

Contents

Preface	v
Acknowledgments	vii
1 Blackstone and Bentham: The Law of Nations and International Law	1
A. Blackstone's Law of Nations	2
B. Bentham's International Law	10
C. Bentham, Austin, and the Law-like Quality of International Law	15
D. Bentham and the Ideal of International Law	17
E. The Law of Nations , International Law , and Transnational Law : The Uneasy Equivalence	20
2. Jefferson, Madison, and Marshall: The Law of Nations and the New Republic	24
A. Jefferson, the Law of Nations, and the Revolution	24
B. Madison, the Law of Nations, and the Constitution	33
C. International Law and American Diplomacy	37
D. International Law in American Law	40
3. Kent and Wheaton: The International Law of Christendom	49
A. Kent, Grotius, and the Christian Community of Nations	49
B. Austin, Wheaton, and Grotian Universality	61
C. Kennan's Critique of American Legalism—Moralism	69
4. Dodge, Worcester, Ladd, and Burritt: Christianity, Courts, and World Peace	72
A. Utopian Precedents	73
B. Dodge, Worcester, and the War of 1812	74
C. Ladd, Burritt, and the Ideal of International Adjudication	79
5. Taney and his Court: Slavery, International Law, and American Exceptionalism	92
A. Slavery and International Law	92
B. Dred Scott and International Law	99
C. Dred Scott and American Exceptionalism	113

6. Lieber, Field, and Wharton: The Science of International Law	116
A. Bentham and the 'Science' of International Law	116
B. Lieber's Code for the Laws of War	117
C. Field's International Law Code	120
D. Wharton's Digest of International Law	123
E. Oppenheim and the Fate of the 'Science' of International Law	126
7. Great Expectations: The Alabama Arbitration and the Progress of International Law	131
A. The Alabama Arbitration	131
B. The International Law Association	134
C. Religious Enthusiasm	138
D. Progress?	143
8. Root, Scott, and Taft: Of Peace, and Laws, and Learned Men	144
A. The Peace Conferences	144
B. The American Society of International Law	148
C. Public Opinion and International Law	153
D. The End of the Dream	155
9. Woodrow Wilson: The Passion of the Converted	158
A. The Academic Wilson	159
B. The Political Wilson	164
C. The Passionate Wilson	167
10. Holmes: International Law and American Federalism	176
A. Holmes and Missouri v Holland	176
B. The Federalism Debate	183
C. Missouri's Aftermath	184
11. International Law After the Great War	194
A. Lodge and the League	194
B. Moore and Hughes: After Utopia	200
C. America Apart	206
D. The New Believers	212
E. The Fall of the League	217
Index	221