

CONTENTS

Foreword	xv
Preface	xix
Acknowledgments	xxiii
Introduction	1
Audience	1
Product Description	2
Related Products	2
Explanation of Model or Theory	2
Glossary of Key Terms	3
Facilitator's Guidelines	4

PART ASetting the Stage

Chapter 1: Games? Really?	9
Engaging Experiences	11
Why Engagement?	13
The Learning-Doing Continuum	15
The Payoff	17
Road Map	18
Chapter 2: Learning Basics	23
Instructional Design	24
Cognitive Enhancements	29
A Convergent Model	33
Summary	37
Chapter 3: Experience Basics	39
Engagement	40
Sources	43
Synthesis	48
Summary	49

PART BA Play in Three Acts

Chapter 4: Engagement-Education Synergy	53
---	----

Implications	55
Summary	64
Case Study 1: “Quest for Independence”	64
Chapter 5: Trajectory	75
Level 1: Mini-Scenarios	77
Case Study 2: “MediaSpeak”	80
Level 2: Linked Scenarios	87
Case Study 3: Project Management Overview, Phase 1	89
Level 3: Contingent Scenarios	95
Case Study 4: Vehicle Selling	96
Level 4: The Full Monty	102
Case Study 5: Drug Therapy Demo	107
Trade-offs	112
Chapter 6: A Design Process	113
Design Basics	114
Design Stages	116
Instructional Design	123
Engagement Perspective	125
Engaged Design: Creating Meaningful Practice	128
Engaged Design: The Process	132
Summary	153
Summary Checklist	153

PART CSet Design and Afterthoughts

Chapter 7: Pragmatics	157
Budget	157
Production	159
Prototyping Tools	160
Media	162
Writing	165
Humor	166
Cartoons and Comics	166
Culture	167
Gender	169
Age and Development	169
Evaluation	170
Multiplayer Games	171
Nonelectronic Games and Electronic Interactions	172
Technology Environments	173
Teams and Talent	175
 Chapter 8: Future Issues	 179
Affect	179
Learning Objects	180
Going Mobile	182
Personalization	183
Meta-Learning	184

New Input and Output Technologies	185
Design Magic	186
Chapter 9: Conclusion	187
Where We've Been	188
Just Do It	189
When to Do It	191
Where to Go for Further Information	192
Tally Ho!	194
Bibliography	195
Index	201
About the Author	209

<http://www.pbookshop.com>

<http://www.pbookshop.com>