

Contents

|                  |   |           |
|------------------|---|-----------|
| Foreword         |   | xi        |
| Preface          |   | xiii      |
| Chapter 1 | Free to Choose in Value Land                                 | 1  |
|                  | Walter Schloss, Walter &amp; Edwin Schloss Associates |           |
|                  | Living through the Great Depression                                 | 5         |
|                  | The Meaning of Survival   | 7         |
|                  | Net-Nets  | 8         |
|                  | Setting the Right Pace  | 11        |
|                  | Know Thyself  | 15        |
| Chapter 2 | Once Upon a Time on Wall Street                              | 17 |
|                  | Irving Kahn, Kahn Brothers Group                      |           |
|                  | Becoming Graham's Disciple  | 22        |
|                  | Preaching Value   | 25        |
|                  | A Centenarian Diet  | 30        |

|                  |  |            |
|------------------|--|------------|
| Chapter 3 | The Making of a Contrarian                                  | 33  |
|                  | Thomas Kahn, Kahn Brothers Group                     |            |
|                  | A Modified Graham Approach   | 38         |
|                  | The Case for Obscure Securities                                    | 42         |
|                  | Market Reflection  | 45         |
| Chapter 4 | On the Shoulders of Value Giants                            | 47  |
|                  | William Browne, Tweedy, Browne Company               |            |
|                  | A Valuable Detour  | 52         |
|                  | Statistics and Beyond  | 54         |
|                  | Setting a Global Standard  | 56         |
|                  | The Social Science of Investing                                    | 59         |
|                  | The Market Ahead   | 61         |
| Chapter 5 | A Journey to the Center of Value                            | 65  |
|                  | Jean-Marie Eveillard, First Eagle Funds              |            |
|                  | Valley of Tears  | 70         |
|                  | The Inefficient Market   | 71         |
|                  | The Meaning of Value   | 74         |
|                  | The Courage to Say No  | 77         |
|                  | Seeking Protection   | 79         |
| Chapter 6 | The Self-Taught Value Spaniard                              | 83  |
|                  | Francisco García Paramés, Bestinver Asset Management |            |
|                  | On a Solo Value Hunt   | 88         |
|                  | Investing Made Simple  | 90         |
|                  | Austrian Economics and the Market                                  | 93         |
|                  | A Global Rebalancing   | 97         |
| Chapter 7 | The Income-Conscious Englishman                             | 101 |
|                  | Anthony Nutt, Jupiter Asset Management               |            |
|                  | A Victorian Mindset  | 105        |
|                  | Finding the Right Investment Culture                               | 108        |
|                  | Trusting Only Tangible Income                                      | 110        |
|                  | The Courage to Keep Going  | 114        |

|                   |   |            |
|-------------------|---|------------|
| Chapter 8  | The Frequent Value Traveler                          | 117 |
|                   | Mark Mobius, Templeton Emerging Markets Group |            |
|                   | Reading between the Minds                                   | 122        |
|                   | Thinking Big and Small                                      | 124        |
|                   | Trouble is Opportunity                                      | 126        |
|                   | Feeling the Market  | 130        |
| Chapter 9  | The Value-Oriented Businessman                       | 133 |
|                   | Teng Ngiek Lian, Target Asset Management      |            |
|                   | Learning the Numbers  | 136        |
|                   | The Art of Contrary Thinking                                | 138        |
|                   | Targeting Good Businesses in Asia                           | 141        |
|                   | The Relativity of Valuation                                 | 143        |
|                   | A Value Lifestyle   | 145        |
| Chapter 10 | Value Investing in the Last Decade                   | 149 |
|                   | Shuhei Abe, SPARX Group                       |            |
|                   | A Musical Beginning   | 153        |
|                   | Breaking the Language Barrier                               | 155        |
|                   | Learning from the West                                      | 156        |
|                   | The Evolution of SPARX                                      | 158        |
|                   | Building a Westernized Asia                                 | 160        |
|                   | Searching for Value   | 162        |
| Chapter 11 | Eternal Sunshine of the Value Mind                   | 165 |
|                   | V-Nee Yeh, Value Partners Group               |            |
|                   | A Multidisciplinary Path                                    | 168        |
|                   | Seeking a Comfortable Price                                 | 171        |
|                   | Finding a Value Partner                                     | 172        |
|                   | Spotting Value Minds  | 176        |
|                   | Becoming a Man of Value                                     | 178        |
| Chapter 12 | The Accidental Value Investor                        | 181 |
|                   | Cheah Cheng Hye, Value Partners Group         |            |
|                   | Starting an Investment Hobby Shop                           | 187        |
|                   | Building a Value Temple                                     | 189        |

|  |            |
|--|------------|
| An Industrialized Process                        | 191        |
| A Value March Forward                            | 195        |
| Chapter 13 The Making of a Value Investor | 199 |
| A Humble Portfolio Construction                  | 202        |
| The Art of Valuation                             | 204        |
| Reading for Ideas                                | 205        |
| More than Just the Fundamentals                  | 206        |
| Timing for an Exit                               | 208        |
| Having the Right Temperament                     | 209        |
| Acknowledgments                                  | 213        |
| About the Author                                 | 217        |
| Index  | 219        |

<http://www.pbookshop.com>