

Index

- Accessibility, 9–10, 134, 176
- Achievement, synchronicity and, 39–41
- Action steps, following up on, 142–144
- Aesthetics, 155
- Airplanes:
 creating random encounters on, xiii–xiv potential of random connections on, 4–6
 as random connecting venue, 11
 starting conversations on, 67
- Airports, 11, 71, 171–172
- Aligning interests with connections, 75–82
 case study, 80
 and communication style, 81 for continued contact, 137 and personal preferences, 76–77 for relationship building, 75–76 and relationships based on similarities, 77–79
 suggested items for, 79
- Anonymity, 37–38, 127
- Approaching potential connections, 59–63 guidelines for, 60–61
 overeagerness in, 61–62
 in traditional vs. random networking, 59–60
- Asking questions:
 and continued contact, 138–139
 to find leverage points of connections, 100, 105
 in focused communication, 91 importance of, 83–85
 interrogating vs., 85 personal, 159, 162
 setting the stage for follow-up messages by, 128–129
 starting conversations by, 66, 69
 topics to ask questions about, 86–87
- Attractiveness, success and, 161
- Availability:
 beliefs of random connectors about, 45–46
 cues about people's, 56, 62 of people in public places, 75 at traditional networking events, 30 venues with, assumed, 9–10
 Availability factor, of venues, 11–14
 Awareness of others, demonstrating, 69
 Beliefs of random connectors, 43–50
 about their own value, 47–48 and limiting vs. expanding beliefs, 49–50
 openness and availability of strangers, 45–46
 and random connection mastery, 167
 and Talk to Strangers Mastery Program, 174–175
 on value of relationships, 46–47 on world as friendly place, 44–45, 174–175
- Body language, 35, 69
- Body posture, 79
- Books, as conversation starters, 73
- Buffet, Warren, 25
- Bumper stickers, 53–54
- Business cards, 54–55
- Business connections, 122
- Business proposals, introducing, 124
- Business relationships, xiii–xv
- CEOs:
 random encounters with, 4–5
 retired, 103–104

- Chemistry, in-person communication and, 34
- Circumstances for random networking, 15–19 improving quality of interactions, 17–18 increasing number of interactions, 15–17 and venues for random encounters, 18–19
- Closing statements:
 setting tone for follow-up with, 128–129
 for undesirable connections, 117–118
- Clothing, as conversation starter, 71, 73
- Coffee shops, 12, 67, 72
- Comfort, creating, 69, 70, 169
- Commonality, of people, 44–45
- Communication:
 cross-gender, see Cross-gender random connecting focused, see Focused communication in-person, 25–27, 33–36
 one-way, 145–146
 random encounters vs. typical, 4–5 sustained, see Sustained communication
- Communication skills:
 of men vs. women, 156–157
 and relationship quality, 90
- Communication styles:
 aligning, 79, 81
 of men vs. women, 155–157
- Communicators:
 focused vs. unfocused, 92
 great, 89
- Compliments, 22
- Conferences, 12, 31
- Confidence:
 and beliefs of random connectors, 48
 in cross-gender random connecting, 160
 and expertise, 116
 of master random connectors, 167–168
 and your value proposition, 110
- Connection, 25
- Contacts, network of, xv, 144
- Continued contact, 137–139
- Conventions, 12, 31
- Conversation(s), 21–24
 alignment on topics of, 79
 case study, 23–24
 ending, 117–118
 focused, 130, 144
 guiding, 95–98, 178
 guiding, to outcome, 178
 overheard, 69–70
 redirecting, 162
 and relationship building, 21–22
 unstructured, 130
 very focused, 131
- Conversation starters, 53–56
 bumper stickers as, 53–54 business cards as, 54–55 and clues about receptiveness of people, 56 and information people broadcast, 54
 of master random connectors, 169
 technology as, 22
- Copy shops, 13, 72
- Credibility: and expertise, 114
 and follow-up messages, 128
 and online connections, 26–27
 and online presence, 149–150
 and your value proposition, 107–110
- Creep factor, 59–60, 75
- Cross-gender random connecting, 153–163 flirting in, 162–163 importance of gender differences in, 154–155 mistakes women make in, 161 personal questions in, 162
 tips for men, 158–159
 tips for women, 160
 types of differences between men and women in, 156–158
- Curiosity, see Interpersonal curiosity
- Current circumstances, opening statements about, 66–67
- Danko, William D., 57
- Deductive thinking, 156, 157
- Directness, 161
- Discovery process, 85–86, 98
- Doctor's offices, 13, 30–31
- Dog walkers, starting conversations with, 73
- Driscoll, Anne, 154
- Effort, 16, 122, 166
- Elevators:
 circumstances for random networking in, 16–17
 as random connecting venues, 13 starting conversations in, 68, 73

