

Index

A

A&W Root Beer, 286
Accountability: business manager's, 101–103, 117; ensuring leadership, 299; first-line managers and, 66; group functional manager's, 249–252, 254–255
Action learning, 197–198
Alignment triangle: aligning complexity with, 101–103, 110–114, 119; developing succession plans using, 224; diagnosing performance with, 176–177

B

“Basketball” perspective, 140
Board of directors: CEO's responsibility to, 143; choosing CEOs, 295–296; neglecting overall succession planning, 296–297; providing insight and information for, 295–297; relationship with CEO, 148, 149, 152; repeating questions to CEO, 155
Business managers: accountability for, 101–103; aligning business complexity, 110–114, 119; assembling strong teams, 107–108; becoming group manager from, 24–25, 131–133, 139; benefits with Leadership Pipeline model, 300–301; common pipeline problems for, 164; “connecting the dots” responsibility, 101–103, 117; delivering profit, 108–109; developing and coaching, 132–133; difficulties of new, 98–100; facing challenges of e-commerce, 105–106, 113–114; functional leadership paths vs., 247–249; functional managers vs., 95; group functional managers vs., 247–249; issued neglected by, 109; learning to think differently, 100–101; managing and developing, 125–126; nurturing corporate cultural issues, 109; outgrowing functional mind-set, 114–116; passage to, 8; preparing for, 264–265; pursuing long- and short-term profit, 109, 118; taking action to become, 116–117; time management by, 109, 116; transitioning to, 10–11, 22–24, 97–98, 107–109, 117; valuing all support functions, 103–104; visibility of, 104–105

C

Capital allocation by group managers, 127
Career passages: becoming manager of managers, 18–20, 59–60, 68–71; clarifying expectations of managers with, 272; defining company's,

- 202; developing into enterprise manager, 26–27, 143–145, 155–157, 177–178; first-line managers, 10–11, 16–18, 45–49, 51, 52–53; functional, 247–248; to functional managers, 20–22; functional paths for, 247–248; growing beyond functional mind-set, 114–116; illustrated, 8; major leadership, 7–9; missing, 34; number for company, 35; passage to business manager, 10–11, 22–24, 97–98, 107–109, 117; performance gaps accompanying, 190–191; selecting CEOs, 158; signs of struggling CEOs, 153–155; skills in selecting business managers, 134–135; transition to group manager, 8, 24–25, 121–123, 131–133; understanding and using, 13–14. See also Functional career passages; and specific managers
- CEOs. See Enterprise managers
- Chief financial officers. See Enterprise functional managers
- Chief operating officers. See Enterprise functional managers
- Circle diagrams: assessing capability with, 191, 192; conveying performance with, 187–190, 203; Pipeline model and, 181; sharing in coaching sessions, 273
- Citi, 144
- Citibank, 133
- Citicorp, 287
- Citigroup, 12–13
- Clogging leadership pipeline: enterprise functional managers, 258–259; examples of, 9–11; on functional path, 263–264; mistakes by business managers, 23–24; misunderstanding expectations of managers, 272; tactics for clearing obstructions, 49–54
- Coaches, 280, 282–283
- Coaching: business managers, 132–133, 134–135, 140; challenges of, 267; delegation skills, 47–49; developing full performance leaders, 4–5, 191; direct reports as group manager, 124; facilitating behavioral change, 275–277; first-line managers, 47–49, 69–70; focusing, 280–281; framework for, 268–271; functional managers, 93–94, 96, 118–119; getting work done vs., 63; group managers, 133–135; importance of, 281–282; leaders performing at wrong level, 174–175; mentoring vs., 281; new line managers, 20; offering feedback, 271–275; providing first-time managers, 52; quality of, 281; redefining for leadership development, 277–280; selecting coaches, 280, 282–283; time spent by group managers on, 138
- Colgate, 145
- Collaboration, 68
- Communications: challenges of coaching, 267; developing language for discussing leadership, 241–242, 294; facilitating change with honest, 276–277; Leadership Pipeline terminology in, 307–308; maturity in functional manager's, 78–79; standards for potential and performance, 215; uninspired, 107
- Companies: adapting pipeline model to small, 27–30, 305–306; aligning complexities within, 101–103, 110–114, 119; benefits of pipeline model for, 30–32, 305–306; CEO's relationships in, 146–147, 154–155; clarifying jobs, 238–239, 243; coaching for benefit of individual and, 280; competing for leaders, 3–5; connecting business to corporation, 127–128, 132; costs of poor leadership performance, 165–166; defining leadership

