

Contents

Preface	xv
List of Contributors	xvii

Part 1 – IP Cultural Heritage

1 Back to the Future: Intellectual Property Rights and the Modernisation of Traditional Chinese Medicine Bryan Bachner . . .1

Introduction

A. Introduction	1
B. “Open Sources”: Feudal Times	3
C. Modern Times	8
I. “Open Secrets”: 1949 to the late 1980s	11
II. “Closed Secrets”: The Reform Period	13
1. The Constitution	14
2. International Law	14
3. Patent Law	20
4. Regulations on the Protection of TCM	25
5. Trade Secrets	27
6. Law on the Administration of Pharmaceuticals	28
7. Plant Variety Regulations	29
8. Trade Marks	30
9. Biotechnology	31
10. Copyright	32
C. Conclusion	34

2 Traditional Knowledge and Intellectual Property Rights in Australia and Southeast Asia Christoph Antons 37 |

A. International Efforts to Harmonise Legal Approaches to Folklore and Traditional Knowledge Protection	37
B. The Diversity of Approaches: Folklore and Traditional Knowledge Protection in Australia, the Philippines, Thailand and Indonesia	38
C. The National Approaches in Detail	44
I. Australia	44
II. The Philippines	45
III. Indonesia	48
D. Conclusion	50

3 Copyright Collecting Societies in Developing Countries: Possibilities and Dangers Sibylle E Schlatter	53
A. Introduction	53
I. The Role of the Arts in Developing Countries	53
II. International Distribution of Traditional Music	53
III. The Role of Collecting Societies	54
B. Basic Questions on the Structure of a Collecting Society	56
I. Legal Nature of Collecting Societies	56
II. Which Rights Should Be Enforced Through a Collecting Society?	61
C. Minimum Contents of the Articles of Incorporation or Statutes of Association	63
D. Further Rules on the Organisation, Activity, Membership, and Users	64
E. State Control and Legal Remedies in the Case of Conflicts	66
4 Maori Culture and Trade Mark Law in New Zealand Earl Gray	71
A. Introduction	71
B. Background	72
I. History of Settlement	72
II. The Treaty of Waitangi	72
III. Maori World View	73
IV. Concepts of Mātauranga Maori and Taonga (traditional knowledge and treasures)	74
V. Maori: Concept of Property and Rights/Differences from the “European” View and Intellectual Property Systems	75
C. Maori Concerns with Intellectual Property	76
I. No Adequate Protection for Maori Traditional Knowledge and Treasures	76
II. Conflict with Exclusivity Granted by IP Rights	79
III. No Control Over the Use of Maori Intellectual Property	82
IV. Wai 262	83
D. Maori Aims	85
I. A Tikanga Maori (Customary) System to Govern Maori IP?	85
II. The Maori Trade Marks Focus Group	85

Contents

vii

E. Trade Marks Act 2002 – Traditional Words/Images as Trade Marks	87
I. Section 17	87
II. How Different Is This to What Was in Place Before?	88
III. Criteria/Process – Delays and Costs of This New Procedure?	88
IV. Experience to Date	89
V. A Limited Step	90
VI. What Are “Maori Words and Images”?	90
VII. “Maori Words and Images” Not Automatically Prevented from Registration	91
F. Other Tools Available for Indigenous IP Rights	91
G. Future – Where Are We Headed?	93
Glossary of Maori words/terms	93
Appendix 1	94
Appendix 2	95
Appendix 3	96

Part 2 – Geographical Indications

5 Geographical Indications: International, Bilateral and Regional Agreements Christopher Heath	97
A. Introduction	97
B. International Agreements	97
I. The Paris Convention 1883	97
II. The Madrid Arrangement 1891	98
III. The Versailles Peace Treaty 1919	100
IV. The Lisbon Agreement for the Protection of Appellations of Origin 1958	101
1. In General	101
2. Outline of the Agreement	101
3. Statistics	102
4. Registration Procedure	103
5. Scope of Protection	107
6. Judicial Review	112
V. The TRIPS Agreement	119
C. Bilateral Treaties	121
D. Regional Agreements on Geographical Indications – Europe	125
I. Legislative Framework in General	125
II. The Council Regulation 2081/92	126
1. Scope	126
2. Procedure for Protection	126

