

Index

- accountability, 265–266
- accountants, 264–268
- acquisitions, 14–18
 - See also* mergers and acquisitions
- actual capital, 24–25
- Advanced Internal Ratings Based. See AIRB
- advanced measurement approaches See AMA
- adverse selection, 200–201
- aggregating losses, 407–408
 - simulating, 408
- aggregation with thresholds, 408–409
- AIRB (Advanced Internal Ratings Based)
 - and credit risk, 104
- Altman’s multi-discriminant (Z-score) model, 67–68
- AMA (advanced measurement approaches), 282
 - and best practices, 213
 - and operational risk, 104, 280
- Argenti’s A-score, 66
- ARROW I framework, 54, 58–61
- ARROW II framework, 55, 62–63
- ARROW II risk model, 55–56, 62–63
- Asian Crisis, 7
- auditing, 264–268
 - audited accounts, 255–256
 - auditors, 41–42
- bancassurance, 18
- banking environment, 7–11
- banks, 271–275
 - and insurance, 195–196, 208–209
 - summary and conclusion, 263–264
- Barings, 280
- Basel Accord (original), 21–23
- Basel II (New Basel capital Accord), 3, 7, 182
 - and best practices, 213
 - damage to physical assets, 103
 - definition of operational risk, 103–104
 - impact on level of capital held by banks, 23–24
 - insurance as risk management tool, 187
 - paper on corporate governance, 33–34
 - Pillar 3, 7
 - loss data analysis, 281–283
 - regulatory perspective, 100–101
 - transparency, 8, 254
 - use test, 215–216
 - basis indicator approach, 281
- Bayes Belief Networks. See BBN
- Bayes, Reverend Thomas, (1702–1761), 142, 330
- Bayesian statistics, 141–149
 - and probability, 330–335
- BBN (Bayes Belief Networks), 412–413
- BCM (business continuity management)
 - and contingency, 231–233
- Beaver’s univariate model, 66–67
- best practices
 - and banks, 274
 - contingency and business continuity, 231–233
 - governance and management, 219–227
 - information technology, 233–236
 - insurance and other risk transfer options, 236–238
 - introduction, 213–219
 - quantification and assessment, 227–231
 - transparency, 239–240
- beta distribution, 355
- binomial distribution, 337–340
- board members, 41
- bootstrap, 414–415
- Bortkiewicz, Ladislaus, 347
- box plots, 298–299
- Burr distribution, 357
- Burr, Irving W, 357
- business continuity management. See BCM
- Capital Requirements Directive, 7
- CAMEL framework, 47–49

- CAMPARI & ICE (Character, Ability, Means, Purpose, Amount, Repayment, Insurance, Interest, Charges and Extras), 45
- CAMPARI (Character, Ability, Means, Purpose, Amount, Repayment, Insurance), 45
- capital
- as solution to risk, 24
 - estimating requirement from scenario analysis, 158
 - impact of Basel II on level of capital held by banks, 23–24
 - importance and limitations, 20–27
 - importance of in different markets, 26
 - not a panacea, 215
 - supplement to risk management, 4–5
 - use of models to quantify adequacy of, 250
- Capital, Character and capability (CCC), 45
- capitalization of insurers, 198–199
- case studies
- fitting a loss data set, 399–403
 - fitting sequential loss data, 403–405
- cash flow smoothing, 191–192
- cashflow return on investment (CFROI), 5
- cauchy distribution, 357–358
- causal analysis, 132–133
- Bayesian approach, 141–149
 - history, 136–138
 - introduction, 135–136
 - mapping causality, 138–141
- CCC (Capital, Character and capability), 45
- Central Limit Theorem, 391–392
- CEO and separation of role from chairman, 40–41
- CFROI (cashflow return on investment), 5
- chairman and separation of role from CEO, 40–41
- Character, Ability, Means, Purpose, Amount, Repayment, Insurance, Interest, Charges and Extras. See CAMPARI & ICE
- Character, Ability, Means, Purpose, Amount, Repayment, Insurance. See CAMPARI
- CIPFA (Chartered Institute of Public Finance and Accountancy)
- definition of CRSA, 80
- coherent risk measures, 411–412
- Combined Code and Turnbull Guidelines, 182
- Committee of Sponsoring Organizations of the Treadway Commission. See COSO
- commoditization of products, 9
- Commonwealth Code, 33
- competitive advantage and banks, 273–274