- E-mail messages:
 following up with, 115–116, 128, 129
 sustained communication with, 142, 144–146
- Emotional intelligence, 156–157, 159
- Emotional state, connections based on, 78, 79
- Enthusiasm, situational, 127
- Equality, gender differences and, 155
- Evaluations, of potential connections, 57–58, 168
- Everyday encounters, potential of, 3–7, 173
- Expertise:
 in cross-gender random connections, 160
 positioning yourself as an expert, 113–116
 and value proposition, 110–111
- E-zines, 80
- Facebook, 25, 26, 150
- Face-to-face communication, see In-person communication
- Family members, as leverage points, 101, 104–105
- Fearlessness, 167–168
- Filters, of men vs. women, 156–158
- Flexibility, 167
- Flirting, 160, 162–163
- Focus:
 of communication with men vs. women, 156
 and continued contact, 138
 of follow-up messages, 129, 131–132
- Focused communication, 89–93 asking questions in, 91 impact of, 90
 listening in, 91–93
 unfocused vs. focused communicators, 92
- Focused communicators, 92
- Focused conversations, follow-up messages for, 130, 144
- Follow-up messages, 127–132 focus of, 129, 131–132
 of master random connectors, 171–172
 in monetized connection case study, 133–135 and opportunities from random connections, 122–124 replies to, 143 setting the stage for, 128–129 suggested contents of, 130–131
 and sustained communication, 141–142
 and Talk to Strangers Mastery Program, 179–180
 timing of, 127–128, 142–143
- Friend, 25
- Friendliness, of people, 44–45
- Friendship(s), xii–xiii business opportunities vs., 121 capitalizing on, 179–180
 and follow-up messages, 131, 132
- Frost, Robert, 17
- Full leverage, 147–148
- Gender-specific issues, in random connecting, see Cross-gender random connecting
- General Electric (GE), 39
- Goals of random connectors:
 achieving, 147–148
 and accessing opportunities from connections, 124 qualifying connection targets based on, 95–96
- Goleman, Daniel, 157
- Google, 150
- Google alerts, 152
- Gurian, Michael, 156, 157
- Habits, 15–16
- Helping others, see Synchronicity
- Impact, judging, 35
- Inductive reasoning, 156–158
- Industry association president, follow-up e-mail for, 144
- Industry conferences, 12, 31
- Influence, spheres of, 100–103
- Information:
 broadcasted by people, 54
 inside, 102, 103
 strangers' willingness to share, 37–38
- Information gathering:
 about leverage points of connections, 100
 and continued contact, 138
 from in-person communication, 34–35 and interpersonal curiosity, 84–86 leveraging random connections for, 102, 103 and your online presence, 149–152

