

Contents

Website Contents xvi
Figures, Tables, and Exhibits xvii
Foreword xxv
About the Authors xxix
About the Contributors xxxiii

Chapter 1 How to Read and Use This Fieldbook 1

Introduction 1
Key Definition 2
Why This Book? 2
What's Coming in This Book 5
The Best Way to Read This Book 7
Continuing the Discussion 9

SECTION I: Getting Started

Chapter 2	Why Games, Gamification, and Simulations for Learning? 13
	Chapter Questions 13
	Introduction 13
	Wrong Reasons 14
	Right Reasons 20
	Questions to Ponder 31
	Ensuring Success 31
	Key Takeaways 33
Chapter 3	Game, Gamification, or Simulation: Which Is Best, When, Why? 35
	Chapter Questions 35
	Introduction 36
	Games 37
	Gamification 54
	Simulations 58
	Selecting the Right ILE 63
	Key Takeaways 65
Chapter 4	Critical Questions for Creating an Interactive Learning Event 67
	Chapter Questions 67
	Introduction 67
	Foundational Questions 69
	Practical Questions 73
	Scoring and Assessment Questions 75
	Game Play Questions 79
	Key Takeaways 81

SECTION II: Basic ElementsChapter 5 Foundational Elements 89

Chapter Questions 89

Introduction 89

Feedback 90

Constructs 95

Challenge 98

Story 99

Key Takeaways 100

Chapter 6 The Importance of Narrative/Context/Story 103

Chapter Questions 103

Introduction 103

Overview of Storytelling 104

Elements of Storytelling 106

How Is Storytelling Different in ILEs? 107

The Goal-Based Scenario 109

The Role of Reality 110

The Predictable Unexpected 112

Architecting Your Story 112

Key Takeaways 115

Chapter 7 Making the Case 117

Chapter Questions 117

Introduction 117

Research-Based Justification 118

Return on Investment Justification 127

1. Identify the Need 129
 2. Determine Sponsor's Goals 132
 3. Decide How to Measure 133
 4. Dollarize the Measurements 134
 5. Conduct a Baseline Assessment 134
 6. Implement and Deliver the Game, Gamification, or Simulation 136
 7. Gather Post-Learning Data and Data from the Control Group 136
 8. Determine the Return 137
- Stealth Justification 139
- Key Takeaways 140

Chapter 8 Managing the Process 141

By Jim Kiggins

Chapter Questions 141

Introduction 141

The Process Required to Produce an Educational Game 142

Tips for a First-Time Producer 170

Key Takeaways 176

SECTION III: Design Considerations

Chapter 9 Where Do Find Ideas 179

Chapter Questions 179

Introduction 179

Play Games 180

Brainstorming Techniques 184

Shazam Session 191

Sharing Output 193

Key Takeaways 197

Chapter 10 Games 199

- Chapter Questions 199
- Introduction 199
- Designing a Game From Start to Finish 200
- Wireframing 209
- One-Page Design 211
- Paper Prototyping 212
- Storyboards 214
- Design Document 216
- Key Takeaways 217

Chapter 11 Gamification 219

- Chapter Questions 219
- Introduction 219
- Controversial Nature of Gamification 220
- Structural Gamification 224
- Avoid Learners Gaming the System 235
- Content Gamification 237
- Key Takeaways 246

Chapter 12 Simulations 249

- Chapter Questions 249
- Introduction 249
- Why Simulations Are Valuable for Learning 251
- Designing a Simulation 252
- The Illusion of Complexity 254
- Using Flowcharts 256
- Storytelling for Simulations 258

