking Stock)	343
	Disposing of Business Interests by Gifting Prior to a Sale and Charitable Remainder Trusts	344
	Divisive Reorganizations	345
	Small Business Corporations	346
	How Much Do Taxes Matter During the Negotiation?	346
	Chapter Highlights	346
	Notes	347
CHAPTER 30	The Business of Middle Market Investment Banking	349
	What Is Investment Banking?	350
	Some Ironies of the M&A Profession	351
	Attention Deficit Disorder and the M&A Banker	352
	People Skills	352
	Entry Points to Investment Banking in General	353
	Cultural Issues in Investment Banking
	Practices—Some Further Thoughts	358
	Marketing: Half of Investment Banking Is Business Development	362
	Multiple Marketing Approaches	364
	Networking in General	371
	Serving Clients and Executing Engagements Well	374
	Securities Law Issues	376
	Engagement Intake Management	378
	Success in Life and M&A	379
	The $10 Trillion Opportunity	380
	Chapter Highlights	381
	Notes	382
CHAPTER 31	A Postscript: The Capital Markets	385
	Notes	395

CHAPTER 32	Another Postscript: The Unbundled Approach to Formal Valuation	397
	A Bird, a Plane?	397
	Notes	399
Index		401

<http://www.pbookshop.com>