

Index

Page references followed by fig indicate an illustrated figure.

A

Accepted Leader Assessment, 173

Actions: aligning words and, 153; backing up what they say with, 141, 146–149; based on moral beliefs, 86, 100–102; changing course well, 147–148; for the greater good, 72–74, 142, 151–153; reflecting passion, 52, 58–60; taking full responsibility for their, 68, 75–78. See also Behaviors

Alliance Atlantis, 83, 84

Amazon, 70

AMC Networks, 34

Andersen, Erika, 36, 37, 114, 129

Apologizing: and admitting for mistakes, 79; practicing the art of, 79–81; try it: a genuine apology, 81

Apple Computers, 24, 25, 153

Articulating vision: building confidence for, 34; leaders who are farsighted ability for, 25; speaking from “we” versus “I” perspective, 39; speaking in terms that engage the audience, 35–36; speaking with clarity and confidence, 33–34; start by listening, 36–37; try it: establishing “we-focused” beliefs, 39–40; try it: getting clear and confident, 35; try it: using listening to support farsightedness, 37–38

Assuming positive intent: generosity and importance of, 109, 110–113; try it: generous self-talk for, 113

- Attending: listening behavior of, 175, 176–177; physical, verbal, and mental focus of, 176
- Authority. See Power
- Autonomy levels: confidence in employee's autonomy, 117*fig.*, 118, 120; defining levels of delegation, 117*fig.*–118, 119; delegation discussion and agreement on, 121–122
- B
- Behaviors: courageous, 68–81, 84–85; ethical and moral, 86, 100–102; farsightedness, 25–47, 84–85; generous, 109–134; listening, 175–182; passionate, 51–52, 54–62, 84–85; trustworthy, 141–155; walking the talk, 58–60; wise, 87–103. See also Actions
- Block, Peter, 76
- Borders, 70
- Bravo, 100
- Broadcast Division (Canwest Media), 83
- C
- Campbell, Joseph, 7
- Canwest Media, 83–84
- CBS, 50
- Character: speak and act for the greater good, 142, 151–153; tell the truth as they understand it, 141, 142–146; they keep confidences, 141, 149–151
- Clancy, Patrick, 162
- Clarity without dogma: being passionate by, 51, 54–55; the downside of dogma, 55–56; try it: clarity without dogma, 56–57
- Collins, Jim, 163
- Comcast, 138
- Commitment: despite adversity and setbacks, 52, 61–62; honest, 51, 52–54
- Committing honestly: being passionate by, 51, 52; to thine own self be true by, 53; try it: committing to what you believe, 53–54
- Communication: articulating your vision with clarity and confidence, 25, 33–40; clarity without dogma, 51, 54–57; delegation discussion/agreement, 120–123; engaging in genuine dialogue, 52, 57–58. See also Feedback; Listening
- Competence: by being farsighted, passionate, courageous, wise, and generous, 154–155; trustworthy are capable and get results, 142, 154–155

- Confidence: repetition to build, 34; speaking with clarity and, 33–34; try it: getting clear and, 35
- Courageous applications: try it: a genuine apology, 81; try it: a genuine apology for, 81; try it: acting for the greater good, 73–74; try it: do the uncomfortable thing, 75; try it: recognizing your contribution, 77–78; try it: support for tough choices, 70–71
- Courageous attribute: core ideas on, 82; description of leader's, 8, 9; how to be courageous, 68–81; John McDermott as example of having, 63–65, 68, 72; Linda Yaccarino as example of having, 67; as making needed decisions on limited data, 66–67; as more than being physical, 65–66; reassessing your own, 168; self-assessment of, 11; the three brothers story on having, 63; why this is important, 67–68; wisdom as balancing passion, farsightedness, and, 84–85
- Courageous behaviors: acting for the greater good, 68, 72–73; admit and apologize for mistakes, 68, 79–81; do things that are personally difficult, 68, 74–75; making necessary and tough choices, 68, 69–70; take full responsibility for their actions, 68, 75–77
- Covey, Stephen M. R., 139, 154
- Curiosity: as being wise behavior, 88–90; try it: getting curious, 90
- Customer needs: challenge question on improving response to, 31; dashboard on current, 32; envisioning a possible future improved response to, 31–32; using vision as filter for envisioning, 43
- D
- Decision making: courage of making necessary and tough choices, 68, 69–70; courage to make with limited data, 66–67; sharing power by not second-guessing others', 114; try it: support for tough choices, 70–71. See also Fair witness skills
- Delegation: discuss/agree step of, 115, 120–123; how to share power through, 114–115; overdelegating form of, 124; prepare step of, 115, 116–120;

