

Table of Contents

Preface	v
Acknowledgements	vii
Table of Cases	xvii
Table of Statutes	xxv
Table of Secondary Legislation	xxxv

1 SETTING THE CONTEXT 1

1. The development of consumer law and policy	1
2. The new regulatory state and consumer law	7
2.1 New Labour and the rejuvenation of consumer policy	9
3. Consumer influence in contemporary society: getting more from the market or social transformation?	17
3.1 Interest group theories and public choice	18
3.2 Consumerism as bottom up or top down?	25
4. Markets, consumption and ideology	31
4.1 Consumer law, consumerism and neo-liberalism	38
5. The regional and global dimension	39
5.1 European consumer law and policy	39
6. Globalisation and consumer law	49

2 RATIONALES FOR CONSUMER LAW AND POLICY 53

1. Neo-classical rationales: market failure	55
1.1 Assumptions of market failure analysis	61
2. Information failures in consumer markets	64
2.1 Market structure and information failures	69
3. The new policy paradigm: behavioural economics	71
3.1 Hyperbolic discounting	72
3.2 Over-optimism	73
3.3 Framing effects	73
3.4 Availability and anchoring	74
3.5 Information overload	75
3.6 Fairness	75
3.7 Emotions and the economy	76
3.8 Behavioural economics and regulators	76
3.9 Implications of behavioural economics for consumer law and policy	76
4. Competition, information failures, bundling and switching costs	85

5. Equity	88
5.1 Assuring consumer access to markets at reasonable prices: social exclusion and consumer markets	92
5.2 Consumer entitlement: a rights approach	97
5.3 Community values	99
6. Paternalism	100
7. Sustainable consumption: ethical and fair trade	101

3 FRAMEWORKS AND FORMS OF REGULATION OF CONSUMER MARKETS 107

1. The new regulation	107
2. A decentered approach?	113
2.1 Self-regulation	115
2.2 The consumer as a regulatory subject	116
2.3 Transnational networks of consumer regulation	117
3. Techniques of regulation	119
3.1 Information remedies	119
3.2 Reducing enforcement costs	124
3.3 Changing default rules	125
3.4 Encouraging pre-commitment strategies	126
3.5 Standards	126
3.6 Individualised screening: licensing	127
3.7 Price controls	127
4. Competition policy, economic regulation and consumer policy	128
5. Adjudication and the regulatory role of courts	129
6. Public-interest groups and regulatory programmes	133
Case Study: The search for smart regulation: the internet and consumers	136

4 CASE STUDY: STANDARD FORM CONSUMER CONTRACTS AND UNFAIR TERMS 157

1 Rationales for regulation	157
1.1 Inequality of bargaining power	157
1.2 Neo-classical economic analysis and standard form contracts	160
1.3 Behavioural economics and standard form contracts	162
1.4 Understanding the role of standard form contracts in corporate relationships with consumers	164
2. Regulatory techniques	166
2.1 Judicial control	166
2.2 Administrative regulation of unfair terms	191
3. The role of the Office of Fair Trading in policing unfair terms under the Unfair Terms in Consumer Contracts Regulations	194
3.1 Exclusion and limitation of liability clauses	197
3.2 Penalty clauses	199
3.3 Supplier rights to vary terms, cancel performance and exercise discretion in performance	200

TABLE OF CONTENTS

xiii

3.4	Entire agreement clauses (Schedule 2(1)(n))	202
3.5	Transferring inappropriate risks to consumers	202
3.6	Plain and intelligible language	203
3.7	Case study: Gateway Computers	204
4.	Assessing the performance of the OFT	208
4.1	The Office of Fair Trading as bargaining agent for consumers	211