Creating Decisions for Simulations 259

Creating Simulation Feedback 263

Simulation Design Tool 264

Key Takeaways 269

SECTION IV: Development

Chapter 13 Technology Tools 273

By Helmut Doll

Chapter Questions 273

Introduction 273

Developing an Interactive Learning Experience 274

Development Terms 275

Template-Based Authoring Tools/Arcade-Style Games 276

Game Engines 278

Other Development Tools 280

Mobile Games 282

Adding Leaderboards or Badges 283

Key Takeaways 284

Chapter 14 Storyboarding 287

By Kevin Thorn

Chapter Questions 287

Introduction 287

Why Storyboarding Is Important 290

The Storyboarding Process 293

Storyboarding in Action 294

Storyboarding Simulations 298

Storyboarding Techniques 300

Key Takeaways 300

SECTION V: Case StudiesChapter 15 The Knowledge Guru 305By Sharon Boller*

Background 305

The Challenge 306

Why Game or Gamification? 307

Making the Case 309

The Solution 309

The Benefits and Results 316

Lessons Learned 317

Chapter 16 A Board Game: MPE 319*By Robert Bell*

Background 319

The Challenge 320

Why a Game? 321

Making the Case 323

The Solution 323

The Benefits 329

The Results 329

Lessons Learned 330

Chapter 17 Mobile Gamification: Mobile Cricket U 333*By Robert Gadd*

Background 333

The Challenge 334

Why Gamification? 336

Making the Case 337

The Solution 339

The Benefits 343

Lessons Learned 344

Chapter 18 Serious Game: Learning to Negotiate 347

By Bryan Austin

Background 347

The Challenge 348

Why a Game? 349

The Solution 350

The Benefits 355

The Results 355

Lessons Learned 356

Chapter 19 Structural Gamification for On-Boarding Employees 359

By Mohit Garg

Background 359

The Challenge 360

Why Gamification? 360

Making the Case 361

The Solution 363

The Results 365

Summary 368

Lessons Learned 368

Chapter 20 Medical Simulation 371

By Kevin R. Glover

Background 371

The Challenge 372

Why a Simulation? 375

Making the Case 378

The Solution 379

The Results 387

Lessons Learned 388

Chapter 21 Financial Game-Based Learning 391

By Andrew Hughes

Background 391

The Challenge 392

Why a Game? 392

Making the Case 392

The Solution 393

The Benefits 397

The Results 398

Lessons Learned 398

Chapter 22 Sales Training Game: An Avaya Case 399

By Anders Gronstedt

Background 399

Why a Game-Based Simulation? 400

The Solution 400

Benefits and Results 404

Lessons Learned 404

Glossary 405

Notes 417

Index 423

About ASTD 441

Website Contents

The following materials are available for download from www.wiley.com/go/kappfieldbook password: professional

Chapter Two

Case Study: Deloitte Leadership Academy
Getting Started Worksheet

Chapter Three

Games and Blooms Taxonomy
Games and Type of Knowledge
Games and the Affective Domain
Games and Psychomotor Skills

Chapter Four

Critical Questions

Chapter Six

Story Design Worksheet

Chapter Eight

Game Building Model
Sample Game Design Template

Chapter Ten

Best Practices
Pitfalls to Avoid
Pro-Social Gaming

Chapter Eleven

PepBoys Case Study

Figures, Tables, and Exhibits

Figures

- Figure 1.1. Reading the Book as a Team to Generate Discussions and New Ideas 9
- Figure 2.1. Deloitte Leadership Academy Profile Screen 25
- Figure 3.1. Determining Which ILE to Use Can Be Difficult 36
- Figure 3.2. Exploring the Jungle by Swinging Through the Trees 41
- Figure 4.1. Flowcharting Can Help Answer Some of the Questions a Team Might Have 68
- Figure 6.1. Converting a Written Story into an ILE Is Not as Easy as It Would Seem 108
- Figure 7.1. Researcher Hard at Work Studying Games for Learning 120
- Figure 8.1. Production Functions at Course Games 144
- Figure 8.2. A Model for Managing a Game Development Project 147