- composite alternative hypothesis, 328–329
- contingency planning
- and BCM, 231–233
 - introduction, 153
- continuous probability distribution
- beta distribution, 355
 - Burr distribution, 357
 - cauchy distribution, 357–358
 - exponential distribution, 358–360
 - Frechét distribution, 360–361
 - Gamma distribution, 361–362
 - generalized extreme value distribution, 362–364
 - generalized Pareto distribution, 364–366
 - Gumbel distribution, 366–368
 - logistical distribution, 368–370
 - lognormal distribution, 371
 - normal distribution, 370–371
 - Pareto distribution, 372–373
 - power function distribution, 373
 - Tukey's g-and-h distributions, 374
 - Tukey's lamda distributions, 374–375
 - uniform distributions, 375–376
 - Weibull distributions, 376–378
- continuous probability models, 307–315
- Control Risk Self Assessment. See CRSA
- copulas, 416
- corporate governance, 6–7, 259
- and ethics, 31–32
 - assessing governance, bribery and corruption, 38–40
- Basel paper, 33–34
- board structures, 37
- defining, 31
- Europe, 34–35
- improving, 8–9
- international organizations, 32–33
- key considerations, 40–42
- shareholders and extra financial issues, 37–38
- United Kingdom, 35–36
- United States, 36–37
- Corruption Perception Index (CPI), 39–40
- COSO framework, 178–183
- cost of capital, xviii
- counterfactual approach, 137
- courtroom fallacy, 332
- CPI (Corruption Perception Index), 39–40
- credibility theory, 413–414
- credit analysis, 47
- credit rating agencies
- analyst's workload, 251–252
 - compared to use of models using market data, 250–251
 - inability to spot problems, 248
 - investors and analysts, 248–249
 - rating of banks, 24
 - regulators and insurers, 205–206
 - 7 pillars, 49–51
- credit risk
- and AIRB, 104
 - and FIRB, 104

- and market risk, 103–104
 - relationship with market risk, and operational risk, 45–46
- credit risk models, 70–71
- credit risk transfer (CRT), 11
- CreditRisk+, 72–73
- CRSA (Control Risk Self Assessment)
 - advocates, 80
 - and knowledge management, 87
 - avoiding ossification, 88
 - benchmarking and stress testing, 93–94
 - benefits and limitations, 80–81
 - credibility and appropriateness, 85–86
 - defining, 80
 - developing and refining system, 85
 - flexibility and responsiveness, 90–91
 - introduction, 79–80
 - limitations of enforced best practice, 91–93
 - loss data, 83–84
 - managing risk within communities of practice, 89–90
 - methodology, 81–82
 - questionnaires and weightings, 83
 - reasons for failure, 94
 - residual risks, 81
 - resource allocation, 83
 - types of meeting, 82–83
 - validation, 86
- CRT (credit risk transfer), 11
- customer loyalty, 218–219
- customer satisfaction and loyalty
 - measuring, 57–58
- data
 - accumulation of errors and weaknesses, 112–114
 - adjustment techniques, 202
 - allocation of losses across business units, 103
 - and risk classification, 202
 - consequences of differences of approach, 102
 - credit risk and market risk, 103–104
 - damage to physical assets, 103
 - date of loss, 102
 - differences in requirements, 203
 - error and accuracy, 105
 - external events, 109–111
 - extreme events, 104
 - granularity, 114–115
 - gross or net losses, 102
 - historical data, 105
 - importance of, 99
 - past as predictor, 105
 - random events, 112
 - recording of, 101
 - regulatory perspective, 100–101
 - risk types and causes, 107
 - scaleability, 106
 - small sample problem, 104
 - sources and limitations, 101
 - system and process loss events, 108–109
 - using external data, 105
 - validation and adjustments, 115
- data analysis
 - appropriate curves, 121–122
 - causal analysis, 132–133
 - defining a distribution curve, 122
 - empirical distributions, 120
 - EVT (Extreme Value Theory), 124–126
 - expert testimony, 132
 - fit, 122
 - interpreting results, 126
 - introduction, 119–120
 - loss data and granularity, 128
 - model validation, 127–128
 - Monte Carlo analysis, 122–124
 - need for quantitative and qualitative methods, 128–129
