Wolters Kluwer China Law & Reference | Dispute Resolution

Improve practical skills, foresee direction and development trend

Dispute resolution is a classic topic in the field of legal practices. The promulgation of the Civil Code and the changes in international situation will bring a new direction and development trend for dispute resolution. With the help of professional tools and resourceful guidance from professionals, we strive to provide effective and efficient solutions to resolve disputes.

Wolters Kluwer China Law & Reference has launched the Dispute Resolution Vertical Database to focus on four areas - arbitration, civil & commercial litigation, administrative dispute, and criminal litigation. The database offers a full spectrum of practice guide, including professional insights, necessary documents and practical skills.

Customers Value

Practice-oriented and process-oriented

We have a special column of court trial skills, so that customers can improve the ability of resolving disputes with the help of such modules as legal paper retrieval, judicial identification, evidence preparation, document writing, court practice, criminal defense, and case management. The special column presents the whole process of civil litigation and administrative litigation to offer an effective guide to the practice of dispute resolution.

Comprehensive and clear content

Horizontally, the database covers domestic and foreign arbitration, civil and commercial litigation, administrative dispute resolution, and criminal litigation, and provides comprehensive and detailed resources; vertically, it covers real estate construction, financial asset management, corporate equity, intellectual property, investment and trade, mergers and acquisitions, tax and enterprise disputes, competition and monopoly, marriage and family affairs, infringement disputes, labor disputes and other types of disputes. The crisscross content structure provides comprehensive guidance for dispute resolution.

Multidimensional interpretations

We make in-depth interpretations of various problems in dispute resolution in such forms as articles, case review, practice guide, special topics and Q&As, to help customers solve practical problems.

Core information

Arbitration rules

We collect all versions of arbitration rules issued by Chinese and foreign arbitration commissions, and with the help of smart navigation and search tools, you can get quick access to these arbitration rules.

Arbitration blog

We pay heavy attention to the development trend of high-end international arbitration practices, draw on the latest views of the world's first-class arbitration experts, so as to get a "panoramic view" of international arbitration trends and opinions.

Smart decision-making process

We provide smart guidance on the procedures of criminal litigation, civil litigation, administrative litigation, arbitration and labor dispute resolution. You can check the charts and diagrams to get a clear picture about the procedures of dispute settlement.

Interpretative articles

We invite experts to explain problems in dispute resolution from multiple perspectives and provide effective solutions.

Practice topics

Based on specific problems in dispute settlement, we analyze and present specific problems from a comprehensive and systematic perspective.

Court trial skills

We strive to help customers make comprehensive improvement in their abilities to resolve disputes from such processes as legal retrieval, judicial identification, evidence preparation, document writing, court appearance, criminal defense and case management.

List assistant

A tabular presentation of various materials to be used in arbitration and litigation in the form of a list is made to facilitate preparations in the dispute resolution process and ensure that preparations are completed without omission.

Template documents

We collect arbitration clauses drafted by domestic and foreign arbitration institutions and various document templates required in the process of litigation, and facilitate efficient settlement of disputes.
