

Contents

Preface	v
Notes on Contributors	ix
1 Introduction: Judgment and Calling to Account Antony Duff, Lindsay Farmer, Sandra Marshall, Victor Tadros	1
2 Trial and 'Fair Trial': From Peer to Subject to Citizen Mireille Hildebrandt	15
3 Theorising Procedural Tradition: Subjects, Objects and Values in Criminal Adjudication Paul Roberts	37
4 The Trial and its Alternatives as Speech Situations Evi Girling, Marion Smith and Richard Sparks	65
5 'Who do you Think you Are?' The Criminal Trial and Community Character Sherman J Clark	83
6 Theorising Jury Reform Mike Redmayne	99
7 It's Good to Talk—Speaking Rights and the Jury Burkhard Schäfer and Olav K Wiegand	117
8 Democratic Accountability and Lay Participation in Criminal Trials Tatjana Hörnle	135
9 Judgment and Calling to Account: Truths, Trials and Reconciliations Scott Veitch	155
10 The Political Trial and Reconciliation Bert van Roermund	173
11 Perpetrator Proceedings and Didactic Trials Lawrence Douglas	191
12 Why have a Trial when you can have a Bargain? Thomas Weigend	207

viii Contents

13	Conceptions of the Trial in Inquisitorial and Adversarial Procedure Jacqueline Hodgson	223
14	Theorising the Criminal Trial and Criminal Appeal: Finality, Truth and Rights Richard Nobles and David Schiff	243
	Index	261

<http://www.pbookshop.com>