- transitions, 202; delivering competitive advantage to, 93; e-commerce for, 105–106, 117–118; failing to empower first-line managers, 60–62; framework for corporate leadership, 240–241; functional managers upholding interests of, 84, 95–96; group manager's adversarial relationships with, 132; hiring from within, 224–225; institutional failures within, 239–242; judging leader's performance, 242; language for discussing leadership in, 241–242; managing in global context, 150; nurturing cultural issues within, 109; profit delivery by business managers, 108–109; questions applying model to, 32–34; setting enterprise direction for, 145–146; signs of struggling CEOs, 153–155; tailoring Leadership Pipeline model to, 214; understanding business model, 84
- Competency models, 34
- Competition: among functional managers, 93; for new leaders, 3–5; providing advantage in corporate, 93
- “Connecting the dots” responsibility, 101–103, 117
- Connective skill, 127–128
- Critical Career Crossroads, 8
- D
- Delegation: coaching to learn, 47–49; defining and assigning work, 41–43; difficulties, 62–63; learning trust and, 78–79
- Development programs, 199–200
- Diagnosing leadership development: group perspective, 172–173; improving diagnostic skills, 175; individual perspective, 171–172; noticing pipeline problems, 163–164, 166–173; signs of improper development, 166; skipping levels in development, 173–174; steps for, 170–173.
See also Levels of leadership
- Direct reports: assessing manager's development of, 235–236; building relationships with, 41, 45; clear communication with CEOs, 149; coaching, 124; competing with, 37; enabling work of, 41, 43–44; failures to develop, 230; functional manager's relationships with, 84, 85; grooming as business leaders, 134; learning values manager's evaluation of, 196; manager of others with only few, 55–56, 57–58; participating in performance discussions, 203–204; performance problems caused by bosses, 193–195
- Drotter Human Resources, Inc., 102, 110, 185–186, 194, 212–213, 217, 250
- Drucker, Peter, 206–207
- Dysfunctional functional managers, 89–90
- E
- E-commerce: challenges in, 105–106, 113–114; finding uncovered opportunities in, 128–129; importance of, 117–118; special challenges in, 303
- Economic influence on leadership, 2–3
- Egalitarian views, 68
- Electronic Data Systems (EDS), 147
- Emerson, 145
- Employees: becoming functional managers, 93–94, 96; controlling, 38; developing potential in, 209–211; grooming direct reports into business leaders, 134; honesty from, 244; locating place in journey, 267–268; performance problems caused by bosses,

