

Contents

Acknowledgments		ix
The Author		xi
Foreword		xiii
Preface		xvii
Part I: Catalyzing Social Change		1
Chapter 1	Igniting Civic Progress	3
	Entrepreneurship, Innovation, and Change	4
	So Many Ideas, So Little Progress	6
	Civic Entrepreneurship as the Solution	12
	Igniting Civic Progress	17
	The Mandate and Caution of Engaging Government	20
	Conclusions	24
Chapter 2	Innovation as Catalytic Ingredient	27
	Discovering the Missing Ingredient	30
	Choosing the Right Catalyst	36
	Bringing It All Together: The Nehemiah Foundation	58
	Conclusions	61
Part II: Market Maker as Civic Entrepreneur		65
Chapter 3	Open Sourcing Social Innovation	67
	Breaking Down Protectionist Barriers	69
	Opening Space for Innovation	73

	Leveling the Playing Field	79
	Inviting the Exceptional	82
	Forcing Cultural Change	85
	Bringing It All Together: The Enlightened
	Monopolist	90
	Conclusions	97
Chapter 4	Trading Good Deeds for Measurable Results	101
	Current Funding Limitations	103
	What Public Value Are We Purchasing?	106
	Are the Funded Activities Still the Most Relevant?	111
	What Change Does the Community Want and
	What Assets Can It Mobilize?	114
	Are We Funding a Project or Sustainable
	System Change?	116
	What Will We Measure?	120
	Bringing It All Together: Linda Gibbs	125
	Conclusions	126
Part III: Service Provider as Civic Entrepreneur		131
Chapter 5	Animating and Trusting the Citizen	133
	Balancing the Professional with the Public	135
	Building a Public	139
	Leveraging Social Media for Change	149
	“Client” Choice	153
	Curing the Expectation Gap	157
	Bringing It All Together: Family Independence
	Initiative	160
	Conclusions	165
Chapter 6	Turning Risk into Reward	169
	Seeing Opportunity Where Others See Liability	171
	Taking First Risk	172
	Fully Calculating Cascading Return on Investment	182
	Political Risk and Reward	184

---

	Bringing It All Together: Wraparound Milwaukee	192
	Conclusions	195
Chapter 7	The Fertile Community	197
	The Fertile City (and the Entrepreneurial Mayor)	199
	Civic Entrepreneurs and School Reform	202
	Entrepreneurial Community Solutions	214
	Staying Entrepreneurial: Saving Yourself from Success	221
	The Future	222
	Notes	225
	References	255
	Index	265

<http://www.pbookshop.com>