5 CASE STUDY: CONSUMER REDRESS AND ACCESS TO JUSTICE 215

1.	The spectrum of consumer redress	218
1.1	The role of intermediaries in consumer dispute handling in the UK	222
2.	Small claims procedures	227
2.1	The experience of the English small claims procedure as a consumer court	232
3.	Trade-association arbitration and conciliation	234
4.	Ombudsmen: the Financial Ombudsman Service	239
4.1	Ombudsmen and norm development	245
5.	Protecting diffuse interests: class and public-interest actions	254
5.1	Canadian experience of consumer class actions	261
6.	Cross border disputes	264

6 THE REGULATION OF DECEPTIVE AND UNFAIR COMMERCIAL PRACTICES 267

1.	Introduction: the search for market fairness	267
1.1	Market failure and unfair trade practices	269
1.2	Equity, fairness and community values	270
1.3	Institutional framework of trade practices regulation	273
2.	The EU Unfair Commercial Practices Directive and its implementation	275
2.1	The Rationale for the Directive	275
2.2	Maximal harmonisation and the Unfair Commercial Practices Directive	279
3.	Implementation	281
3.1	The scope of the Directive	282
4.	The architecture of the Directive	283
4.1	The role of the general clause	283
4.2	The standard of protection: the average consumer under the Unfair Commercial Practices Directive	285
4.3	False and misleading commercial practices	290
4.4	What is at stake in the average consumer test? A comparative note	300
4.5	Disclaimers, 'car clocking' and the UCPD	304
4.6	The nature of a statement: promise as to the future or statement of existing fact?	310
4.7	Misleading pricing: the search for market fairness	313
4.8	Immoveable property	321
5.	Aggressive commercial practices	321
6.	Prohibited practices: Annex 1	326
6.1	Pyramids and ponzis	327

6.2	Bait and switch	329
6.3	Unsolicited goods and inertia selling	330
7.	'Cooling-off' periods in consumer transactions	330
7.1	Doorstep selling	331
7.2	Distance selling and cooling-off	339
7.3	Timeshares and cooling-off	343
7.4	Cooling-off periods and stimulating competitive markets: extended warranties	344
7.5	Reflections on cooling-off periods	345

7 IMPLEMENTATION AND ENFORCEMENT OF UNFAIR COMMERCIAL PRACTICES LAW 347

1.	The structure of public enforcement of commercial practices law in the UK	348
1.1	The role of the courts	352
2.	Models of enforcement	353
3.	Methods of public enforcement	355
3.1	The old workhorse: the regulatory offence	356
4.	Administrative remedies	382
4.1	Injunctions	382
4.2	Administrative penalties	383
4.3	The enforceable undertaking	383
4.4	Adverse publicity: naming and shaming	386
4.5	Public power to obtain compensation and redress	387
4.6	Restorative justice orders	387
5.	The balance of public and private enforcement of unfair trading law	388
6.	The role of self-regulatory organisations in enforcing unfair commercial practices law	391
7.	Cross border enforcement of commercial practices law	392

8 DECEPTIVE AND UNFAIR ADVERTISING 395

1.	Objectives of advertising regulation	398
2.	Private law remedies for misleading advertising	400
2.1	Puffing and its limits	400
2.2	Theories of recovery for manufacturers' advertising claims	403
3.	Alternative remedies for misleading advertising	417
3.1	Advertising claim substantiation	417
3.2	Corrective advertising	423
4.	Unfair advertising	423
4.1	Advertising to children	425
4.2	Race discrimination in advertising: advertising as exclusion	430
5.	Commercial speech and advertising	431
6.	Mandated self-regulation and co-regulation: the Advertising Standards Authority	437