- 193–195; placing junior people in senior positions, 263–264; recruiting and hiring entry-level leaders, 224–225; training as first-line managers, 46–49, 54, 64–66
- Enterprise functional managers:
 about, 56; as ambassadors, 260; being captured by CEO, 259; common mistakes by, 262; developing, 260–262; performance warning signs for, 259–260; preserving status quo, 260; requirements for, 257–258; skills and values needed, 258–259; time and task management for, 261–262
- Enterprise managers (CEOs):
 addressing performance problems, 161; benefits of Leadership Pipeline model for, 297–299; challenges developing new leaders, 2–3; choosing, 295–296; coaching group managers, 133–135; complaints about functional work, 263; creating performance forecast, 148; delivering results, 145; demands on, 2–3; developing into, 26–27, 143–145, 155–157, 177–178; failures by, 229–230; finding right support staff, 160–161; functional leadership paths vs., 247–249; functional managers vs., 94–95; group manager transitions to, 121–123, 140–141; guaranteeing success for, 157–158; ignoring feedback, 236–238; maintaining execution edge, 148–149, 153–154; managing global business, 150; passage to, 8; power of, 159; role definition for, 244–245; selecting, 158; setting enterprise direction, 145–146; signs of struggle in, 153–155; social relationships for, 146–147, 154–155; staff's lag in adjusting to new, 150–161; supported by group managers, 139–140; transitioning to, 158; value shifts for, 150–152; working with board of directors, 148, 149, 152, 155
- Equation for effective leadership, 291
- Expert's assessments, 261, 263
- ## F
- Failures: about pipeline, 229–230; accepting, 243–244; defining jobs poorly, 238–239, 243; evaluating lessons learned about, 195–196; finding warning signs for, 245; institutional, 239–242; leaders averse to feedback, 236–238; leaving wrong person in job too long, 233–236; selection, 230–233
- Fast tracking, 2–3, 210
- Feedback: ignoring, 236–238; offering coaching, 271–275; providing intervention for first-level transitions, 52–53
- Firing unskilled leaders, 210–211
- First-line managers: accountability of, 66; achievements of, 39–41; becoming manager of managers from, 59–60; benefits with Leadership Pipeline model, 302; building social contracts, 44–45; coaching, 69–70; common pipeline problems for, 164; defining and assigning work, 41–43; differentiating manager of managers from, 73–74; difficulties transitioning to, 10–11, 16–18, 45–49; empowering direct reports, 41, 43–44; failing to empower, 60–62; integrating strategic thinking from, 84; with only few direct reports, 57–58; passage to, 8, 37–39; selecting and training, 64–66; types of, 55
- Framework: building self-management, 294–295; coaching, 268–271; corporate leadership, 240–241

- Full performance: evaluating potential in, 219, 220, 221;
 judging exceptional and effective, 185–186; performance portraits for, 188–190; reviewing with circle diagrams, 187–190; rewarding, 191; strategies for reaching,
 191–199
- Functional career passages: about,
 247–248; business managers vs.
 group functional managers, 247–249; CEO's complaints about functional work, 263;
 common mistakes in, 262;
 complex requirements for group
 functional managers, 249–252;
 group manager's working as functional manager, 255–256; locating individuals in model for,
 265; requesting expert's assessments, 261, 263; staying on right track in, 262–263; warning signs for group functional manager, 253–256
- Functional managers: becoming business manager from, 22–24, 97–98, 100–101; business managers vs., 95; coaching, 93–94, 96, 118–119; common flaws in, 80–82; creating functional strategies, 83–85; delineating role of, 94–95; developing maturity as, 77–80, 91–92; group manager's dabbling in work of, 255–256; importance of, 35–36; longer-term planning skills for, 83; manager of managers' tasks for, 72; managing whole function, 85–87; passage to, 8; pipeline model benefits for, 301;
 promotions to, 77–78, 94;
 selecting, 126; signs of dysfunctional, 89–90; skills needed by, 82–87; transitioning to, 20–22;
 upholding corporate interests, 84, 95–96; valuing what he didn't know, 87–89
- G
- General Electric, 12, 50, 70, 133, 144, 145, 156, 197, 206
- Group functional managers: adopting values of group managers, 265;
 business managers vs., 248–249;
 complex requirements for,
 249–252, 254–255; meeting demands of all relationships, 256; performance warning signs for, 253–256; reverting to functional manager's role, 255–256. See also
 Group managers
- Group managers: assessing candidates for, 139; benefits of Leadership Pipeline model for, 300; coaching, 133–135; common pipeline problems for, 164; connecting business to corporation, 127–128, 132; developing business
 managers, 125–126, 132–133, 134–135; functional leadership paths vs., 247–249; grooming talent for long-term results, 140; group functional managers use of values from, 265; growing from business manager to, 24–25;
 ignoring uncovered opportunities, 132; making values shift to, 129–131; managing uncovered opportunities, 128–129; nurturing, 26–27, 133–138; passage to, 8;
 positive changes made by,
 135–138; prioritizing strategies, 124–125; pros and cons of transition to, 121–123; stepping stone to CEO, 121–123, 140–141; supporting CEOs, 139–
 140; time management by, 138– 139; troubles becoming, 131–133;
 valuing success of others by,
 123–125
- Grove, Andy, 145
- Growth potential: defined, 209, 210;
 recognizing and grooming,
 218–219; standards for, 212