- Figure 8.3. Survival Master Game Launch Flowboard 156
- Figure 8.4. Survival Master Initial Architecture Game Database Model 157
- Figure 8.5. SMTE Prototype Online Multiplayer Game Architecture, circa 2008 159
- Figure 8.6. Survival Master Alpha LAN Multiplayer Game Architecture, circa 2011 160
- Figure 8.7. Survival Master Beta Game Enterprise Architecture, circa 2013 161
- Figure 8.8. Modified Scrum Production Model at Course Games 162
- Figure 8.9. Master Schedule Gantt and Sprint Burndown Chart Example 164
- Figure 8.10. Level Design Map for Survival Master Snowshoe Race Concept 168
- Figure 8.11. Proof of Concept Screenshot for Survival Master Snowshoe Race Level 168
- Figure 8.12. Beta Screenshots for Survival Master Snowshoe Race Level 169
- Figure 9.1. Moving from Idea to Finished Game, Gamification, or Simulation 181
- Figure 9.2. Creating a Mind Map for a Sales-Oriented Interactive Learning Experience 186
- Figure 9.3. Creating an Affinity Diagram on the Wall of the Conference Room 187
- Figure 9.4. Playtest a Prototype Before Full-Scale Development 188
- Figure 9.5. One-Page Design Document 196
- Figure 10.1. Personas Are Helpful for Keeping Your Audience in Mind 204
- Figure 10.2. Tower Defense Type Game (Garden Defense) 208
- Figure 10.3. 2-D Stealth Platformer (Devil's Advocate) 208
- Figure 10.4. Arcade Game Bullseye Trainer 209

- Figure 10.5. Sample Wireframe for a Mobile Device Game 210
- Figure 10.6. One-Page Design Created on a Whiteboard 212
- Figure 10.7. Finished Game Screen Based on the One-Page Design Document 213
- Figure 10.8. Using a Paper Prototype to Test Gameplay 214
- Figure 10.9. Storyboard Example from Devil's Advocate 215
- Figure 10.10. Storyboard Showing a Number of Thoughts from the Devil's Advocate Game 216
- Figure 11.1. First Day with the Star Chart—Secret to Parenthood 221
- Figure 11.2. Second Week with the Star Chart—Giving Out Candy Bars to Get Kids to Brush Teeth 221
- Figure 11.3. Collecting Badges 233
- Figure 12.1. Practicing Takeoffs and Safe Landings with a Flight Simulator 253
- Figure 12.2. Flowcharts Can Become Exponentially Complex 255
- Figure 12.3. Sample Simulation Flowchart 257
- Figure 13.1. Chart of Customization vs. Learning Curve 276
- Figure 13.2. Mobile Games Are Everywhere 282
- Figure 14.1. Pencil Sketch of a Storyboard 296
- Figure 14.2. More Formalized Storyboard 297
- Figure 14.3. Simulation Storyboard 299
- Figure 15.1. The Knowledge Guru Login Screen 310
- Figure 15.2. Narrative Screen Explaining How the Game Works 311
- Figure 15.3. The Mountains in the Game Are Topics to Cover 311
- Figure 15.4. Selecting a Path for Ascension Up the Mountain 312
- Figure 15.5. Players Can See Their Scores as They Answer Questions 313
- Figure 15.6. Incorrect Answers Receive Immediate Feedback 313
- Figure 15.7. Score Is Reset to Zero 314
- Figure 15.8. Detailed Data Is Provided for Each Learner 315

- Figure 16.1. Game Board for MPE Succeed 324
- Figure 16.2. Input Screen for the Web Portion of the Game 325
- Figure 16.3. Summary of Changes Screen for MPE Succeed 325
- Figure 16.4. Results Screen 326
- Figure 17.1. Custom User Experience with “My Games” Feature Enabled 335
- Figure 17.2. Game Profile Screen Used to Define Game Mechanics/Dynamics 337
- Figure 17.3. Game Mechanics/Dynamics Accessed via Online Web Browser 339
- Figure 17.4. Managing Formal and Informal Learning Elements Within a Game Profile 340
- Figure 17.5. Individual, Group, and Challenge-Based Leader Boards 341
- Figure 17.6. Defined Trophies and Badges for Selected Game Profile 342
- Figure 17.7. Game Selections, Game Details, and a Launched Assignment 342
- Figure 17.8. Post-Game Survey Results 344
- Figure 17.9. Online Cricket University Game Portal Interface (Planned) 345
- Figure 18.1. Practicing Versus Listening 350
- Figure 18.2. Main Character, Carlo Vecchio, Looking Out Over Venice 351
- Figure 18.3. Choosing a Negotiation Strategy 353
- Figure 18.4. Mentor Helping Carlo at Each Level of the Game 353
- Figure 18.5. Progress Can Be Monitored Throughout the Game 354
- Figure 18.6. Learners Receive Detailed Feedback 354
- Figure 19.1. Screen Captures from Gamification 364
- Figure 19.2. Gamification of Course 365
- Figure 20.1. The Introcan Safety® IV Catheter 373