TABLE OF CONTENTS

xv

9	THE RISE, PAUSE AND RISE OF AN AGENCY: THE OFFICE OF FAIR TRADING	453
1.	Legislative background and rationale for the creation of the Office of Fair Trading	454
1.1	1973–2005 Crusading, drifting and resurgence	456
1.2	Competition and consumer policy	459
2.	Identifying priorities, measuring success: technocracy and politics	461
3.	Reform and change in markets	464
3.1	The failure of rule-making: Part II of the Fair Trading Act	465
3.2	Trade association codes of practice: plus ça change?	466
3.3	Regulation through market studies and supercomplaints	473
3.4	Case study: rulemaking and credit card default charges	485
4.	Regulation of individual trade practices	485
4.1	The failure of assurances of compliance against persistently unfair traders: Part III of the Fair Trading Act 1973	485
4.2	Administrative enforcement: Part 8 Enterprise Act	486
4.3	Enforcement of misleading advertising: co-regulation with the ASA	497
4.4	Consumer credit licensing	499
4.5	Test cases	507
4.6	Publicity as an enforcement weapon	508
5.	Communication as regulation: use of the media and consumer education	510
6.	Regional and international dimension of OFT regulation	511
7.	Continuity and change in the role of the Office of Fair Trading	512
10	REGULATION OF CONSUMER CREDIT MARKETS	515
1.	Consumer credit markets	516
1.1.	The costs and benefits of consumer credit	524
2.	Rationales for regulation of consumer credit markets	526
3.	The Consumer Credit Act 1974	530
3.1	Institutional structure of credit regulation	531
4.	Controlling supplier access to the consumer credit market: licensing	533
5.	Information remedies	533
5.1	Required disclosures: truth in lending	533
5.2	Post-contractual information	540
5.3	Formalities and the sanction of nullity	541
5.4	Early settlement and promoting competition	545
5.5	Reducing creditor costs: credit information, credit scoring and credit bureaux	546
6.	Responsibilising the consumer: financial literacy	550
7.	Responsible lending	552
8.	Regulating contract terms	555
8.1	Cooling-off periods in credit sales	555
8.2	The price of credit: usury	555
8.3	Judicial control of credit terms: unfair credit relationships	559
9.	Harnessing market gate-keepers: connected-lender's liability	569
10.	Dispute settlement and the role of the Financial Ombudsman Service	577
11.	Over-indebtedness and regulation of credit default	578

TABLE OF CONTENTS

11.1	Creditors' remedies and consumer protection	580
11.2	The regulation of default	582
11.3	Promoting settlement and providing debtor access to justice: the role of intermediaries	589
12.	Restructuring and writing down consumer debt	591
12.1	Individual voluntary arrangements	591
12.2	Administration orders	593
12.3	Bankruptcy as a consumer remedy	593
13.	Institutional alternatives and access to affordable credit	599
13.1	Community Reinvestment Act	603
11	QUALITY REGULATION AND POST-PURCHASE QUALITY PROBLEMS	605
1.	Sources of quality problems: an economic perspective	605
2.	Consumer product warranties	610
3.	Private liability law	615
3.1	Correspondence with description	617
3.2	Satisfactory quality and fitness for particular purpose	620
3.3	Conceptualising the implied term of satisfactory quality	629
3.4	Judicial standards in relation to high value consumer products— automobiles and yachts	631
3.5	The structure of consumer remedies: designed for adjudication or bargaining?	645
3.6	Rejection rights outside the Sale of Goods Act	650
3.7	Manufacturers' legal liability to consumers for economic loss	652
3.8	Reducing consumer costs in quality disputes? Lemon laws	657
4.	The regulation of product market quality: the case of used cars	661
5.	Services	665
5.1	Civil liability and service quality	665
5.2	Service performance and consumer bargaining power	669
5.3	Consumer damages	673
6.	Car servicing	676
7.	Financial services regulation as a model of quality regulation?	680
8.	The professions and the market	680
12	PRODUCT SAFETY REGULATION	689
1.	Rationales and objectives: defining an acceptable social risk	691
2.	The development of consumer product safety regulation in the United Kingdom	700
2.1	Product safety standards	702
3.	The EU 'New Approach' to standards and consumer product safety standardisation	705
3.1	Representation of consumer interests on standardisation bodies	711
4.	Post marketing surveillance and the enforcement of product safety standards	717
5.	Private liability law: product liability	721
5.1	Liability under the Consumer Protection Act 1987	722