- Delegation (cont'd)
 support step of, 115, 123–124.
See also Power
- Delegation discussion/agreement: on area of responsibility, 121; dialogue exchanges during, 121–122;
 on levels of autonomy, 121;
 offer context, 120–121; try it:
 the delegation conversation, 122–123
- Delegation preparation: defining area of responsibility, 116, 119; defining levels of autonomy, 117*fig*–118, 119; levels of confidence in employee's autonomy, 117*fig*, 118, 120; overview of, 115; try it: preparing to delegate, 119–120
- Delegation support: honoring your commitments as, 123;
 “move it to the right,” 123,
 124; offer feedback as, 123
- Dialogue: engaging in genuine, 52, 57–58; how to respond to disagreement during,
 58
- Discomfort: courage of doing things that cause us, 68, 74–75; try it: do the uncomfortable thing, 75;
 when avoiding discomfort can backfire, 74–75
- Discovery Networks, 53
- Dogma: the downside of, 55–56;
 making a clear case without,
 51, 54–55; try it: clarity without dogma, 56–57
- Dore, Kathy: actions based on her moral beliefs, 100–102; as example of having wisdom, 83–84; learning from experience, 94
- “Drawing the Map,” 8–10
- Drive: The Surprising Truth about What Motivates Us* (Pink), 129
- E
- Entertainment Services for Rainbow Media Holdings, 100
- Envisioning future: identifying reasonable aspiration and being strategic, 27–28;
 learning to see possible
 futures, 25, 26–27;
 recommended approach to,
 28–30; trying it out, 30–32
- Envisioning future approach:
 defining the challenge, 30–31;
 describe what success looks and feels like, 28, 29, 32;
 imagine yourself in that future, 28, 29, 32; pick time frame for success, 28, 29, 31; select key elements, 28, 29–30, 32; try it:

- envisioning a possible future, 30–32
- Ethical behavior: developing moral sense for, 86; moral beliefs and, 100–102
- Expedition Robinson* (Swedish TV show), 50
- Experience: how we learn from, 94; try it: become a better learner from, 94–96; wisdom of learning from, 85, 92–93
- F
- Fair witness skills: acting for the greater good using, 73–74; description of, 28; as essence of wisdom, 85, 90; for self-assessing your generous behavior, 109–110; taking responsibility using, 77; try it: put on your fair witness robes, 92. See also Decision making
- Fair Witness (Stranger in a Strange Land character), 28
- Fairy-tale hero. See Three brothers story
- Farsightedness applications: try it: envisioning a possible future, 30–32; try it: establishing “we-focused” beliefs, 39–40; try it: getting clear and confident, 35; try it: managing your self-talk, 45; try it: using listening to support farsightedness, 37–38; try it: vision as filter, 42–43
- Farsightedness attribute: being able to articulate and live their vision, 24; Bonnie Hammer as example of having, 21–22, 28; compelling and inclusive nature of, 24; core ideas on, 47–48; deconstructing elements of the, 25–47; description of leader’s, 8, 9; reassessing your own, 168; self-assessment of, 11; the three brothers story on having, 21; why it is an important leader trait, 22–25; wisdom as balancing courage, passion, and, 84–85
- Farsightedness behaviors: articulating vision with clarity and confidence, 25, 33–40; deconstructing and identifying the, 25–26; envisioning futures that are good for the enterprise, 25, 26–33; inviting others to participate in the vision, 25, 45–47; modeling your vision, 25, 40–43; seeing past obstacles to vision, 25, 43–45
- Feedback: delegation support by offering, 123; motivating through positive, 129–131; restating for completing feedback loop, 175, 180–182.