3. Relationship to Trade Mark Law	127
4. Scope of Protection	128
5. Enforcement	128
III. Relationship Between European and National Protection	131
IV. Statistics	132
6 Future Solutions for Protecting Geographical Indications Worldwide Anselm Kamperman Sanders	133
A. Introduction	133
B. The Protection of Geographical Indications Prior to TRIPS	133
C. The Protection of Geographical Indications Under TRIPS	135
D. IV. GIs or Certification Marks	137
E. The Scope of Protection – Deceptive Use or “Expressive” Use	138
I. Integrity of Information	138
II. Product Differentiation	139
III. Extension of Art. 23 TRIPS Protection to Products Other Than Wines and Spirits	141
F. Lowering the Costs of the GI system	143
G. Conclusion	145
Annex – TRIPS Agreement, Arts. 22-24	145
7 The Conflict Between Trade Marks and Geographical Indications – The Budweiser Case in Portugal Antonio Corte-Real	149
A. Introduction	149
B. Trade Marks Containing a Geographical Indication.	149
I. In General	149
II. Collective Marks	151
C. Conflicts Between Marks and Geographical Indications	152
I. Trade Marks and Geographical Indications	152
II. Generic Geographical Indications and Trade Marks	153
III. Well-known Geographical Indications and Trade Marks	154
D. The Budweiser Case in Portugal	155
I. Introduction and Facts	155
II. Questions of Trade Mark Law	156

III. Questions of the Law of Geographical Indications	156
1. The Czech Appellations of Origin	156
2. Bilateral Treaty	157

Part 3 – Multiple and Overprotection of IP Rights

8 Software and Computer-Related Inventions: Protection by Patent and Copyright	Giovanni F Casucci	161
A. The Definition of “Software”		161
B. Technical Issues Involved		162
C. The Legal Perspective: Object and Scope of Protection of the Possible Exclusive Rights		164
D. The Copyright Approach to Software Protection		165
E. The Patent Approach to Software Protection		166
1. The US		171
2. Japan		171
F. The Recent Draft Directive on the Patentability of Computer-implemented Inventions		172
G. The Competition Issues		174
H. The “Cumulation” of Rights		177
I. Conclusion		178
9 The Protection of Aesthetic Creations as Three-Dimensional Marks, Designs, Copyright or Under Unfair Competition
Christopher Heath		181
A. Introduction		181
B. Design Protection		181
I. Design Protection in Europe		181
II. Design Protection in the US		185
III. Design Protection in Japan		186
C. Copyright Protection		187
I. France		188
II. Germany		188
III. Austria		189
IV. Switzerland		190
V. Italy		191
VI. The UK		191
VII. Japan		192
VIII. The US		194
IX. Problems of Reciprocity		196

D. Three-dimensional Marks	196
I. General Issues	196
II. Distinctiveness	197
III. Functionality and Other Obstacles	200
E. Slavish Imitation	207
I. General Outline and International Developments ..	207
II. Individual countries	209
F. Conclusion	212
10 Copyright, Contract and the Legal Protection of Technological Measures: Providing a Rationale to the ‘Copyright Exceptions Interface’ Thomas Heide	215
Introduction	215
A. Why a Copyright Exceptions Interface Is Necessary ..	215
B. Copyright’s Promotion of Innovation-Driven Competition: A Rationale for the ‘Copyright Exceptions Interface’	216
I. Copyright and ‘Innovation-Driven Competition’ ..	220
II. The Effects of Innovation-driven Competition ..	221
III. The Economic Case for the Copyright Exceptions Interface	222
C. Legislative attempts on the ‘Copyright Interface’ ..	219
I. The DMCA and Copyright Directive: The Contract Interface	225
II. The DMCA Technological Measures Interface ..	226
III. The Copyright Directive Technological Measures Interface	227
IV. The US and EU Copyright Exception Interfaces: Critique & Evaluation	228
D. The EC Software Directive: A Model Precedent ..	230
I. Contract Interface	230
II. Technological Measures Interface	232
III. A Model Interface	234
E. Conclusion	236
Appendix 1: Section 1201 of the U.S. Copyright Act, introduced with the Digital Millennium Copyright Act of 1998	236
Appendix 2: Directive 2001/29/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 22 May 2001 on the harmonisation of certain aspects of copyright and related rights in the information society	240
Appendix 3: Council Directive 91/250/EEC of 14 May 1991 on the legal protection of computer programs	242

