

Contents

Foreword	v
Preface to the 2003 Edition	vii
Preface to the 2010 Edition	xi
Abbreviations	xiii
Table of Statutes	xxix
Table of European Legislation	xxxiii
Table of International Legislation	xxxv
Table of Cases	xxxvii

PART I INTRODUCTION

Chapter 1 Introduction to derivatives	1.1
Characteristics of derivatives	1.2
Evolution of the dealing market	1.13
Annex to Chapter 1	1.18
PART II THE TECHNOLOGY, THE PRODUCTS AND THE ISDA DEFINITIONS
Chapter 2 Basic structures, products and applications	2.1
Swaps	2.2
The second wave of innovation: new structures and fully paid transactions	2.5
Asset swaps	2.8
Chapter 3 The third and fourth waves of innovation	3.1
Examples of new markets	3.2
Currency products	3.3
Government bond options	3.8
Commodity (and other) derivatives	3.11
2005 ISDA commodity (and other) definitions	3.10

Inflation derivatives	3.21
Property index derivatives	3.22
Conclusion	3.23
Chapter 4 Equity derivatives	4.1
Background definitions	4.2
The products	4.3
Additional features	4.7
Settlement	4.10
Other unexpected events	4.13
Product refinements	4.19
Master confirmation agreements	4.20
Conclusion	4.21
Chapter 5 Credit derivatives	5.1
Description of credit derivatives	5.2
Why are they derivatives?	5.10
Uses of credit derivatives	5.11
Dealing market	5.15
Risks in treating credit as a derivative product	5.18
The new CDS market	5.23
Chapter 6 Credit derivatives documentation	6.1
Basic scope of protection and consideration	6.2
Credit events and obligations	6.7
Triggering performance	6.15
Settlement: cash, physical and auction	6.20
Auctions	6.27
Important boilerplate	6.28
Master confirmation agreement for the traditional CDS	6.32
Specialised products	6.33
The life of an index trade	6.35
Conclusions	6.36
Chapter 7 The non-dealing markets: structured products and structured financings	7.1
Background concepts	7.2
Tax driven transactions	7.6

Funding transactions	7.7
Securities with embedded derivatives	7.8
Rating agencies, listing and market-making	7.10
Structured note examples	7.11
Chapter 8 Special purpose entities, structures and synthetic securitisations and the credit crunch	8.1
Financial guaranty insurance	8.2
Rating agencies	8.3
Listing and market-making	8.4
SPE financings	8.5
The role of SPV financings in the credit crunch	8.12
CBOs, CLOs and CDOs	8.13
Synthetic securitisation	8.17
Elements of synthetic securitisations	8.19
Reference portfolio risk allocation	8.23
Creditworthiness of the issuer	8.30
Super senior tranche	8.36
Documentation and disclosure	8.37
Chapter 9 Derivatives risk	9.1
Market risk: general	9.2
Market risk: dealer	9.3
Market risk: end-users	9.8
Systemic risk: market risk	9.9
Credit risk	9.10
Systemic risk: credit risk	9.20
Conclusions	9.22
PART III THE LEGAL ISSUES
Chapter 10 Legal risk: the law, certainty and derivatives	10.1
Causes of legal uncertainty	10.2
Recharacterisation and abuse	10.3
Enron: a case study in smoke and mirrors	10.8
The control of legal risk	10.15
Chapter 11 Termination and close-out netting	11.1
Netting overview	11.2

Insolvency law overview	11.3
English insolvency laws	11.4
US insolvency laws	11.5
US banking legislation	11.10
Canadian cases	11.14
EU: Winding-up Directive	11.15
Chapter 12 Regulation of derivatives	12.1
Approaches to financial regulation	12.2
Purposes of financial regulation	12.6
Protection of the capital raising markets and the unsophisticated	12.7
Institutional regulation	12.9
Protection of access to (price of) sensitive commodities	12.14
Protection of the monetary system	12.15
Systemic risk	12.16
Case study: UK regulation	12.17
Case study: US regulation	12.22
Capital adequacy: international regulation of derivatives	12.36
Financial crises and OTC derivatives	12.60
The new European derivatives regime	12.68
Conclusion	12.69
Chapter 13 Capacity and authority	13.1
Power and capacity	13.2
Hammersmith and Fulham	13.3
Piraeus	13.9
Haugesund	13.10
Alabama Public School and College Authority	13.11
Regulated entities	13.12
Corporate authorisation	13.13
ISDA master agreement and individual transactions	13.16
Operational authority	13.17
Minmetals	13.18
Other non-standard counterparties	13.19
Externalisation of controls: end-users	13.20