- Feedback (cont'd)
See also Communication
- Forbes.com, 105
- Foundation Rwanda, 49–50, 61
- Friends: the three brothers story on importance of, 157; three types found in leader stories, 157–158; try it: finding your friends, 164–165; well-wishers, 158, 161–162,
 170–171; wild cards, 158,
 162–164, 171; wizards,
 158–161, 169–170
- G
- Game of Thrones series, 65–66
- Gandhi, Mahatma, 40–41
- Generous attribute: core ideas on, 134–135; Danny Meyer as example of having, 105–106,
 113–114, 128, 134; description of leader's, 8, 9–10; Doug Herzog as
 example of having, 112,
 131–132, 133; how to develop the, 109–134; reassessing your own, 168; self-assessment of, 11; the three brothers story on having, 105; during times of scarcity, 107–109
- Generous behaviors: assume positive intent, 109, 110–113; fair witnesses for self-assessing your, 109–110; freely give credit, praise, and reward, 109, 127–131; provide necessary resources for others to succeed, 109, 131–134; share power and authority, 107, 109, 113–124; share what they know, 109, 124–127
- Giving credit: being generous by freely, 127–129; giving positive feedback to start process of, 129–131; try it:
 giving praise and credit, 131
- Goldberg, Richard, 159
- Gramercy Tavern, 106
- Greater good: backing it up for the, 151–152; being tough in supporting the, 152–153;
 being trustworthy by speaking and acting for the, 142, 151–153; putting themselves at risk for the, 72–73; try it:
 acting for the, 73–74; try it:
 aligning words and actions, 153
- Growing Great Employees*
 (Andersen), 36, 37, 114,
 129
- H
- Hammer, Bonnie: ability to articulate the vision, 33; “fair witness” behavior of, 28;
 farsightedness of, 21–22; using

- vision as filter for action, 41–42
- Heinlein, Robert, 28
- Helmsley, Leona, 132–133
- Hero with a Thousand Faces* (Campbell), 7
- Herzog, Doug, 112, 131–132, 133
- Honest commitment: being passionate with, 51, 52; to thine own self be true with, 53; try it: committing to what you believe, 53–54
- Honesty: cultivating the, 144–145; keeping confidences, 141, 149–151; keeping your word, 141, 146–149; telling the truth, 142–146
- I
- IFC, 100
- IFC Entertainment, 100
- Information: caution about oversharing, 126–127; generosity by sharing, 109, 124–125; how to be generous by sharing, 126–127; why this is important for leaders to share, 125
- Insider List* (e-letter), 173
- Integrity, 138. See also Trustworthy attribute
- Inviting: listening behavior of, 175, 177–178; physical and verbal gestures of, 177; try it: attending and inviting, 178
- Inviting vision participation: build in collaboration by, 46–47; learning to see possible futures by, 25, 46
- J
- Jobs, Steve, 24, 25, 153
- Journey: beginning your, 5; getting help and support for your, 157–165; recommendations for starting your, 167–172
- K
- Keeping confidences: being trustworthy by, 141, 149–150; self-talk mantra for, 150–151
- Keeping your word: being trustworthy by, 141, 146–147; changing course well, 147–148; thinking before your don't act, 148–149; try it: keeping your work, even when it changes, 149
- L
- Langer, Pat: changing course well when necessary, 147–148; doing what she says that she will do, 146–147; as example of being trustworthy, 137–139

