

CONTENTS

List of figures and tables x

01 Investigating and researching HR issues 1

Learning objectives 1

Researching HR issues 2

Getting started 3

What is research in HR? 10

What kind of researcher are you? 13

Requirements for student projects 21

Writing your research proposal 23

Key stakeholders and sources of support during your project 24

Working as a practitioner-researcher 29

Checklist 31

Test yourself 32

Review Questions 33

Explore Further 35

Useful Resources 35

References 35

02 First stages towards an HR project 36

Learning objectives 36

How to use this chapter 37

Deciding what to research and developing a credible justification for your project 39

Establishing the focus of the project 44

Approaches to research methodology 54

Research design issues 61

Access to data 69

Final preparations – project planning 72

Checklist 77

Test yourself 78

Review Questions 79

Useful Resources 81

References 81

- 03 Finding and reviewing HR literature and information sources 82
- Learning objectives 82
  - How to use this chapter 83
  - Why read, when to read and what to read 85
  - Different types of literature 87
  - Searching for and finding appropriate literature and information sources 90
  - Evaluating your sources 104
  - Reading the literature and making notes 104
  - Evaluation and analysis 108
  - The structure of the literature review 117
  - Referencing and citations 121
  - Checklist 127
  - Test yourself 128
  - Review Questions 129
  - Useful Resources 130
  - References 131
- 04 Ethics, professionalism, standards and HR research 132
- Learning objectives 132
  - How to use this chapter 133
  - Ethics and the HR profession 135
  - Ethics and standards for HR practice 138
  - Ethics, digitisation and data protection 140
  - HR research and research ethics 144
  - Research ethics at different stages of your project 157
  - The positive features of ethical assessment processes 167
  - Checklist 170
  - Test yourself 171
  - Review Questions 172
  - Useful Resources 173
  - References 174
- 05 Planning the research process 176
- Learning objectives 176
  - How to use this chapter 177
  - HRM research 179
  - Qualitative, quantitative and mixed methods research 180
  - Research, theory and practice 185
  - Data quality issues 192
  - Planning to gather data 196
  - Writing up the methodology 200
  - Checklist 201
  - Test yourself 202

Review Questions 203
Useful Resources 204
References 204

06 Finding and using documents and organisational evidence 205

Learning objectives 205
How to use this chapter 206
Different forms of documentary evidence 207
Using data from organisational management information systems 211
Finding and selecting appropriate secondary data sources 213
Analysing documentary and organisational information 220
Checklist 225
Test yourself 225
Review Questions 227
Useful Resources 228
References 228

07 Collecting and recording qualitative data 229

Learning objectives 229
How to use this chapter 230
The value of qualitative data in HR research 232
Observation and participation 234
Video methods 237
Data from individuals 239
Social media data 247
Focus groups 249
Sample selection for qualitative research 252
Making sense of the data 256
Checklist 257
Test yourself 258
Review Questions 260
Useful Resources 261
References 261

08 Analysing qualitative data 262

Learning objectives 262
How to use this chapter 263
The process of qualitative analysis 265
Categorising and coding data 271
The analysis process 275
Different analytical strategies 281
Discourse analysis 288
Use of software for qualitative data analysis 292
Data display processes 295

Evaluating explanations and formulating conclusions 301
Writing up your analysis 303
Checklist 304
Test yourself 305
Review Questions 307
Useful Resources 308
References 309

09 Collecting and recording quantitative data 310

Learning objectives 310
How to use this chapter 311
The uses of quantitative data in HR research 312
Sources of quantitative data 315
Undertaking your own survey 318
Administering surveys 336
Collecting, organising and presenting quantitative data 336
First level data analysis 350
Checklist 353
Test yourself 354
Review Questions 355
Useful Resources 357
References 357

10 Analysing quantitative data 359

Learning objectives 359
How to use this chapter 360
Quantitative data analysis in 'plain English' 362
An 'analysis route map' 366
Assessing the relationship between two variables 368
Analysing data to test hypotheses and answer research questions 389
Structural equation modelling 394
Checklist 399
Test yourself 400
Review Questions 401
Useful Resources 401
References 402

11 Writing up your project and making recommendations 403

Learning objectives 403
How to use this chapter 404
Why, what, when and for whom to write? 406
Structuring and organising your writing 411
Writing the conclusions, recommendations, abstract and personal reflection 418

Style and expression issues 422
Reviewing, revising and submitting your work 427
Checklist 430
Test yourself 431
Review Questions 432
Useful Resources 433
References 434

12 Making an impact: the relationship between research and practice 435

Learning objectives 435
How to use this chapter 436
Evidence-based HR 438
Generating impact from HR research 440
Communicating for engagement and impact 443
Bridging the practice–scholarship gap 451
Becoming an impactful practitioner-researcher 455
Checklist 458
Review Questions 459
Useful Resources 460
References 460

Glossary 462
Index 469