 - probability distributions, 120–121
 - regression equations, 131–132
 - risk analysis and modeling continuum, 129–131
 - stochastic processes, 131
- data mining, 415
- data sets, 286–289
 - with moment statistics, 291–296
 - with proportion plot or histogram plot, 289–291
 - with quantile statistics, 296–302
- Davies distribution, 382
- De Moivre's theorem, 337
- defaults, analysis into, 251
- delays in insurance payments, 200
- deregulation of banking, 9
- DFA (Dynamic Financial Analysis), 412
 - aggregation, correlation and diversification, 171
 - background, 168–169
 - data considerations, 171
 - future, 172–175
 - generalized DFA framework, 170
 - introduction, 167
 - limitations of DFA models, 171–172
 - methodology, 170–171
 - outputs and analysis, 172
- discrete probability models, 307
- discrete uniform distribution, 352–353
- disintermediation, 9
- distribution curve, 122
- Dynamic Financial Analysis. See DFA
- economic capital
 - assessing requirements, 26

- economic capital (Continued)
 defining, 24–25
 methodologies, 25 economic value added (EVA), 5 economic, social and corporate governance (ESG), 7 effects analysis, 141
empirical distributions, 120
Enhancing Corporate Governance for Banking Organizations, 33–34
Enron, xvii environmental issues, 6–7
equity analysis, 46–47
ERM (Enterprise Risk Management)
 and banks, 273
 and ratings, 216, 249–250
 ERM frameworks, 178–184
 ERM modeling, 184–185
 introduction, 177–178
 risk correlation and integration, 184–185
ESG (economic, social and corporate governance), 7
Essay Towards Solving a Problem in the Doctrine of Chances, 142 ethics and corporate governance, 31–32
Europe and corporate governance, 34–35
EVA (economic value added), 5 event tree analysis, 140
EVT (Extreme Value Theory), 124–126, 391–394
expert testimony, 132
exponential distribution, 358–360
external assessment frameworks, 46–49
external data, 105–106
external events, 109–111
Extreme Value Theory. See EVT
- failure mode, 141 fair-value accounting, 266–267
FASB (Financial Accounting Standards Board)
 risk management, 266
fault tree analysis, 140
Financial Services Authority. See FSA financial systems, improving stability and credibility of, 257 finite risk plans, 197–198, 205
FIRB (Foundation Internal Ratings Based)
 and credit risk, 104
forecasting, 247
forensic approach to risk management, 4
Foundation Internal Ratings Based (FIRB), 104
Fréchet distribution, 360–361
Fréchet, Maurice, 360 frequency curves. See severity and frequency curves frequency models and small data sets, 387–389
 Bernoulli distribution, 337, 338, 339
 binomial distribution, 337–340
 combining data with severity data, 407–409
 discrete uniform distribution, 352–353
 geometric distribution, 341–343
 hypergeometric distribution, 343
 mixture models, 353–354
 multinomial distribution, 340–341
 negative binomial distribution, 343–346
 Poisson distribution, 346–352
 trinomial distribution, 340
FSA (Financial Services Authority)
 ARROW I framework, 54, 58–61
 ARROW II framework, 55
 ARROW II risk model, 55–56
 BCM benchmarking exercise, 232 taking action against individuals, xviii fundamental assessment credit ratings agencies, 49–51 enhanced analytics, 56–57
 external assessment frameworks, 46–49 measuring customer satisfaction and loyalty, 57–58 regulatory approach, 53–56 relationship between credit risk, market risk, and operational risk, 45–46
- Gamma distribution, 361–362
generalized extreme value distribution, 362–364 generalized Pareto distribution. See GPD
geometric distribution, 341–343
globalization, 9–10
Gompertz, Benjamin, (1779–1865), 366
Gompertz distribution, 366–368
goodness-of-fit tests, 396–397
governance and management central operational risk, 225 independence of operational risk function, 225–226 information flow, 227 management structure and responsibilities, 222–223 operational risk appetite and tolerance, 223–225 quality of employees, 221–222 responsibility and the board, 219–220 risk management environment and framework, 223 specialists, 225