H

Health care industry, 303–304
 Honesty, 224, 244, 279
 Horizontal leadership, 3
 Human Resources: clarifying leader's role for, 31; diagnosing leadership levels, 175, 177; focusing on wrong agenda, xii; intervening in poor selection choices, 243; reviewing leadership pipeline, 242–243; role of, xvi; usefulness of alignment triangle for, 119; using Leadership Pipeline model, 307
 Human resources officers. See Enterprise functional managers Humility, 92

I

IBM, 146
 Intel, 145

J

Jobs: designing, 238–239, 243; lack of specifications for CEO position, 295–296; leaving wrong person in, 233–236
 Johnson & Johnson, 197

K

Keegan, Brendan, 267
 Knight, Chick, 145

L

Layers of management: avoiding concrete, 70, 73, 74–75; differentiating, 200–201, 306–307; evaluating with potential-performance matrix, 216; identifying individual's appropriate leadership, 175; missing career passage, 34; most problematic Leadership Pipeline, 306; reviewing first-line managers, 57; succession planning and manager of managers, 73

Leaders: assessing performance of, 171–172; averse to feedback, 236–238; career passages for, 7–10; coaching for right level of performance, 174–175; competition for, 3–5; continual reviews of potential, 222–223, 227; developing, 4–5; evaluating performance of, 176–177, 187–191, 215–222; facilitating behavioral change for, 275–277; fast tracking, 210; firing unskilled, 210–211; focusing on skills used by, 168–169; framework for coaching, 268–271; gathering evidence of value shifts for, 195–196; grooming direct reports into business, 134; importance of coaching by, 281–282; leaving in job too long, 233–236; locating place in journey, 267–268; recruiting and hiring entry-level, 224–225; retaining, 199–200, 205; role clarity for, 73–74, 180–183; selecting, 147, 230–233; selecting as coaches, 280, 282–283; taking responsibility for success of, 130–131; testing for excess capacity, 191, 192; training first-line managers, 46–49; working with job definitions, 238–239
 Leadership: accepting failures in, 243–244; action learning for developing, 197–198; capitalizing on potential, 6; career passages for, 7–10; developing, 4–5; developing framework for, 240–241; diagnosing improper development of, 166; equation for effective, 291; evaluating use of time, 169, 170; fast tracking potential, 210; finding gaps and overlaps in, 182–183; GE's Leadership Matrix, 50; horizontal and vertical growth in, 3; ignoring feedback, 236–238; indicators of problems, 164–166;