Chapter 14 Relationship of dealer and end-user: a duty?	14.1
Pre-Bankers Trust cases	14.2
The Bankers Trust cases	14.3
Aftermath of the BTCo litigation	14.9
US cases post-BTCo and pre-credit crunch	14.13
The Enron cases	14.22
Recent English cases	14.23
Rabo and RBC	14.27
The CDO cases and the credit crunch cases	14.28
Municipal derivatives litigation	14.33
Lessons to be learned	14.34
Chapter 15 Tax and accounting	15.1
Tax	15.2
Accounting	15.8
Conclusions	15.12
PART IV THE ISDA MASTER AGREEMENT: DOCUMENTING THE RELATIONSHIP
Chapter 16 Evolution, overview, scope, governing law and negotiation	16.1
Financial agreements generally	16.2
Evolution of derivatives documentation	16.3
Overview of and choice between ISDA master agreements	16.4
Scope of transactions: use of one or more master agreements	16.5
Governing law and jurisdiction	16.10
Due diligence on counterparty	16.19
Negotiations and delays	16.20
Chapter 17 Relationship of the parties, trading, confirmations and transfers	17.1
Legal relationship	17.2
Offices, specified entities and credit support providers	17.7
Representations and supporting documents	17.13
Transaction execution	17.19
Liquidity: negotiated terminations and transfers	17.26
Chapter 18 Selected documentation issues	18.1
Short-term and delivery risk	18.2

Withholding tax provisions	18.6
Illegality, impossibility and force majeure	18.9
Events of default (section 5(a))	18.13
Event risk	18.22
Additional termination events	18.27
Chapter 19 Section 6	19.1
Summary	19.2
Termination	19.3
Determination of termination payment	19.5
Settlement: who pays?	19.14
Interest accrual and compensation	19.21
Special issues regarding the early termination date	19.22
A digression on standardisation: placement in the document and the user's guide	19.23
Annex A to Chapter 19	19.24
Annex B to Chapter 19	19.25
Chapter 20 Enforcement of derivatives documentation	20.1
Deal disputes	20.22
Financial provisions	20.3
Legal issues relating to section 6 of the ISDA master agreement	20.8
US cases: section 6	20.9
English cases: section 6	20.14
Australian cases	20.20
The role of boilerplate	20.22
English or New York law	20.23
Chapter 21 Credit support	21.1
Relationship of credit support to the ISDA master agreement: section 5(a)(iii)	21.2
Guarantees	21.3
Collateralisation: overview of the market	21.4
Collateralisation: legal risk	21.5
Common mistakes	21.9
ISDA credit support documentation	21.10
ISDA credit support annexes	21.11

Credit support annex (English law)	21.12
Credit support annex (New York law)	21.17
2001 ISDA margin provisions	21.18
Disputes	21.19
Overcollateralisation and other concerns	21.20
Digression on liquidity and credit	21.21
Annex A to Chapter 21 Key Defined Terms in ISDA Credit Support Documents	21.22
Chapter 22 ISDA documentation in non-standard contexts	22.1
Creative use of the credit support structure	22.2
Non-standard counterparties	22.3
Derivatives hedging a loan or in a structured financing	22.9
SPV financings	22.13
Other credit support structures	22.20
Credit derivative product companies	22.21
Structured cases	22.22
Chapter 23 The new derivatives world, or is it?	23.1
Trade processors and execution platforms	23.2
Prime brokers	23.3
Central counterparties	23.6
Conclusions	23.9
Appendix Selected definitions of derivatives
1984: Price and Henderson	A.A.1
1987: Price and Henderson	A.A.2
1987 ISDA Interest Rate and Currency Exchange Agreement	A.A.3
1989 FIRREA	A.A.4
1990 Amendments to US Bankruptcy Code	A.A.5
1992 ISDA Master Agreement	A.A.6
1993 CFTC Regulations	A.A.7
1994 German Insolvency Code	A.A.8
1995 Irish Netting Act	A.A.9
1995 South African Netting Law	A.A.10
1996 French Netting Act	A.A.11

