

CONTENTS

1. BUSINESS INTELLIGENCE?	1
• “I’m too busy, I’m in a meeting.”	2
• Business intelligence?	2
• Tick Achieve : what does it mean?	3
• What does Tick Achieve not mean?	3
• What is a tick?	4
• What does achieve mean?	5
• Achievement is not an endgame	6
• Professional time wasting	6
• Most businesspeople want to waste time	7
• Seeing through the red mist	9
• Addicted to work	9
• The modern curse of WIP	10
• Yes, but have you actually done it?	11
• How to think more and worry less	11
• How being organized lets you take it easy	11
• Outcome not output	12
• Action not activity	13
• Cause and effect: first principles	13
• “If I do x, then y will happen...”	14
• Most of what people do has nothing to do with the main point	14
• What’s on your list?	15
• How to Tick Achieve	15
• What’s to come?	17

2. TALKING STRAIGHT	19
• People who are incapable of coming to the point are literally pointless	20
• The new world of waffle	20
• You can't think straight if you can't talk straight	21
• The curse of internal waffle	22
• Duckspeak and Birtspcak	22
• There's waffle and there's strategic waffle	24
• A strategy is simply when you have decided what to do	26
• The rise of Offlish	26
• Mission Incomprehensible	27
• The fine art of business fiction	30
• Spotting waffle	32
• Understand how language works	33
• Pleonasms and circumlocution	35
• Permission to talk straight	36
• If you must use jargon at work, do not use it at home	37
• The mate, mum or grandmother test	37
• How to talk straight	38
3. LEAVE IT OUT	39
• Brevity equals intelligence	40
• Less really is more	40
• The Laws of Simplicity	41
• How eliminating issues gets to faster answers	43
• Does this need to be done at all?	44
• Extraneous extraction	44
• How leaving it out forces the issue	45
• Reductionism: think harder and simplify everything	46
• Boxy minds and why they help	46
• Anti lists	48

- Tasks do not improve in quality if they are delayed 49
- Do less and get more done 49
- Towards a manifesto for Tick Achieve 49
- Say no more often 50
- Debate hard and early 52
- Have a system 53
- Once you have written a task down you can forget about it 54
- Trust your Depth Mind 54
- Kick bad habits 55
- Killer Questions 56
- How to leave it out 57

4. ONE IN A ROW 59

- Achievement does not have to be a relentless series of successes 60
- The sublime accountant 60
- Breaking big problems down 61
- How to eat an elephant 62
- Introducing mini steps 62
- Rapid Sequential Tasking 63
- The one-touch approach 65
- Never touch a piece of paper or email more than once 65
- An untidy desk used to betray disorganization – now technology hides it 67
- Think, do 67
- Possible meanings of think 67
- Possible meanings of do 68
- Improving your time management 69
- The curse of modern technology 71
- Managing machines 72
- Most of the people on any given street are moving without paying attention 72

• Attention deficit syndrome	72
• If you want to get something done, turn off your mobile or hand-held device	74
• Hello Personal Organizer, goodbye Personal Assistant	74
• The overnight test	75
• Haste and regret	75
• Emailed does not mean the job is done	76
• Compress, excess and success	77
• How to practice one in a row	77
5. TICK ACHIEVE	79
• To tick off is to move on	80
• The need for structure	81
• Boxy minds and phrenologists	82
• The art of great list writing	83
• The PERFECT system	83
• Personal priority	85
• Emotional importance	86
• Reason for doing	86
• Financial value to you	87
• Everyone else's priorities	87
• Chronological sift	88
• Time shifts	88
• VPNs	89
• The Priority Matrix	90
• Bad lists and how to spot them	91
• Don't talk about it: do it	92
• Talk can be the enemy of action	92
• The power of instinct	93
• Views of the experts	94
• Tick Achieve as a way of life	95
• Just because a task is started, it doesn't mean it is finished	96

• A task is only finished when it is finished	96
• How to Tick Achieve	96
6. LOOK LIVELY	99
• Liveliness of the mind is more effective than any physical activity	100
• The rigour of vigour	100
• The more you do, the more you will get done	101
• Energy and the art of effective activity	102
• Getting your attitude right	103
• Walk TALL	104
• Conquering the quotidian	105
• Liberate more time for the things that you find enjoyable	106
• The joys of experimentation	107
• Laziness vs. liveliness	108
• When to do nothing	111
• The value of self-editing	111
• Quantity is no substitute for clarity	112
• How to look lively	112
7. OUTTHINK YOURSELF	115
• Knowing what you are unlikely to do can increase your likelihood of doing it	116
• The art of anticipation	116
• The excuse culture	117
• Glossing, glazing and glozing	120
• If you want to get something done, stick to the facts	120
• Facing up to your failings	120
• Being aware of your failings allows you to get more done	121
• The art of outthinking yourself	121
• Your locus of control	122

• Prearranging tripwires and fail-safes	123
• Lateness	123
• Disorganization	123
• Everything last minute	124
• Forget things completely	124
• Can't remember names	124
• Pretend the job is finished	125
• Winning sportspeople have already pictured themselves winning	126
• It's urgent – pretend it's not	126
• It's not urgent – pretend it is	126
• Recommending ratiocination	127
• The one thing intelligent people know	128
• How to outthink yourself	129
8. PROGRESS NOT PERFECTION	131
• The fact that nothing is perfect needn't stop you making progress	132
• Quantitative and qualitative perfection	133
• Just doing it or doing it well?	134
• Progress not perfection	135
• Apogeas and brobdingnagian achievements	136
• Moments of greatness	138
• Gaining control of yourself	140
• What's happening?	143
• Liminal limits	144
• Dyspeptic diversions	145
• How to make progress without perfection	146
9. MAKING BUSINESS TICK	149
• Tick Achieve for businesses	150
• Most organizations are not well organized	151
• Panjandrums and pirates	151
• The year that never is	154

- No company workforce ever works effectively for twelve months of the year 154
- A new manifesto for business 156
- Smaller chunks 157
- Long-term fiction 157
- Decision windows 157
- Are you deciding or just talking? 158
- Crisis Bombs and how to predict them 158
- Simplify everything 159
- Monkey-free leisure time 159
- Useless brainstorming 160
- Meetings: who needs them? 161
- The cult of the manager 163
- How to make business tick 163

10. MAKE YOURSELF TICK 165

- The complete Tick Achieve method 166
- What makes you tick? 171
- It is your responsibility to get things done – not someone else's 172
- Monkey on your shoulder? 172
- Efficiency is a sophisticated form of laziness 173
- In search of unworried Completer Finishers 174
- How many hours in your life? 174
- The one-page personal plan 175
- Planning your year 176
- Improve your ticker 177
- Three final critical questions 177
- How to make yourself tick 178

BIBLIOGRAPHY 181

APPENDIX 183

INDEX 219

<http://www.pbookshop.com>