- language for discussing, 241–242;
 leaving wrong person in job too long, 233–236; major career passages in, 7–9; making commitment to build, 11–13;
 maturity in functional managers, 77–80; need for, 1–2; passages for functional, 159; problems in New Economy, 2–3; selecting wrong, 230–233; skipping levels in development, 173–174; standards for levels of, 186–187; transitions from functional to business, 97; visibility of, 104–105. See also Career passages; Diagnosing leadership development; and specific managers
- Leadership development matrix, 215–222, 225
- Leadership pipeline: addressing inappropriate performance in, 198–199; benefits to enterprise managers, 160; challenges in improving, 179–180; clogging functional path, 263–264;
 coaching as part of, 267–268;
 common problems in, 164, 201;
 continuous flow in, 208, 209;
 developing CEOs, 155–157;
 devising standards for levels in, 186–187; diagnosing problems in, 163–164, 166–173; ensuring flow in, 201–202; establishing common language, 294; failing to empower first-line managers, 60–62; failures in, 229–230; group manager's place in, 122, 125–126; HR review of, 242–243; indicators of leadership problems, 164–166;
 individual perspective, 171–172;
 major career passages in, 7–9; need to understand model for, 208; performance problems caused by bosses, 193–195; performance with group perspective, 172–173;
 planning succession on
- performance, 207; preparing for business manager, 264–265; reaching full performance in, 191–199; retaining and developing leaders, 199–200; role clarity for leaders, 180–183; short- and long-term planning for, 208–209; signs of failures in, 245; skipping levels in, 173–174; struggling with leadership issues, 177–178;
 succession planning and, 205–209;
 for those uninterested in CEO position, 159; transforming potential positively, 209–211;
 unclogging for first-time managers, 49–54; values shift to group manager in, 129–133. See also Career passages; Levels of leadership
- Leadership Pipeline model:
 acceptance of, 307–308; adapting to small businesses, 27–30, 305–306; benefits of applying, 30–32, 297–302, 305; functional manager's skills needed in, 82–87;
 helping board of directors use, 295–297; illustrated, 8, 39;
 leadership development matrix,
 217; Marriott's use of, 286–293;
 most problematic layer in,
 306–307; need to understand, 208; observations from using,
 34–36; performance improvements with, 200–201, 202–203;
 providing leadership framework, 240–241; role clarity using,
 180–183; tailoring for succession
 planning, 214–224, 226–227;
 understanding and using,
 13–14. See also Leadership pipeline
- Leadership Talent Development
 Inventory (LDTI), 289
- Leadership transitions. See Career passages
- Learning, 91–92, 283

Levels of leadership: coaching leaders performing at wrong, 174–175; defining jobs poorly, 238–239, 243; enterprise functional managers at wrong, 259–260; fast tracking and leadership, 210; role definition for, 244–245; skipping development, 173–174; standards for leadership, 186–187; succession planning at all, 208; working at wrong, 176. See also Working at wrong levels

Listening: to feedback, 236–238; importance for functional managers, 85–87

M

Mahler, Walter, 8

Manager of managers: avoiding “concrete layer” of, 70, 74–75; benefits with Leadership Pipeline model, 301–302; challenges selecting talent, 64; coaching new line managers, 20; deploying and allocating resources, 66–67; differentiating from first-line managers, 73–74; difficulties delegating tasks, 62–63; failing to empower first-line managers, 60–62; focusing on getting work done, 63; helping passage to, 68–71; holding first-line managers accountable, 66; learning to ask questions, 74; managing boundaries, 68; moving to functional manager from, 20–22; passage to, 8; performance management by, 63; responsibilities of, 75; role clarity for, 73–74; role models for, 71–72; selecting, 72–73; selecting and training first-line managers, 64–66; skills for, 64–68; tasks for both functional managers and, 72; team building by, 63; transitioning to, 18–20, 59–60

Managers. See Career passages; and specific managers

Managing self: becoming owner-founder, 28; passage to, 8; transitioning to managing others, 16–18

Mark, Reuben, 145

Marriott, Bill, 148–149, 287

Marriott International, 286–293, 306–307

Mastery potential: defined, 209, 210; evaluating, 219–220, 221; standards for, 213–214

Maturity: defined, 21; developing, 77–80, 91–92; undeveloped management, 90

McKinsey & Company, 289

Mega-corporations, 304

Mentoring, 281

Micromanagement, 194

Monitoring first-level transitions, 51

Motocola, 146

N

Not yet full performance: evaluating potential in, 220–222; judging, 185–186; reviewing with circle diagrams, 187–190