- Initiating contact:
 - for monetized connections, 133–135
 - in Talk to Strangers Mastery Program, 177
- In-person communication, 33–36
 - and chemistry, 34
 - information from, 34–35
 - and online connections, 25–27, 33–34
- In-person impression, online presence
 - and, 152
- Inside information, 102, 103
- Interests, connections based on, 78
- Interest level, follow-up messages based on, 130
- Internet:
 - being vetted with, 150, 152
 - enhancing identity and brand with, 150
 - and online connections, 25–27
- Interpersonal curiosity, 83–87
 - approaching potential connection with, 61
 - and assessing leverage points of connections, 100
 - and discovery process, 85–86
 - and focused communication, 90–91
 - importance of asking questions, 83–85
 - and pace of questions, 85
 - topics to ask questions about, 86–87
- Interrogating people, asking questions vs., 85
- Intuition, 166
- Job offers, 122–124
- Job title:
 - and authority, 102, 103
 - and value proposition, 110–111
- Legitimacy, 150
- Leverage points of connections, 99–105
 - asking questions to find, 105
 - assessing, 96, 99–100
 - and continued contact, 138–139
 - family members as, 104–105
 - and follow-up messages, 134
 - master random connectors identification of, 170
 - for retirees, 103–104
 - and spheres of influence, 100–103
 - and sustained communication, 142–143
- LinkedIn, 25, 26, 150
- Listening, 91–93
- Logos, 54–55, 97
- Luggage, as conversation starter, 54–55, 73
- Master random connectors, 165–181
 - beliefs of, 167
 - comfort and trust created by, 169
 - evaluations of potential connections by, 168
 - fearlessness of, 167–168
 - flexibility of, 167
 - follow-up messages from, 171–172
 - leverage point identification by, 170
 - opening statements of, 169
 - and practice of connecting skill, 166
 - results of, 165–166
 - and Talk to Strangers Mastery Program, 172–181
 - value proposition of, 170
- “Meeting,” 38
- Men:
 - communication styles of, 155
 - cross-gender connecting tips for, 158–159
 - filters of, 156
 - social skills of, 156–157
 - tips for connecting with, 160
 - types of differences between women and, 156–158
- Merry Wives of Windsor* (William Shakespeare), 183
- The Millionaire Next Door* (Thomas J. Stanley and William D. Danko), 57
- Mirroring, 159, 167
- Monetized connections:
 - achieving, 147–148
 - case study, 133–135
 - and your value proposition, 110
- Networking:
 - online, 26–27
 - random, see Random networking
 - social, 34
 - traditional, see Traditional networking
- Network of contacts, xv, 144
- Neutrality, 61
- Newsletters, 80
- Newspapers, as conversation starters, 72
- Nonthreatening cross-gender random connections, 159–160
- Nonverbal behavior, 69

- Observations, as conversation starters, 66, 67
- Office buildings, 17
- One-way communication, 145–146
- Online connections, 25–27
 - benefits of, 27
 - and in-person communication, 25–27, 33–36
- Online presence, 149–152
 - and credibility, 149–150
 - supporting in-person impression with, 152
 - tips for favorable, 151–152
- Opening statements, 65–74
 - about current circumstances, 66–67
 - about technology, 68–69
 - about venue, 68
 - case study, 69–70
 - creating comfort and trust with, 69, 70
 - effective vs. ineffective, 71–73
 - ideal, 65–66
 - of master random connectors, 169
 - simplicity of, 67–68
- Openness, of strangers, 45–46
- Opinions, asking for, 69
- Opportunities from random connections, 121–125
 - case study, 122–124
 - and continued contact, 138
 - and follow-up messages, 122, 124
 - identifying, 124
 - qualifying, 96
- Other-centric, 84, 90–91
- Outcomes, getting conversations toward, 95–98, 178
- Overeagerness, 61–62
- Overheard conversations, entering, 69–70

- Pace, for asking questions, 85
- Parties, random connecting at, 13
- People portals, xv, 47
- Personal preferences, 76–77
- Personal questions, 159, 162
- Physical similarities, 78
- Potential connections:
 - approaching, 59–63
 - evaluations of, 57–58, 168
- Potential of everyday encounters, recognizing, 3–7
- Power portals, 175, 178–180

- Practicality, 155
- Privacy, in public places, 75
- Problem solving, 160
- Professionalism, 159, 160
- Professional profile, online, 151
- Public transportation, starting conversations on, 68

- Qualified connections:
 - circumstances for random networking with, 17–18
 - at networking events, 31
 - superficial evaluations of, 57–58
 - venues for, 10–14
- Questions, asking, see Asking questions

- Random connectors, see specific topics, e.g.:
 - Beliefs of random connectors
- Random encounters:
 - business relationships from, xiii–xiv
 - creating, 1
 - friendships from, xi–xiii
- Random networking:
 - circumstances for, 15–19
 - effort required for, 16
 - rewards of, 119
 - as skill, 51
 - traditional vs., 29–31
 - as way of life, 180–181
- Rapport:
 - asking questions to build, 84–85
 - establishing, 66
 - and qualifying random connection targets, 97
- Reading material, as conversation starter, 72, 73
- Receptiveness, 56, 59
- Redirection, of conversation, 162
- Relationships:
 - business, xi–xiii
 - communication skills and quality of, 90
 - from random encounters, xi–xiv
 - value of, 46–47
- Relationship building:
 - and aligning interests with connections, 75–76
 - and communication style of women, 158
 - and conversation, 21–22
 - sample follow-up message for, 145