- Figure 20.2. Advanced Four-Vein Venipuncture Task Training Aid and the SIMULUTION Adult Injection Training Arm 377
- Figure 20.3. Introcan Safety IV Catheter Print-Based Self-Study Learning Module 381
- Figure 20.4. Introcan Safety IV Catheter In-Service Education Video 381
- Figure 20.5. Introcan Safety IV Catheter In-Service Education Animation 382
- Figure 20.6. Limbs and Things Advanced Venipuncture Arm with Adjustable Venous Pressure “Attached” to a Live Patient, Providing Students with the Sense (and Stress) That They Are Performing the Venipuncture Procedure on a Real Patient 385
- Figure 20.7. The Laerdal Haptic (Tactile Feedback) Virtual IV Trainer 385
- Figure 20.8. Introcan Safety IV Catheter Simulated Presentations Are Videotaped and Those Demonstrating Best Practices Are Shared with Field Force Peers Who Were Not Present During the Simulated Performance 386
- Figure 21.1. Using an Island Theme for the Game 394
- Figure 21.2. Progressing on the Game Board 394
- Figure 21.3. Sample Game Question 395
- Figure 21.4. Calculator to Help Determine Savings Goals 395
- Figure 22.1. The Main Protagonist Provides a Mission to the Learner 401
- Figure 22.2. You Have to Be on Your Toes at All Times in This Learning Game 401
- Figure 22.3. Helping Cindy Conduct a Sales Call with the Client Through “Surveillance Video” 403
- Figure 22.4. AvayaLive Engage Is Used as Part of the Overall Game Because of the Flexibility to Update Content 403

Tables

- Table 2.1. Important Questions to Ponder Before Beginning Development 32
- Table 3.1. Original and Revised Cognitive Taxonomy 43
- Table 3.2. Bloom's Revised Taxonomy Matched with Game Activities 44
- Table 3.3. Affective Domain and Associated Definitions 47
- Table 3.4. Psychomotor Domain and Associated Definitions 48
- Table 3.5. Matching Content to Game Type 50
- Table 3.6. Matching the Learning Outcomes with the Right ILE 64
- Table 4.1. Matching the Need to the Learning Outcome and Providing Evidence of the Result 73
- Table 4.2. Identifying the Learners 76
- Table 4.3. An Example of a Completed Table 78
- Table 4.4. Summary of the "Winning" and "Losing" Conditions 81
- Table 4.5. Critical Questions for ILE Design 82
- Table 6.1. Storytelling Template for Games, Gamification, and Simulations 115
- Table 7.1. Game Elements and Research Supporting the Use of Those Elements for Learning 124
- Table 7.2. Selection Criteria for Justifying a Game, Gamification, or Simulation 130
- Table 7.3. Questions Related to Performance Metrics for Games, Gamification, and Simulations 134
- Table 7.4. Examples of Dollarizing Performance 135
- Table 7.5. Two-Group Comparison Study Results 138
- Table 7.6. Single-Group Pre/Post-Test Results 138
- Table 7.7. Costs and Benefits Calculations 139

- Table 8.1. Pre-Production Planning Checklist 149
- Table 8.2. Pre-Production Documentation Checklist 151
- Table 8.3. Learning Objectives for Educational Game 153
- Table 8.4. ISD to LDD Checklist 155
- Table 9.1. Elements of a Design Document 194
- Table 11.1. Use a Chart Like This to Keep Track of the Characters You Add to the Learning Module 240
- Table 19.1. Social Interaction Numbers 366

Exhibits

- Exhibit 8.1. Level Design Concept, Snowshoe Race 165
- Exhibit 12.1. Different Types of Decisions in a Simulation 261

<http://www.pbookshop.com>

<http://www.pbookshop.com>