Contents xi

11 Essential Facilities and Appropriate Remuneration of Achievements *Anselm Kamperman Sanders*245

- A. Commodification of Information and the Depletion of the Commons245
- B. The EC Database Directive247
- C. Torts of Lore250
- D. Contract Law250
- E. Technical Protection Mechanisms251
- F. Is the Law is Stacked Against Commons?253
- G. The IPR Anti-trust Dichotomy253
- H. Abuse of a Dominant Position254
- I. Refusal to License or Supply257
- J. In Conclusion265

12 Terminator Genes as “Technical” Protection Measures for Patents? *Stephen Hubicki and Brad Sherman*267

- A. Introduction267
- B. Developing the Technology Protection System269
- C. Technical Details of the Technology Protection System272
- D. Implications of the Technology Protection System .276
- E. Cost Benefit Analysis278
- F. Historical Parallels – Hybridisation283
- G. Technology Protection Systems and Intellectual Property285
- H. Conclusion289

Part 4 – Enforcement

13 Enforcing Industrial Property Rights: Patent Protection From a Comparative Viewpoint *Dieter Stauder*291

- A. Enforcement – A Key Current Issue291
 - I. The Need for Effective Protection of Rights291
 - II. Prohibition: The Most Important Sanction292
 - III. The European Movement in Intellectual Property . .294
- B. Infringement Proceedings – The Most Common Form of Legal Action in Industrial Property295
 - I. Types of Action in Intellectual Property295
 - II. Infringement Disputes – Towards a Definition296

C. Characteristics of Patent Infringement Proceedings	.296
I. Frequency	.296
II. Typical Issues in Infringement Proceedings	.297
III. “Europeanised” Questions	.300
IV. Main Factors in Practice	.300
D. Requirements for an Efficient Procedure	.301
14 Criminal Enforcement of Intellectual Property Rights: Interaction Between Public Authorities and Private Interests
Gregor Urbas	.303
A. Introduction	.303
B. Definitions and Framework	.304
I. Intellectual Property Rights	.304
II. Protection of Intellectual Property Rights	.304
III. Public Enforcement	.305
1. Arguments For Public Enforcement	.305
2. Arguments Against Public Enforcement	.306
IV. Legal Context	.306
V. Economic Context	.307
VI. Policy Context	.308
VII. Definitions and the TRIPS Agreement	.308
VIII. Impact of Intellectual Property Piracy	.309
C. Regional Piracy Levels	.310
I. PR China	.310
II. India	.311
III. Indonesia	.312
IV. Malaysia	.312
V. Philippines	.313
VI. South Korea	.313
VII. Taiwan	.313
VIII. Thailand	.314
D. Regional Enforcement Action	.314
I. PR China, Hong Kong SAR and Macao SAR	.315
II. Indonesia	.315
III. Malaysia	.316
IV. Philippines / Singapore / Taiwan	.318
V. Thailand	.320
E. Conclusion – Strengths and Weaknesses of Public Intellectual Property Enforcement	.320
F. References	.321

15 Recent Developments in Judicial Protection for Intellectual Property in China Lu Guoqiang	323
A. In General	323
B. Recent Developments	324
16 The Enforcement of Intellectual Property Rights in Hong Kong Gabriela Kennedy and Henry Wheare	333
A. Introduction	333
B. Intellectual Property Laws in Hong Kong	333
C. Detection and Investigation of Infringements	333
I. Discovering Infringements – The First Steps	333
II. Private Investigators	334
III. Investigation – The Next Step	334
D. Enforcing IP Rights in Hong Kong	335
I. Customs and Excise – Criminal Actions	335
II. Civil Actions	337
III. Remedies Available	337
IV. Procedures for Taking Actions	338
V. Preliminary Measures and Interlocutory Relief	338
VI. Pre-action Alternative to Interlocutory Proceedings	348
VII. Writ of Summons	350
VIII. Statement of Claim	351
IX. Judgment in Default of Defence	351
X. Summary Judgment	351
XI. Defence	352
XII. Reply (and Defence to Counterclaim)	352
XIII. Discovery	353
XIV. Witness Statements	353
XV. Trial	353
XVI. Appeal	354
XVII. Assessment of Damages	354
XVIII. Taxation of Costs	355
XIX. Enforcement of Judgments and Orders	355
XX. Settlement	356
XXI. English Civil Procedure Rules and Report on Civil Justice Reform in Hong	356