O

Owner-founder leaders, 28

P

Partnering, 52

Passage One. See First-line managers

Passage Two. See Manager of managers

Passage Three. See Functional managers

Passage Four. See Business manager

Passage Five. See Group managers

Passage Six. See Enterprise manager

Passages. See Career passages; Functional career passages

Peer learning, 52

- Performance: addressing inappropriate, 198–199; addressing problems in, 161; allocating resources based on, 67; assessing individual leader's, 171–172;
 challenges to improve, 179–180;
 communicating standards for, 215;
 corporate standards for judging leader's, 242; critiquing with sensitivity, 65–66; customizing standards for potential and, 214–215; defining standards for,
 183–187; developing forecast for,
 148; diagnosing leader's, 176–177;
 enterprise functional manager's warning signs, 259–260; evaluating for pipeline flow, 201–202;
 evaluating skills used by leaders, 168–169; facilitating behavioral change for, 275–277; finding leadership gaps and overlaps, 182–183; focusing coaching, 280–281; improving with role clarity, 73–74, 180–183;
 managing, 63; measuring group, 172–173; missing signs of poor, 164–165; pipeline model for improving, 200–201, 202–203;
 problems caused by bosses, 193–195; strategies for reaching full, 191–199; succession planning based on, 206; warning signs for group functional managers, 253–256
- Performance standards: creating,
 183–187; defining gaps with,
 187–191; developing leaders with, 187–191; gradations in, 185–186;
 setting on results, 184
- Pipeline levels. See Levels of leadership
- Potential: capitalizing on leadership,
 6; communicating standards for,
 215; customizing standards for performance and, 214–215; defining, 225–226; developing leadership, 209–211; evaluating candidate's turn potential, 217–218; helping people achieve full, 279; honesty in evaluating, 224; performance of mastery,
 219–220, 221; recognizing growth,
 218–219; standards to assess,
 211–214. See also Growth potential; Mastery potential; Turn potential
- Power: misallocation of, 195; using positively, 65–66
- Power of enterprise managers, 159
- Priorities: developing group managers', 124–125; teaching impact of group functional
 manager's, 255
- Profit: delivering 108–109; group functional manager's focus on, 248; pursuing long- and short-term, 109, 118
- ## Q
- Questions: coaching framework's, 268–269; learning to ask, 74; requiring board to repeat, 155; for upholding corporate strategic planning, 84
- ## R
- Readings, 52–53
- Reed, John, 144
- Reflection time, 23
- Relationships: building social contracts, 44–45; CEO and board of directors, 148, 149, 152;
 changes in business manager's, 117; complexity of group manager's, 254–255; with direct reports, 45; enterprise manager's managing of social, 146–147, 154–155; first-line manager's, 41;
 focusing on external, 154; group
 functional manager's accountability to others, 249–252, 254–255