- Leader archetypal: acknowledged attributes of, 8–10; beginning the journey to understanding, 5; cracking the code for the, 1–4; Joseph Campbell's exploration of the, 7–8; naming the elements of, 4
- Leader attributes: courageous, 8, 9, 11, 63–82, 168; farsighted, 8, 9, 11, 21–48, 84–85, 168; generous, 8, 9–10, 11, 105–135, 168; identify which attribute is your greatest strength, 168–169; passionate, 8, 9, 11, 49–62, 84–85, 168; reassessing your own, 167–168; self-assessing and making them real and practical, 11–12; trustworthy, 8, 10, 11, 137–156, 168; wise, 8, 9, 11, 83–103
- “Leader hunger,” 1, 3
- Leaders: cracking the code on good, 1–4; gathering supporters, 157–165; public desire for good, 1; untrustworthy, 140
- Leadership: changing circumstance is the true measure of, 93; folktales as maps of successful, 8
- Leading* notebook: creating self-talk sentence in your, 61–62; try it: a genuine apology, 81; try it: acting for the greater good, 73–74; try it: aligning words and actions, 153; try it: attending and inviting, 178; try it: become a better learner, 94–96; try it: clarity without dogma, 56–57; try it: committing to what you believe, 53–54; try it: do the uncomfortable thing, 75; try it: envisioning a possible future, 30–32; try it: establishing “we-focused” beliefs, 39–40; try it: finding patterns, 99; try it: finding your friends, 164–165; try it: generous self-talk, 113; try it: getting clear and confident, 35; try it: getting curious, 90; try it: giving praise and credit, 131; try it: keeping your word, even when it changes, 149; try it: managing your self-talk, 45; try it: preparing to delegate, 119–120; try it: put on your fair witness robes, 92; try it: questioning, 180; try it: recognizing your contribution, 77–78; try it: setting your moral compass, 101–102; try it: sharing information and knowledge, 127; try it: support for tough choices, 70–71; try it: telling the truth,

- 146; try it: the delegation conversation, 122–123; try it: using listening to support farsightedness, 37–38; try it: vision as filter, 42–43; try it: walking your talk, 60
- Learning from experience: process of, 94; try it: become a better learner, 94–96; as wise behavior, 85, 92–93
- Levels of autonomy: confidence in employee's autonomy, 117*fig*, 118, 120; defining levels of delegation, 117*fig*–118, 119; delegation discussion and agreement on, 121–122
- Lies: understanding that even little lies are, 143–144; understanding that they are always visible, 144. See also Truth
- Liguori, Peter, 53
- Listening: articulating your vision by starting with, 36–37; behaviors associated with, 175–182; required for real dialogue, 58; try it: using listening to support farsightedness, 37–38; wisdom exercised through being curious and, 85, 88–90. See also Communication
- Listening applications: try it: attending and inviting, 178; try it: questioning, 180
- Listening behaviors: attending, 175, 176–177; developing new, 175–176; inviting, 175, 177–178; questioning, 175, 178–180; restating, 175, 180–182
- Lucas, Wonya, 91, 96–97
- M
- Macintosh, 25
- Management, 360, 149, 152
- Marie Antoinette, 132, 133
- Martin, George R. R., 65
- McDermott, John: courage of, 63–65; how he inspired others to be courageous, 68; putting himself at risk for greater good, 72
- Meyer, Danny: ability to acknowledge employee contributions, 128; ability to share power and authority, 113–114; “enlightened hospitality” credo of, 106; as example of being generous, 105–106, 134; as magnet for good wizards who support him, 158–159
- Mistakes: admitting and apologizing for, 78–81; try it: a genuine apology for, 81

Mitchell, Jeff, 160

Modeling your vision: practicing farsightedness by, 25, 40–41; try it: vision as filter, 42–43; by using vision as filter for action, 41–42

Moral beliefs: actions based on your, 100–101; description of, 100; developing moral sense and, 86; try it: setting your moral compass, 101–102

Motivation: giving credit, praise, and rewards for, 127–131; understanding what drives our, 129, 131

Museum of Modern Art (NYC), 98

N

NBC, 100

NBCU Cable Entertainment and Cable Studios, 20
NBCUniversal, 138

O

Objectivity: assessing situations using fair witness skills, 85, 90–91; try it: put on your fair witness robes, 92

Obstacles: seeing past, 25, 43–44; talking to yourself about, 44; try it: managing your self-talk, 45

P

Paley Center (Los Angeles), 61

Passionate applications: try it: committing to what you believe, 53–54; try it: walking your talk, 60