- Relationship equity, 21
- Replies, to follow-up messages, 143
- Respect:
- approaching people with, 62
 - ending encounters with, 117–118
 - and focused communication, 92
 - identifying leverage points with, 170
- Responsibility, for sustained communication, 141–142
- Restaurants, random networking in, 16
- Retirees, leverage points of, 103–104
- Reunions, 14
- Route, changing your, 17–18
- Routines, 15–16
- Schmooze, 22
- Schultz, Howard, 39
- Search engine results, 150, 152
- Sensitivity, demonstrating, 69
- Shakespeare, William, 183
- Sharkey, Joe, xiv
- Similarities, connections based on, 77–79
- Simplicity, of opening statements, 67–68
- Situational enthusiasm, 127
- Social availability, see Availability
- Social gatherings:
- circumstances for random networking at, 17
 - as random connecting venue, 13
- Social media, 48
- Social networking, 34
- Social profile, online, 151
- Social skills, men vs. women's, 156–157
- Speech patterns, alignment of, 81
- Speed, voice, 79
- Spheres of influence, connections', 100–103
- Spouses, as leverage points of connections, 104
- Stanley, Thomas J., 57
- Starbucks, 39
- Strangers, information sharing between, 37–38
- Subject matter experts, 113–116, 150
- Subtlety, 61
- Subways, 68, 97–98
- Superficial evaluations, of qualified connections, 57–58
- Suppliers, random encounters with, 30–31
- Sustained communication, 141–146
- with e-mail messages, 144–146
 - replies to follow-up messages, 143
 - responsibility for, 141–142
 - and timing of follow-up messages, 142–143
- Synchronicity, 39–42
- and achievement with help of others, 39–41
 - case study, 41–42
- Talk to Strangers Mastery Program:*
- access clues of potential connections, 176
 - beliefs of random connectors, 174–175
 - follow-up messages in, 179–180
 - guiding conversation to outcome, 178
 - initiating contact, 177
 - presentation of your value proposition, 179
 - random networking as way of life, 180–181
 - recognizing potential in everyday encounters, 173
 - transparency of interactions, 174
 - venues for random connections, 175–176
- Target profile of connections:
- ending encounters with people outside, 117–118
 - leveraging people outside, 101–102
 - qualifying people based on, 95–98
- Taxis, connections in, 17
- Technology, as conversation starter, 22, 68–69
- Telephone calls, follow-up, 146
- Time, as resource, 96
- Timing, of follow-up messages, 127–128, 142–143
- Topics of conversation, alignment on, 79
- Traditional networking, 29–32
- accessibility of people during, 134
 - case study, 30–31
 - random vs., 29–31
 - receptiveness of people during, 59–60
- Transparency, 68, 174
- Travel-related venues, 71. See also Airplanes; Airports
- Trust, creating, 69, 70, 169

- Undesirable connections, ending, 117–118
- Unfocused communicators, 92
- Unstructured conversations, follow-up messages for, 130
- Value:
 - of connection targets, 99. See also Leverage points of connections
 - of relationships, 46–47
- Value-added remarks, 114, 115
- Value proposition, 107–111
 - and beliefs of random connectors, 47–48
 - case study, 108–109
 - and expertise, 113–116
 - of master random connectors, 170
 - and online presence, 150
 - statements for describing, 108
 - in Talk to Strangers Mastery Program, 179
 - and your job title/expertise, 110–111
- Venues for random connections, 9–14
 - and circumstances for random networking, 18–19
 - opening statements about, 68
 - selecting, 9–10
 - in Talk to Strangers Mastery Program, 175–176
 - types of, 11–14
- Verbal behavior, matching, 69
- Very focused conversations, follow-up messages for, 131
- Video, 34
- Visibility, online, 150
- Voice mail, follow-up messages on, 129, 146
- Voice speed, aligning, 79
- Voice style, aligning, 79
- Voice volume, aligning, 79
- Vulnerability, of women, 159
- Weather, as conversation starter, 22, 65–66
- Webonality, 149
- Weddings, 11, 72
- Welch, Jack, 39
- Winfrey, Oprah, 39
- Women:
 - communication styles of, 155
 - cross-gender connecting tips for, 160
 - filters of, 156
 - mistakes in cross-gender connecting of, 161
 - social skills of, 156–157
 - tips for connecting with, 158–159
 - types of differences between men and, 156–158
- World, as friendly place, 44–45, 174–175

<http://www.pbookshop.com>