GPD (generalized Pareto distribution), 364–366 fitting tail to a GEV, 397–398
Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act, 182
granularity, 114–115
 and linearity, 202
 and loss data, 128

- Gumbel distribution, 366–368
Gumbel, Emil J, (1891–1966), 366
- high frequency low severity losses, 204 historical assessment approach to capital, 20–21 historical data, inflation and currency variations, 105
hypergeometric distribution, 343
hypothesis testing, 327–328
- IASB (International Accounting Standards Board), 7, 8, 266
ICAP (Internal Capital Apportionment), 25
ICT (information and communication technology), 10–11
 best practices, 233–236
IFRS (International Financial Reporting Standards), 7, 8
IMA (internal measurement approaches), 282–283
- individuals protection from fraud, 235–236 responsibility for performance, xvii–xviii
- industry views
 analysis into defaults, 251
 audited accounts, 255–256
 credit rating agencies and investors and analysts, 248–249 credit rating agency analyst’s workload, 251–252 ERM and ratings, 249–250
 extra-financial enhanced analytics, 246–247 improving stability and credibility of financial system, 257 litigation, 254
 major challenges, 257–259 need for forensic approach to risk assessment, 249 preventing excessive risk taking, 245–246 problems with credit rating agencies, 248 quality of reporting and forecasting, 247 rating agencies, 252–254
 transparency, 254
 triggers for downgrade, 251 use of models for quantification, 250–251 use of specialists, 252
- information and communication technology. See ICT
- Institute of Operational Risk. See IOR
- institutional shareholder-investors, 262–263
- insurance
 and banks, 208–209
 and regulators, 237
 gaps and overlaps, 198
 insurance companies, 270–271
 introduction, 187
 issues and limiting factors, 198–205
 operational risk insurance, 206–207 potential of operational risk insurance, 236–237 regulators and risk rating agencies, 205–206
 systemic risk, 206
 viable products and responsibilities, 238
- Internal Capital Apportionment (ICAP), 25
- internal measurement approaches (IMA), 282–283
- internal operational risk models, 73–74
- International Accounting Standards Board. See IASB
- International Financial Reporting Standards. See IFRS
- interval estimation, 320–321
- investors and credit rating agencies, 248–249
- jackknife, 414
- key performance indicators (KPIs), 5
key risk indicators (KRIs), 5
KMV model, 72
knowledge management
 aetiology of, 87–88
 and risk management, 87
Kon Trag Legislation, 182
KPIs (key performance indicators), 5
KRIs (key risk indicators), 5
- latent losses, 204–205
- LDA (loss distribution approach), 283
- left-truncated Poisson distribution, 351–352
- legislature
 increased requirements, 7–8
 summary and conclusions, 263–264
- likelihood ratio tests, 328
- linear discriminant analysis, 415
- linear regression models, 321
- L-moments, 301–302
- LogGamma distribution, 361–362
- logistic regression, 325–326
- logistical distribution, 368–370
- lognormal distribution, 371–372
- Long Term Capital Management (LTCM), xvii
- losers and winners, identifying, 19–20
- loss data analysis, 281–283
 checking data quality, 302–305
 data classification, 285 data sets with moment statistics, 291–296 data sets with proportion plot or histogram plot, 289–291 data sets with quantile statistics, 296–302
 data sets, 286–289
 database creation, 285–297

- loss data (Continued) problems with modeling, 305–306 questionnaires, 286 loss distribution approach (LDA), 283 loss distribution curve, 203–204 loss events, impact, xvii
LTCM (Long Term Capital Management), xvii
- management, 18–19 market risk
 and credit risk, 103–104
 and credit risk, and operational risk, 45–46 market segmentation, 13–14
maximum likelihood estimation. See MLE mergers and acquisitions, 14–18
Merton's 1974 model, 71–72
mess, 154
method of moment estimation. See MoME minimum variance unbiased estimators (MVUE), 315