Passionate attribute:

characteristics of leaders with, 50–51; core ideas on, 62; description of leader's, 8, 9–10; how to be passionate, 51–62; Nancy Tellem as example of having, 49–50, 61; reassessing your own, 168; self-assessment, 11; the three brothers story on having, 49; wisdom as balancing courage, farsightedness, and, 84–85

Passionate behaviors: act in support of their passion, 52, 58–60; commit honestly, 51, 52–54; deconstructing and identifying the, 51–52; invite real dialogue about their passion, 52, 57–58; make a clear case without being dogmatic, 51, 54–57; remain committed despite adversity and setbacks, 52, 61–62

Patterns: pulling back the camera to see, 97–98; try it: finding patterns, 99; wisdom by seeing patterns, 85, 96–98

- Pink, Daniel, 129, 131
- Positive feedback, 129–131
- Power: assessing what gets in the way of sharing, 114; generosity by sharing authority and, 109, 113–124; how to competently share, 114–115; true generosity as being generous with, 107.
See also Delegation
- Power applications: try it: preparing to delegate, 119–120; try it: the delegation conversation, 122–123
- Praising: being generous by freely, 127–129; giving positive feedback to start process of, 129–131; try it: giving praise and credit, 131
- Proteus, 159
- Providing resources: helping other succeed by, 109, 131–132; testing out your generosity by, 133–134; understanding the historic survival mechanism of, 132–133
- Psych* (TV show), 21
- Q
- Questioning: listening behavior of, 175, 178–179; listening versus nonlistening, 179; try it: questioning, 180
- R
- Resources. See Providing resources
- Responsibility. See Taking responsibility
- Restating: elements and applications, 180–181; leadership benefits of, 182; listening behavior of, 175, 180–182
- Rewarding: being generous by freely, 127–129; giving positive feedback to start process of, 129–131; try it: giving praise and credit, 131
- Rockwell Automation, 63, 64
- Royal Pains* (TV Show), 21
- S
- Sapan, Josh: confidence in articulating the vision, 34; inviting others to participate in vision, 46–47; speaking from a “we” perspective, 39
- Seeing past obstacles: learning to see possible futures by, 25, 43–44; talking to yourself about obstacles, 44; try it: managing your self-talk, 45
- Self-righteousness, 100
- Self-talk: creating an accurate and hopeful statement of, 172; for keeping confidences, 150–151; managing your, 182–185; for

- Self-talk (cont'd)
 remaining committed despite adversity, 61–62; try it: acting for the greater good, 73–74; try it: generous self-talk, 113; try it: managing your self-talk, 45; try it: recognizing your contribution, 77–78; try it: support for tough choices, 70–71
- Self-talk management:
 importance of practicing, 182–183; recognize step of, 183; record step of, 183–184; revise step of, 183, 184–185
- Seltzer, David, 149–150, 151–153
- Sharing information: caution about oversharing, 126–127; generosity by, 109, 124–125; how to be generous by, 126–127; why this is important in leaders, 125
- Sharing information techniques: establishing sharing mechanisms, 126; reminder questions as, 126; try it: sharing information and knowledge, 127
- The Speed of Trust* (Covey), 139, 154
- Stories: acknowledged characteristics of leaders found in, 8–10; as cultural DNA of society, 7; folktales as maps of success, 8; the hero always follows the wizard's advice in, 102; Mahatma Gandhi on eating too many sweets, 40–41; revelations about leaders through children's, 2–3; three types of supporters found in leader, 157–158. See also Three brothers story
- Stranger in a Strange Land* (Heinlein), 28
- Supporters. See Friends
- Survivor* (TV show), 50
- T
- Taking responsibility: courage of, 68, 75–77; fair witness skills for, 77; try it: recognizing your contribution, 77–78
- Team commitment, 141
- Tellem, Nancy: Foundation Rwanda and passion of, 49–50, 61; making a case without being dogmatic, 54
- Three brothers story: on being courageous, 63; on being farsighted, 21; on being generous, 105; on being passionate, 49; on being trustworthy, 137; on being wise, 83; events of the, 12–19; as an example of your own journey, 167; on getting

