

Contents

Acknowledgments	xiii
About the Author	xv
Preface	xvii
About this Book	xix
Introduction	1
Strategic Plans Are of Little Use in Times of Great Uncertainty and Volatility	5
Operating Plans and Budgets Provide a False Sense of Security	6
Management Reporting Is Driven by an Obsolete View of the World	7
Incentive Compensation Rewards Poor Performance and Penalizes Outstanding Performance	7
Investments in Staff Education Have Been Inadequate and Misdirected	8
Technology Has Failed to Improve and in Many Cases Has Reduced the Effectiveness of Management	8
What I Really Think!	9
Notes	10

Chapter 1: Missions, Visions, and Other Expensive Pastimes	11
Fiction: Meeting Room at an Exclusive Country Club, Northern New Jersey—February 2007	12
Facts: “We Are on a Mission from God”	14
So What?	19
Notes	20
Chapter 2: Strategy and Other Confusing Stuff	21
Fiction: The Four Seasons Hotel, Nevis—Early May 2007	22
Facts: Yes, We Are Very Strategic	25
Fatally Flawed	29
So What?	31
Notes	32
Chapter 3: Gurus, Consultants, and Other Snake Oil Salesman	33
Fiction: Henry’s Office—October 2008	34
Facts: Are You Renting Bodies or Brains?	36
Objectivity and Independence—No, Not Really!	40
So What?	41
Notes	42
Chapter 4: Forget Success, Focus on Failure	43
Fiction: Sustained High Growth in Revenues and Earnings	44
Facts: Accept Failure, Fear Success	47
Success Can Be Dangerous for Your Health	49
The Perils of Being Number One	51
Forget “In Search of Excellence,” How About Excellence Lost?	52
Preparing to Fail	52
New Coke—A Lesson in Management Excellence—Honestly	57
IBM—From Survival to Leadership	59
So What?	61
Notes	61

Chapter 5: Budgeting—A Modern Vision of Hell (Well, Purgatory at Least)	63
Fiction: Henry Pritchett’s Office—Early September 2007	64
Facts: Not Just a Waste of Time	71
Detail Does Not Equal Accuracy	73
Why Do We Plan the Wrong Stuff?	76
Are You on the Road to Hell?	79
Learn to Love the Budget	80
So What?	82
Notes	83
Chapter 6: The Futility of Forecasting	85
Fiction: September 2007	86
Facts: Forecasts—The Only Certainty Is That They Will Be Wrong	90
The Extraordinary Is Now Ordinary	94
Not One Size Fits All	102
Are Long-Term Forecasts an Oxymoron?	104
Restoring Credibility	105
So What?	112
Notes	112
Chapter 7: Total Quality, Six Sigma, Process Re-Engineering and Other Management Fads	115
Fiction: Quality Is Job 1—April 2006	116
Facts: The Scourge of Management Communism	118
Cheap Is Not Always Good	122
Too Much Process, Not Enough Product	128
So What?	130
Notes	131
Chapter 8: New Risks for a New World	133
Fiction: The Boardroom—April 2007	134
Facts: Risk Is a Four-Letter Word	137
Learn from Tiger, Phil, and the Rest	141
They Were Going to Change the World	143
Beware Irrelevance	144

Different Customers, Different Connections	149
Beware the Noncompetitive Threat	150
Remember—Stuff Happens	152
Revenue Volatility Means Down as Well as Up	155
Reputation Is Everything	159
So What?	161
Notes	162
Chapter 9: Pay for Performance? Failure Pays Very Well These Days	163
Fiction: January 2010	164
Facts: The Great Incentive Scam	166
So What?	177
Notes	178
Chapter 10: Lies, Damn Lies, and Performance Metrics	179
Fiction: Strategic Alignment—May 2007	180
Facts: Measurement Mania	182
Metric of the Month	186
Single Version of the Truth	187
The Balanced Scorecard—Yet Another Illusion	190
Reporting What or Why	192
Windshield or Rear View Mirror	195
Beware EB:IDA	198
Traffic Light Syndrome—Should I Stop or Should I Go?	199
So What?	203
Notes	203
Chapter 11: Leveraging Technology for Competitive Advantage	205
Fiction: On Time, On Budget—But Irrelevant—February 2008	206
Facts: Automating Inefficiency Just Gets You Bad Data Faster	209
Death by Spreadsheet	212
IT ROI—An Oxymoron	217
Hype Versus Reality	220

Cool but Pointless	220
Whatever Happened to Real-Time Processing?	223
Breaking Down the Barriers	224
Why Do We Fix Costs in a Variable Revenue World?	226
Centralized or Decentralized? What a Dumb Question!	231
Outsourcing—the Myth and the Reality	232
So What?	237
Notes	237
Chapter 12: Why Accountants Rule the World	239
Fiction: Closing the Books, October 11, 2007	240
Facts: Death by Accounting and Other Fatal Diseases	242
Accounting—An Alternative Reality	243
Accounting Irrelevance	245
The Myth of Cost Allocations	246
Making the Numbers or Making The Numbers Up?	249
An Accounting Conspiracy Theory	256
So What?	257
Notes	258
Chapter 13: The Synergies Will Be Massive!	259
Fiction: The Myth of Synergy—August 2006	260
Facts: Synergy—Much Touted, Rarely Realized	263
Private Equity—It's Really Just a Corporate Enemy!	266
So What?	272
Notes	273
Chapter 14: Talent Matters	275
Fiction: A Corner Office on the 15th Floor of Cruciant's Headquarters—April 2008	276
Facts: Talent Factories	281
All GE Managers Are Gods	283
Retaining Talent—Not Always a Good Thing	284

The Illusion of Competence	286
Fool Me Once, Shame on You; Fool Me Twice, Shame on Me	288
The MBA Myth	290
What Makes a Successful Leader?	292
So What?	295
Notes	295
Chapter 15: Ask The Dumb Questions	297
Fiction: May 2007	298
Facts: Keep It Simple	300
Isolating Management Stupidity	302
Follow the Herd	304
The Parable of the Leaky Valve	305
So What?	306
Notes	306
Chapter 16: The Business of Spin	307
Fiction: Steve Borden's Office—January 2008	308
Facts: The Business of Spin	313
What Planet Were They On?	319
Spin Cycle: Citigroup 2006–2009	320
Southwest Airlines: Succeeding Despite the Market	324
Tall Poppy Syndrome	326
Nice Work If You Can Get It	328
Beyond Spin: Sometimes It Is All Smoke and Mirrors	330
Spot the Crook	332
So What?	335
Notes	335
Epilogue	337
Cruciant—From Good to Great? January 2010	337
Index	341