- Results: coaching business managers for long-term, 140; diagnosing leaders based on, 176; enterprise managers who deliver, 145; measuring output vs., 164–165; pipelines in fields focused on short-term, 170; setting performance standards on, 184
- Retaining leaders, 199–200, 205
- Rewarding full performance, 191
- Risk management, 297–299
- Rodriguez, David, 287
- Role definition: defining for group functional managers, 249; delineating for functional manager, 94–95; improved performance with, 180–183; levels and clarity of, 244–245
- S
- Sears, 146
- Selecting: business managers, 134–135; candidates for group manager, 139; coaches, 280, 282–283; difficulties in talent, 64, 194; enterprise managers, 158; first-line managers, 64–66; functional managers, 126; leaders, 147, 230–233; manager of managers, 72–73; staff for senior executive positions, 160; talent as manager of managers, 64; wrong leaders, 230–233, 245
- Self-management. See Managing self
- Sensitivity in critiques, 65–66
- Shaw, Bill, 287, 288–289
- Skills: connective, 127–128; defined, 9; developing longer-term planning, 83; distinguishing group functional manager's, 256–257; evaluating leader, 168–169; firing leaders lacking, 210–211; first-line manager's, 17, 40; improving diagnostic, 175; managers of managers, 64–68; needed by enterprise functional managers, 258–259; selecting business managers, 134–135; used by functional managers, 82–87
- Sprint, 146
- Staff meetings, 52–53
- State-of-the-art awareness, 83
- Strategic planning: aligning corporate complexities for, 110–114; developing strategic differentiation skills, 127–128; developing talent for longer-term, 83, 140; differences in functional and business, 100–101; evaluating trade-offs in, 85; finding uncovered opportunities, 128–129; group functional managers and, 248; growing beyond functional mindset, 114–116; integrating strategic thinking in, 24; managing portfolio of strategies, 124–125; questions for upholding corporate, 84. See also Succession planning
- Success of others: supporting, 123–125, 180; taking responsibility for, 130–131
- Succession planning: continual reviews of, 222–223, 227; defined, 207; exclusive focus on CEO position, 296; improving with Leadership Pipeline model, 223–224; leadership pipeline and, 205–209; manager of managers, 73; neglecting overall company's, 296–297; pruning managers of others population for, 57; recruiting and hiring as part of, 224–225; short- and long-term, 208–209; tailoring Leadership Pipeline model for, 214–223, 226–227; using alignment triangle for, 224; viewing performance gaps as part of, 193–195
- Support functions: group manager's support role, 139–140; tailoring to current CEO, 160–161; valuing all, 103–104

T

- Talent: developing pool of, 288–289; difficulties selecting, 64, 194; focusing on getting work done vs. developing, 63; selecting first-line managers, 64–66
- Teams: action learning programs for, 197; assembling strong, 63, 107–108, 180; becoming leader of, 16; business managers role in creating, 118–119; creating productive and enthusiastic, 149; managing complexities with, 101–103
- Testing leadership capacity, 191, 192
- Time: allowing for reflection, 23; business manager's problems managing, 109, 116; enterprise functional manager's use of, 261–262; evaluating leadership's use of, 169, 170; first-line manager's reallocation of, 17–18, 40; group managers' management of, 138–139; separating important from urgent tasks, 261–262; training group function manager to manage, 256; using to test managerial candidates, 65
- Training: first-line managers, 46–49, 54, 64–66; grooming functional managers slowly, 96
- Trust: learning delegation and, 78–79; measuring management maturity with, 90
- Turn potential: defined, 209–210, 225; evaluating candidate's, 217–218, 219, 220–221; sharing in coaching sessions, 273; standards for, 212

U

- Uncovered opportunities, 128–129, 132

V

- Validating: job descriptions, 239; job requirements with key leaders, 261
- Values: adopted by group functional managers, 265; appreciating edge in execution, 148–149, 153–154; changes for first-line managers, 18; evaluating leader's work, 169–170; finding in support functions, 90, 103–104; first-line manager's work, 40, 56–57; gathering evidence of shifts in, 195–196; making shift to group manager, 129–131; measuring skills vs., 50; needed by enterprise functional managers, 258–259; shifts for enterprise managers, 150–152; supporting success of others, 123–125; valuing what you don't know, 87–89; wrong work, 194
- Vertical leadership, 3
- Visibility of business managers, 104–105

W

- Welch, Jack, 70, 144, 145, 156
- Whitman, Meg, 3
- Working at wrong levels, 176; coaching leaders, 174–175; diagnosing group performance, 172–173; repairing pipeline when leaders, 179–180; signs of, 166; skipping development levels, 173–174; symptoms of, 166–170

<http://www.pbookshop.com>

<http://www.pbookshop.com>

<http://www.pbookshop.com>

<http://www.pbookshop.com>

<http://www.pbookshop.com>

<http://www.pbookshop.com>

<http://www.pbookshop.com>

<http://www.pbookshop.com>

<http://www.pbookshop.com>