- help for your journey, 157.
See also Stories
- Truman, Harry, 67
- Trustworthy applications: try it:
 aligning words and actions,
 153; try it: keeping your word, even when it changes, 149; try it: telling the truth, 146
- Trustworthy attribute:
 consequences of untrustworthy leaders versus,
 140; core ideas on, 158; David Seltzer as example of having, 149–150, 151–153;
 description of leader's, 8, 10;
 as the foundational attribute of leaders, 139–140; how it inspires loyalty and security, 141; how to develop the,
 141–155; Pat Langer as
 example of having, 137–139, 146–148; reassessing your own, 168; self-assessment of,
 11; the three brothers story on having, 137. See also Integrity
- Trustworthy behaviors: are capable and get results, 142, 154–155; do what they say they will do, 141, 146–149;
 how to develop, 141–142;
 keep confidences, 141, 149–151; speak and act
 for the greater good, 142, 151–153; tell the trust as they understand it, 141, 142–146
- Truth: cultivating honesty and,
 144–145; telling the, 141, 142–145; try it: telling the truth, 146; understanding that even little lies are not the,
 143–144. See also Lies
- Turner Entertainment, 67
- TV One, 91
- U
- Union Square Hospitality Group
 (USHC), 106
- Universal Cable Production
 Studios, 21, 22, 33
- Untrustworthy leaders, 140
- USA Networks, 41
- V
- Viacom Entertainment Group, 112, 131–132
- Vision: ability to see possible
 futures, 25, 26–33;
 articulating with clarity and confidence, 25, 33–40;
 modeling your, 25, 40–43;
 seeing past obstacles to your,
 25, 43–47
- W
- Walking the talk: being passionate by, 52, 58–59; try it: walking your talk, 60

- Wall Street Journal*, 133
- Warehouse 13* (TV story), 21
- Water Lilies* (Monet), 98
- “We-focused” beliefs, 39–40
- “We” versus “I” perspective, 38
- Well-wishers: developing your growth areas by relying on your, 170–171; finding your own, 161, 162; key characteristics of, 161–162; leader stories on helpers that are, 158, 162–163; try it: finding your friends, 165
- Wild cards: developing your growth areas by staying alert for, 171; example of a great, 163–164; finding your own, 163; leader stories on helpers that are, 158; try it: finding your friends, 165
- Wisdom applications: try it: become a better learner, 94–96; try it: finding patterns, 99; try it: getting curious, 90; try it: put on your fair witness robes, 92
- Wisdom attribute: balancing the first three attributes as part of the, 84–85; considering all relevant information as, 86–87; core ideas on, 102–103; description of leader’s, 8, 9; fair witnessing as essence of, 85, 90; how to be wise, 87–102; Kathy Dore as example of having, 83–84, 94, 100–101; moral component of, 86; reassessing your own, 168; self-assessment of, 11; the three brothers story on having, 83; why we look for wisdom in our leaders, 87; Wonya Lucas as example of having, 91, 96–97
- Wise behaviors: actions based on moral beliefs, 100–102; assess situations objectivity (fair witness), 85, 90–92; being curious and ready to listen, 85, 88–90; the hero always follows the wizard’s advice in stories, 102; reflect on and learn from experience, 85, 92–96; see patterns and share insights with others, 85, 96–99
- Wizards: developing your growth areas by calling on your, 169–170; finding your own, 158–161; key characteristics of, 159; leader stories on helpers that are, 158; try it: finding your friends, 615
- Women in Cable Telecommunications (WICT), 96–97
- Wozniak, Steve, 24

Y

Yaccarino, Linda, 67, 75–76

Your journey development:
calling on your wizards to help, 169–170; relying on your well-wishers to help, 170–171; staying alert for wild card to help, 171

Your journey recommendations:
creating a hopeful self-talk statement, 172; identify which attribute is your greatest strength, 168–169; planning development in your growth areas, 169–171; self-assess your current leader attributes, 167–168

Your own tale: Accepted Leader Assessment for free to start, 173; beginning your own journey and, 5; getting help and support for your journey, 157–165; recommendations for starting your own journey and, 167–172; the three brothers story as an example of, 167

<http://www.pbookshop.com>

<http://www.pbookshop.com>