mixture models, 353–354
MLE (maximum likelihood estimation), 315, 317–320
model development, 155–156
model validation, 127–128
MoME (method of moment estimation), 315, 316
Monte Carlo analysis 122–124
 combining severity and frequency curves, 122–124
Moody's operational risk assessment, 51–53 moral hazard, 201
morphological analysis, 155
multinomial distribution, 340–341
multiple regression models, 324–325 mutual self-insurance pools, 196–197, 205 MVUE (minimum variance unbiased estimators), 315
- necessary causes, 138
negative binomial distribution, 343–346
New Basel capital Accord. See Basel II
New York Stock Exchange. See NYSE non-executive directors, 41
normal distribution, 370–372
NYSE (New York Stock Exchange), 182
- OECD (Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development) activities of, 32–33 importance of good corporate governance, 6 off-balance sheet activities, 267
Ohlson's logit model, 68
operational risk and AMA, 104, 280
 and insurance, 195–196
 and TSA, 104
 relationship with credit risk, and market risk, 45–46
 use of models to quantify, 250 operational risk appetite (ORA), 223–225
operational risk insurance bank's decisions, 195–196 demand for, 207
 product development, 206–207 operational risk management and BCM, 232–233
 and competitive advantage, 4 sound practices, 243–244 operational risk tolerance (ORT), 223–225
ORA (operational risk appetite), 223–225 Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development. See OECD
ORT (operational risk tolerance), 223–225
- parameter estimates, 323–324
Pareto distribution, 372–373
Pareto, Vilfredo, 372
PARSERS (Personality, Amount, Repayment,
 Security, Expenditure, Renumeration, Services), 45
PARTS (Purpose, Amount, Repayment, Terms, Security), 45
peril-specific approach to insurance, 206
Personality, Amount, Repayment, Security, Expenditure, Renumeration, Services
 (PARSERS), 45
Poisson distribution, 347
 and exponential distribution, 360 frequency modeling and small data sets, 389 Poisson, Siméon Denis, (1781–1840), 347 political influences, 267–268
portfolio credit risk models, 73
power function distribution, 373 pressure to perform, 247
PRI (Principles for Responsible Investment), 7
Principles for Responsible Investment. See PRI probability plots, 326
probability distributions, 120–121
probabilistic causation, 137 problem, 154
Purpose, Amount, Repayment, Terms, Security (PARTS), 45
puzzle, 154
- quality control, 416–417
quantification, 6, 138–140 and assessment, 227–231
 and risk assessment, 203 and scenario analysis, 157
 introduction, 279–280
 loss data analysis, 281–283

- measuring the unmeasurable, 280–281
- modeling and banks, 274
- objectives, 280
- use of models, 250
- quantile functions, 380–383
 - and extreme value models, 385
- quantile regression, 385
- RAROC (risk adjusted return on capital employed), 5
- ratings agencies, 268–270
 - accountability, 265–266
 - highlighting concerns, 253–254
 - privileged position of, 252–253
- regression equations, 131–132
- regulation, 3
 - analysis, 47
 - approach to fundamental assessment, 53–56
 - concerns over regulatory actions, 258
 - increased requirements, 7–8
 - loss data analysis, 281–283
- regulators
 - insurance and risk rating agencies, 205–206
 - rating agencies highlighting concerns, 253–254
 - summary and conclusions, 263–264
- regulatory capital, 126–127
- reinsurance, 199–200
- reporting, 247, 264–268
- reputation and banks, 271–273
- reputational risk, 217–218
- resampling methods, 414–415
- responsiveness to change, 3
- return values, 379–380
- RIMS Risk Maturity Model, 183–184
- risk
 - and insurability, 193–195
 - need for forensic approach to assessment, 249
 - quantile functions for extreme value models, 385
 - quantile functions, 380–383
 - quantile regression, 385
 - return values, 379–380
 - simulation data, 383–385
- risk adjusted return on capital employed (RAROC), 5
- risk analysis
 - and modeling continuum, 129–131
 - quantitative and qualitative methods, 128–129
