

Table of Contents

Preface	vii
ABA President-Elect Laurel G. Bellows
Introduction	ix
Harvey Rishikof
Part One: The War on Terrorism	1
Chapter One
Executive Power	3
John Yoo
Louis Fisher
Introduction	3
Constitutional War and the Political Process	4
Unconstitutional Presidential Wars	10
Chapter Two
The Threat from Within: Homegrown Terrorism	15
Gordon Lederman
Kate Martin
Introduction	15
Insider Threats: Homegrown Terrorism in the 21st Century	16
Overlooked Constitutional and Security Issues	25
The Threat from Within: Reply to Kate Martin	35
The Threat from Within: Reply to Gordon Lederman	38
Chapter Three
Interrogations	41
Norman Abrams
Christopher Slobogin
Introduction	41
The Case for a Cabined Exception to Coerced Confession
Doctrine in Civilian Terrorism Prosecutions	42
An Unneeded and Dangerous Exception	51
The Cabined Exception Proposal: A Reply to Professor
Slobogin	59
Exceptions: A Reply to Professor Abrams	65

Part Two: Data, Technology, and Privacy 71

Chapter Four

The Data Question: Third-Party Information 73

Greg Nojeim

Orin Kerr

Introduction 73

Why the Third-Party Records Doctrine Should Be Revisited 74

The Case for the Third-Party Doctrine 80

The Data Question: Reply to Orin Kerr 85

The Data Question: Reply to Greg Nojeim 87

Chapter Five

National Security Letters 89

Michael German and Michelle Richardson

Valerie Caproni and Steven Siegel

Introduction 89

National Security Letters: The Need for Reform 94

National Security Letters: The National Security Tool that
Critics Love to Hate 100

National Security Letters: Reply to the FBI 108

National Security Letters: Reply to the ACLU 111

Chapter Six

Einstein 3.0 115

Paul Rosenzweig

James X. Dempsey

Introduction 115

“Providing for the Common Defense”: The Government as
Internet Protector 116

Liberty and Security Weigh in Favor of Private Sector
Leadership 123

Einstein 3.0: Reply to Jim Dempsey 129

Einstein 3.0: Reply to Paul Rosenzweig 132

Chapter Seven

CALEA: What’s Next? 135

Tony Rutkowski

Susan Landau

Introduction 135

In a Cloud-Based Mobile World: Providing Needed Forensics .. 138

Legally Authorized Wiretapping—but Not Communications
Insecurity 143

CALEA: “What’s Next?”—A Rejoinder 148

Contents

CALEA: “What’s Next?”—Rejoinder	151
CALEA: “What’s Next?”—Reply to Professor Landau’s Rejoinder	154
CALEA: “What’s Next?”—The Last Word(s)	155

Part Three: Legal Frameworks for Projecting Force 159

Chapter Eight

A Legal Framework for Targeted Killing 161

Amos N. Guiora

Monica Hakimi

Introduction	161
Targeted Killing: Lawful if Conducted in Accordance with the Rule of Law	162
A Functional Method for Defining the Authority to Target	168
Targeted Killing: Reply to Monica Hakimi	173
Targeted Killing: Reply to Amos Guiora	175

Chapter Nine

Cyberwar 179

Stewart Baker

Charles J. Dunlap Jr.

Introduction	179
Law and Cyberwar—The Lessons of History	181
Lawless Cyberwar? Not If You Want to Win	188
Cyberwar: Reply to General Dunlap	197
Cyberwar: Reply to Stewart Baker	200

Chapter Ten

Detention Policies 205

Stephen I. Vladeck

Greg Jacob

Introduction	205
The Future of Military Detention: Guantánamo and Beyond	206
The Right Balance: Judicial Humility in Times of War	212
Detention Policies: Reply to Greg Jacob	219
Detention Policies: Reply to Stephen Vladeck	221

Contributors 225