- risk and default analysis
 - Argenti's A-score, 66
 - commercially available operational risk systems, 75–76
 - credit risk models, 70–71
 - CreditRisk+, 72–73
 - internal operational risk models, 73–74
 - KMV model, 72
 - Merton's 1974 model, 71–72
 - portfolio credit risk models, 73
 - predicting soundness, 65
 - statistical failure prediction models, 66–70
- Risk and Insurance Management Society. See RIMS
- risk capital, determining requirements, 26–27
- risk management
 - and banks, 273–275
 - and quality control, 416–417
 - applying scenario analysis, 157–160
 - approach to, xviii
 - appropriate and adequate measures, 5–6
 - benefits of insurance as, 192–193
 - risk transfer tools, 10
 - strategy - winners and losers, 11–20
 - summary and conclusions, 266
- risk mitigation and insurance, 188
- risk transfer and insurance, 188
- risk types and causes, 107
- Russian Default, 7
- Sarbanes-Oxley Act, 2002, 8, 36–37, 182
- scaleability of data, 106
- scenario analysis
 - and quantitative techniques, 157
 - application to risk management in banks, 157–160
 - external business environment assessment, 160–162
 - historical development, 153–155
 - introduction, 153
 - management and facilitation, 156–157
 - model development, 155–156
 - morphological analysis, 155
 - Shell global scenarios to 2025, 162–164
 - validity and repeatability, 157
- securitization, 197, 205
- severity and frequency curves
 - combining with Monte Carlo analysis 122–124
- severity data and frequency data, 407–409
- severity modeling
 - choosing a model, 391
 - estimating tail shape parameters, 394–396
 - extreme value theory, 391–394
 - fitting a GPD tail to a GEV, 397–398
 - goodness-of-fit tests, 396–397
 - modeling excesses, 394
- shareholders
 - and extra financial issues, 37–38
 - greater power of, 10
 - value influenced by risk management, xviii
- simulation data, 383–385
- small sample problem, 306

- social issues, 6–7
- soundness, 65
- Standardized Approach, 281
- statistical analytic models, 184
- statistical failure prediction models, 66–70
- statistical theory
 - continuous probability models, 307–315
 - discrete probability models, 307
 - introductory statistical methods, 315–321
 - probability and Bayesian statistics, 330–335
 - regression analysis, 321–326
 - validation, testing model fit, 326–330
- stochastic differential equations, 131
- stochastic modeling, 131
- straight line regression, 321–323
- strategy, 11–13
- stress testing, 159–160
- structural simulation models, 184
- sufficient causes, 138
- summary, conclusions and recommendations
 - accountants, auditors and reporting bodies, 264–268
 - banks, 271–275
 - institutional shareholder-investors, 262–263
 - insurance companies, 270–271
 - introduction, 261–262
 - ratings agencies, 268–270
 - regulators, legislators and banks, 263–264
- systemic risk, 201–202
- technological developments, 10–11
- the standardized approach See TSA
- transparency, xviii, 8, 239–240, 254
 - and banks, 274–275
- trinomial distribution, 340
- TSA (the standardized approach)
 - and operational risk, 104
 - Tukey, John (1915–2000), 374
 - Tukey’s g-and-h distributions, 374
 - Tukey’s lamda distributions, 374–375
- uniform distributions, 375–376
- United Kingdom and corporate governance, 35–36
- United Nations Convention against Corruption, 33
- United States and corporate governance, 36–37
- US Patriot Act, 182
- use test, 215–216
- validation
 - testing model fit, 326–330
- validity and repeatability, 157
- Value-at-Risk. See VaR
- value-maximising insurance decision, 190–191
- VaR (Value-at-Risk), 283
 - definition, 411
- Vinso’s enhanced gambler’s ruin approach, 69–70
- Wakeby distribution, 382
- Weibull distributions, 376–378
- Weibull, Waloddi, (1887–1979), 376
- Wilcox’s gambler’s ruin approach, 69
- winners and losers, identifying, 19–20
- withdrawal of insurance, 199
- World Bank, 33
- Zavgren’s refined logit model, 68
- zeros-added mixtures models, 353–354
- zero-truncated Poisson distribution, 350–351